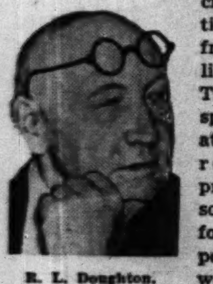
EX-RED SPY CHIEF FOUND DEAD

NEW DEBT LIMIT OF 65 BILLIONS VOTED BY HOUSE

G. O. P. Effort to Cut Figure Fails.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—The house today approved legislation increasing the national debt limit from 49 to 65 billions of dollars. The measure, sped to the senate without a record vote, presages burdensome new taxes for the American people, members were warned.



R. L. Doughton.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] of the ways and means committee, which initiates all tax bills in congress, told the house that the huge defense program must be met by governmental economies and greatly increased taxes.

"It is not only the duty but the obligation of congress to meet the defense bill by increasing taxes as far as the people are able to bear them," he declared.

Warn of Inflation.

Doughton did not detail the form which the new taxes will take. Other speakers noted that, in addition to heavier taxes, the people may find their insurance policies, savings, and wages endangered by the inflationary course which the government is pursuing in its vast spending program.

The ways and means committee chairman was complimented for his frankness by Representative Robert F. Rich [R., Pa.], who said it was time that the people learned of the sacrifices they must endure because of the multibillion dollar spending of the administration.

Republicans made an effort to confine the debt limit to 60 instead of 65 billions. An amendment to this effect by Representative Frank Crowther [R., N. Y.] was defeated, 148 to 105.

Dewey Denounces Bill.

Representative Charles S. Dewey [R., Ill.], who was assistant secretary of the treasury during the Coolidge administration, assailed the bill raising the debt limit as unwise, unnecessary, and demonstrative of the "loose thinking" which has characterized the Roosevelt fiscal policies.

"This bill proposes to raise the debt authorization to an astronomical sum," Dewey told the house. "My fellow citizens back in Illinois will be asking in no uncertain terms to what extent extravagance in government will go. In 1938 they paid 498 million dollars in internal revenue taxes—the second largest amount paid by any state in the Union. They will demand an accounting of us, both Republicans and Democrats.

"As I understand it, the estimate of total receipts for the fiscal year 1942 [beginning next July 1] is 9 billions of dollars. I think this is conservative, in view of rapidly expanding business and especially in view of the fact that it does not take into account any increase in taxes. But let us accept that figure.

Asks Why 25 Billions?

"The expected debt by next June 30 is 49.1 billions. That seems to be a reasonable estimate. If the 16 billions additional debt is authorized and we add to that the 9 billions of expected revenue, we must conclude that the expected expenditures for the fiscal year will be 25 billions. That just doesn't make sense—70 million dollars every day in the year!"

It was fantastic, Dewey said, to imagine the government spending 25 billions in a year.

"There should be at least a clearer indication of the necessity and purposes of such an expenditure," he declared. "The budget estimates call for an expenditure of 18 billions. Are we to assume that the extra 7 billions is for the petty cash account?"

Removes Tax Exemption.

In addition to increasing the debt limit, the bill removes all exemption from federal taxation from federal obligations issued in the future. It makes no change in existing law with respect to the taxation of federal securities by the states.

The national debt limit was raised from 45 billions to 49 billions last summer when a special issue of four billions in defense bonds was authorized by congress. Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. informed congress recently that, unless the debt limit was raised again, the government would exhaust its borrowing authority and be unable to meet its obligation in May.

CHURCHILL TALK WAS AIMED AT SENATE—CLARK

Senator Lodge Rips Dictator Bill.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Winston Churchill's radio address to the British empire yesterday actually was aimed at members of the senate foreign relations committee and constituted the British prime minister's testimony before the committee in favor of President Roosevelt's dictator bill, Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.] charged today.

Senators Clark [top] and Lodge.

The charge was made as the foreign relations committee completed its hearing of opposition witnesses to the measure. The long public hearings are scheduled to close tomorrow with Wendell Willkie, defeated Republican nominee for President, due to take the stand in support of the bill to grant Mr. Roosevelt unprecedented powers to lend or give away American war materials to foreign governments.

Lodge Blasts Measure.

While the committee was hearing Clark and others, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.] was bitterly attacking the dictator measure on the floor of the senate a few hundred rods away. Lodge charged that the vast provisions of the bill will increase greatly the danger that this country will be drawn into a foreign war which will necessitate the establishment of totalitarian government at home.

"To pass a definite, just, and reasonable bill as a salute to our hard pressed friends abroad is one thing," Lodge said. "That would be orderly. That would be constitutional. But to convey the power of life and death at the unlimited discretion of one man is something which I cannot do.

"If the President really wants us to go to war, let him bring in a message to congress to that effect and put the issue to a vote. The American people have a right to go to war if they want to. But they should do so of their own free will—deliberately—and not slip into it sideways without knowing what is happening to them until it is too late.

"There is such a thing as a declaration of war. To this I am opposed.

Wants "Reasonable Limits."

"There is such a thing as a bill to aid Britain. A concrete and definite bill, within reasonable limits that is just to all parties, will have my support.

"There is such a thing as a bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The only chance of reconstruction after the war will be thru union of the British empire and the United States, Col. Josiah Wedgewood, member of parliament, told a Leeds audience today. He said the union he suggested would guarantee foreign investors against losses.

He suggested federation between the two countries which would leave the door open to other free countries who might come in. This, he said, "would lead toward freedom, security, and peace," and stated that "if vested interests stand in the way they will have to be overcome."

"In perhaps 12 months, two years or three years," he declared, "we shall none of us have a penny left. We shall be starting from scratch. It is certain Americans never will invest in foreign countries again. They lost a billion and a half dollars from the last war in Germany alone."

Monterey, Calif., Feb. 10 (AP).—An ageing dog named Laddie and the master whom duty called to arms pushed canine death aside today in hushed reunion.

"Laddie, old boy, you don't look so good," Private Everett Scott of Chanute, Kas., said softly to a blanketed bundle unloaded from a plane.

"But we'll get him well again, won't we?" he asked, turning to fellow soldiers who had accompanied him to the airport from nearby Fort Ord.

The strapping youth showed less emotion than some of the other welcomers, but he none-the-less was grateful for the 2,000 mile trip on which the airedale was sent to join him.

Flicker of Recognition.

As for 10 year old Laddie, desperately ill and grieving since Scott left him three months ago, he could not do much to show his joy.

A brief wiggle among hot water bottles, a suddenly cocked ear, and a flicker of glazed eyes which spectators swore was born of recognition were his only contributions.

But the reunion in itself was a triumph of man's humanity to man—and dog.

He was flown from Kansas City, Mo., to San Francisco, Cal., and was brought here by private plane today. A blood transfusion from another dog and stimulants were given in the past week, but even then veterinarians were none too optimistic life would last.

But If He Lives—.

But now, if a long-loved voice and the finest care can do the trick, Laddie will become the mascot of the entire 7th division of nearly 15,000 men, and chase rabbits to his heart's content.

The dog was taken to specially prepared quarters by Lieut. Col. I. Lovell, Fort Ord veterinarian, who said after a brief examination that he was still in pretty bad shape.

Maj. Gen. Joseph. W. Stillwell, Fort Ord commandant, already has decreed that Laddie can stay near the master for whom he pined, and it was on special permission of the general that Scott and his invited soldier friends were on hand at the airport today.

BOY DROWNS AS ICE BREAKS IN RIVER SLIP; BROTHER, 12, RESCUED

Otto Svatik, 11 years old, 1912 South Throop street, drowned yesterday when he fell thru the ice in Stetson slip of the Chicago river at 23d and Laflin streets. His brother, Emil, 12, was rescued.

The two boys and a playmate, Vincent Bitterman, 11, of 1922 South Throop street, had been walking on the ice. Vincent returned to shore before the others broke thru.

Michael Mraz, 19, of 1905 Loomis street, and John Kobescak, 17, of 1920 South Throop street, heard the boys call for help and leaped into the water. Kobescak pulled Emil to safety. Mraz reached Otto, but the boy fought hysterically and broke Mraz's grip. Mraz himself was dragged to shore by Roy Barry, 23, owner of a boat moored nearby. Otto's body was recovered near the center of the slip, where the water is 18 feet deep.

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 11, Tuesday (AP).—The Yankee Clipper, carrying Harry L. Hopkins and 12 other passengers left at 1 a. m. today for Bolama, Portuguese West Africa, the first stop of the trans-Atlantic flight back to the United States. Hopkins, returning from a special mission to England as a representative of President Roosevelt, arrived here last night by plane. The clipper will follow the south Atlantic route.

BERLIN, Feb. 10.—University of Berlin students, including several co-eds, today became conductors on the city's trolley, subway, and elevated cars. They will work during the early morning hours, then attend classes, and on Sundays. By doing this work, they will make the day easier for mothers who are taking the jobs of their soldier husbands.

Louis' $25,000 Nest Egg Goes Back in the Till

In a way, saving money is a hobby with Louis A. Kronenberg. Since his marriage on Jan. 2, 1933, he has amassed about $25,000 worth of baby bonds, bank accounts, mortgages, postal savings, and insurance annuities.

There was only one trouble with his hobby.

The money belonged to S. Bloom, Inc., tobacco and liquor jobbers at 916 South Halsted street, where Kronenberg has been employed as cashier for 21 years. He made $38 a week.

Admits Thefts; Returns Assets.

Kronenberg, who lives at 4332 Van Buren street in a small apartment, was arrested Friday after his employers became suspicious when a check disappeared. He first admitted that he had taken $10 weekly for the last eight years, then said the total embezzled was about $25,000. He coöperated with Julius Sherwin, assistant state's attorney, in locating the following assets, which he readily signed over to the S. Bloom firm:

Savings and checking account	$ 4,732
Postal savings	4,842
Baby bonds	4,339
Mortgages	3,500
Insurance annuities	7,500
Total	$24,913

There also will be another $800 worth of baby bonds turned back to the firm after they are liquidated.

Kronenberg told Sherwin that he began stealing because he wanted to start a nest egg. He said he would take in sales money, tear up the sales slips, and pocket the cash without ringing it up in the register. Soon, he said, it got to be a habit.

Insists He "Borrowed" Money.

He insisted, however, that he had not stolen the money, merely borrowed it, and that he hadn't squandered any of it. Sherwin said Kronenberg had engaged in cash stock speculations during the last four years, breaking about even on 15 transactions, the largest involving an $1,800 purchase and resale of Dayton Rubber at a $200 profit.

Sherwin said Kronenberg would be booked Thursday on embezzlement charges. Meanwhile, he is in custody of the state's attorney's office.

Gen. Franco.

This, the report said, is to be the "supreme effort" by Il Duce to draw Spain into the war on the side of the axis.

Altho both Madrid and Rome maintained close silence, reliable sources in Vichy asserted that the Spanish leaders would travel thru France and that police authorities had ordered strong measures to assure their safety.

Petain May Go to Riviera.

Both in Vichy and Berlin, however, reports that they would visit those capitals after seeing Il Duce were denied.

A usually authoritative source in Vichy also said that Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain was leaving shortly to stay at his wife's estate at Villeneuve-Loubet, on the French Riviera, and it was regarded as possible he might meet Franco and Serrano Suner somewhere en route.

The two Spanish leaders, who are brothers-in-law, were said to have left Madrid by automobile this morning. These reports said they were expected to cross the French-Spanish frontier at Cerbère and drive along the French Riviera to the supposed meeting place with the two Italian leaders, at Ventimiglia, on the French-Italian border.

Pass Thru Barcelona.

Spanish sources said Franco and Serrano Suner passed thru Barcelona tonight and were spending the night at a small beach resort between Figueras and the frontier town of Port Bou.

They were expected to resume their automobile trip tomorrow, crossing the French frontier about noon. This pace would bring them to the French-Italian frontier late Thursday or early Friday.

Italy's increasing embarrassment over her military plight in Albania and North Africa was said in diplomatic quarters to have been one reason such a meeting was desired.

Eye Spain's African Ports.

In Vichy political observers speculated that the Spanish and Italian chiefs might discuss the possibility of an Italian-Spanish bloc as an auxiliary to the axis. No suggestion was made in any responsible quarter, however, that France would be included or that any conversation between Franco and Petain would be held for such a purpose.

Some observers here considered it likely that Italy was interested chiefly in Spain's North African ports as potential bases for axis warships. Germany and Italy have been reported pressing France unsuccessfully for use of the French naval base at Bizerte, Tunisia, and these sources said the axis now might be looking to Spain's Moroccan harbors as a substitute.

[One dispatch from Vichy suggested the possibility that Franco is serving as an intermediary and that some sort of negotiations may have been opened between Italy and Britain.]

MAY SEEK ISLAND BASES.

One reason for a Franco-Mussolini meeting might be Il Duce's desire to obtain air bases on Spanish soil, possibly the Balearic Islands.

Britain's naval attack Sunday on Genoa, in the most inaccessible corner of Italy's Mediterranean coast, was a display of sea power in the sea Italy calls "ours" which well may have made a profound impression in Rome.

The three major Balearic islands—Mallorca, Minorca, and Iviza—lying off the Spanish Mediterranean coast opposite Valencia, could prove valuable aerial outposts for defense of Italy's own home coast.

London Quashes Woman's Death Sentence for Treason

GEN. KRIVITSKY IS VICTIM OF GUN IN WASHINGTON

Sift Charge He Was Slain by GPU.

Revelation by Widow

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—Mrs. Tanya Krivitsky, whose husband was found shot to death in Washington, D. C., today, disclosed tonight that her husband left here last Wednesday on two missions. He was to see Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], before whose committee on un-American activities he already had given much information about red spy activities in the United States, and then he was to seek refuge for his family in Virginia. He hoped, Mrs. Krivitsky said, that by moving his family—herself and their 7 year old son, Alexander—out of New York, he might escape GPU assassins. The widow, who is in hiding, said her husband was warned a month ago that such an assassin was on his trail. Mrs. Krivitsky said the same man tried to kill her husband in Marseilles in 1937. She asserted, too, that Krivitsky had never owned a pistol in the United States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Mystery tonight enveloped the death of the man who had achieved wide fame as Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky, former chief of soviet Russia's secret police in middle Europe. He was found shot in a Capitol Hill hotel room today.

Based upon the evidence of a gaping wound in Krivitsky's right temple and the discovery of a .38 caliber automatic pistol at his side, Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald at first issued a certificate of suicide. This action was taken, however, when the dead man was known only as Walter Poref, the name under which he had registered at the hotel.

Certificate Held Up.

After Krivitsky's identity was learned the coroner announced that he would hold up the suicide certificate pending an investigation.

The lurid imaginations of murder fiction writers hardly could summon up more mystifying circumstances than those which made police puzzle over the death of Krivitsky. Against all the indications that he killed himself was the firm insistence of his attorney, Louis Waldman, and J. B. Matthews, chief investigator for the Dies committee, that he was slain for his forthright criticisms of Josef Stalin.

Krivitsky, who wrote a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post criticizing the Stalin régime, repeatedly had predicted that he would be slain by agents of Stalin.

There were other items which made the investigators wonder.

Find Three Letters in Room.

Three letters were found in Krivitsky's room. One was in English, addressed to Attorney Waldman, asking him to take care of his wife and son. Another in Russian, addressed to his wife and 7 year old son who are in New York, said "It is very difficult and I want to live very badly, but it is impossible." The third letter, written in German, was addressed to "Dear Suzanne."

Waldman said the "Dear Suzanne" letter was to a relative of Senator Robert M. La Follette and that she was a New York editor. Altho they appeared to be farewell letters, Waldman insisted they were forged by the Russian secret police. [Text of the letters appear on page 2.]

Events of the Day.

A chronological account of the incidents preceding and connected with the Krivitsky death follows:

At 10 o'clock this morning, Thelma Jackson, a chambermaid, attempted to enter Krivitsky's room on the fifth floor of the Bellevue hotel, a modest hostelry not far from Washington's Union station, frequented mainly by tourists and elderly government workers. She employed her pass key when she found the door locked. A safety latch on the door inside had not been used and hotel employés admitted that a skeleton key would permit access to any room in the hotel.

The maid saw a body lying on the bed. It was fully clothed except for coat and shoes. The pistol lay beside the body. The maid's screams brought the manager, who notified police under the name of Walter Poref at 5:49 o'clock last evening and had not been seen nor heard after that by hotel attachés. Donnelly said the man carried a small overnight bag of brown canvas with a zipper top. He said the man appeared nervous. He was given a single $2.50 a day room.

Joseph Donnelly, desk clerk, recalled that the man had registered

Found in the man's effects was a passport made out to Samuel Ginsberg [Krivitsky's name before he adopted a Russian name in accordance with a popular custom of communist leaders]. The passport indicated that he had entered the United States from Canada.

The bullet which killed Krivitsky had torn away the rear portion of his skull and was embedded in a wall of the hotel room. Investigators conjectured that an ordinary .38 caliber bullet would not have caused such damage and said it was possible that the pellet was of the dum-dum type, scored to spread its lead when it strikes its target.

Bombshell from Attorney.

The coroner reported that the man had been dead about five or six hours when found. That placed the time of the shooting at approximately 5 a. m. No person in the hotel could be found who had heard the shot, altho both rooms adjoining Krivitsky's were occupied. Only one shell from the pistol had been fired.

Supporters of the suicide theory noted that there was no fire escape leading to Krivitsky's room. They asserted that the locked door and this fact made the suggestion of murder improbable.

The "suicide" of Walter Poref, or Samuel Ginsberg, was a routine affair for several hours. Then came a startling development. Attorney Waldman announced to the press in New York that Gen. Krivitsky had been murdered in Washington. He added that Krivitsky had been cooperating with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington. Capital city police said they didn't know what Waldman was talking about.

Late in the day, Chief Investigator Matthews of the Dies committee investigating un-American activities, who knew Krivitsky for several years, was informed of Waldman's charge. He was also told of the finding of the body in the Bellevue hotel. Matthews hurried to the morgue, took one look at the body there, and announced:

Prediction By Trotsky.

"I visited Leon Trotsky in Mexico City in November, 1939, and he said it was just a matter of time before soviet agents got both Krivitsky and himself. [Trotsky was assassinated Aug. 21, 1940.]

"Krivitsky told me that the last thing on earth he would do was commit suicide. He said he was well supplied with money, that he loved his wife and child. He feared exactly what has happened—that he would be found dead with an appearance of suicide."

In May, 1939, Matthews said, Krivitsky called him from a Times square restaurant in New York City, asserting that soviet agents were shadowing him and intended to shoot him. Matthews called New York City police, he said, and Krivitsky was given a protective escort.

"The Red Judas."

Attorney Waldman said that Krivitsky lately has been shadowed "by one of the deadliest agents of the GPU." This person was said to be one Hans. Krivitsky had declared in his magazine writings that a "Hans, the Red Judas," had liquidated some of the general's closest friends and associates, including Ignace Reiss of the Red secret service, who was machine-gunned to death in September, 1939, on the Chamblandes road, outside of Lausanne in Switzerland.

Operating with the "Red Judas," according to Krivitsky, was a woman agent, Gertrude Schilbach. A strand of her gray hair was found in Reiss' hand when his body was picked up.

Meets Dies Investigator.

Waldman, when he arrived from New York tonight, was met at the station by Matthews and his first words to the committee investigator were, "Well, you see what they do to your witnesses, J. B."

Waldman told reporters that his client was to have testified last Friday before the Coudert committee, a New York state senate body investigating subversive activities in New York schools.

Waldman had been subenaed by the committee, with instructions to have his client Krivitsky appear. Waldman said he understood that Krivitsky, who had left New York on Wednesday, would return in time to attend the committee hearing. This morning he received a phone call from an official of the committee informing him that Krivitsky had not shown up.

Inspector Bernard Thompson of the Washington police said he was personally satisfied that Krivitsky was a suicide but that the case would not be closed until all doubt was removed.

Mystery Death of Gen. Krivitsky Recalls His Revelations Before the Dies Committee

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 [Special].—Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky, who was found mysteriously shot to death in a hotel here today, was a star witness before the Dies committee on un-American activities in October, 1939.

Before a wide-eyed crowd the witness declared that "undoubtedly" there were Russian secret agents in the United States army and navy.

Saying that he was born Samuel Ginsberg, he identified himself as a former high official of the soviet military intelligence system. A short, wiry individual with a lined, grim face, he gave the committee much inside information on what he said was the working of the international communist system.

17 Years a Spy.

He had had 17 years in the Russian military intelligence, he said, topped by two years as chief of intelligence for western Europe, including Germany.

His official connection with Russia ended in 1937, he said, when he broke with Stalin over the purge of that year.

Testifying in Russian thru an interpreter, he declared that 35,000 members of the Russian red army officers corps were "destroyed" by Stalin in 1937, that 300,000 or 400,000 other persons were exiled or imprisoned and "millions" interned in concentration camps.

Some Further "Revelations."

He also testified that:

Communist party leaders in Germany, Poland, and Hungary were recalled to Moscow and shot, despite the fact that they were not citizens of Russia.

Stalin is the "absolute" head of the communist party in the United States.

Stalin could not have accomplished "the great purge" of 1936-'37 without moral support" from other countries because so many elements were against him in his own country.

The GPU spies not only on foreign governments and on soviet diplomats —"from ambassadors to the lowest embassy official"—but also on citizens of other lands who express displeasure with Moscow.

The GPU kidnaps and murders persons, some of them non-Russians, on foreign soil—in drives against persons "considered" anti-Stalinites.

Gen. Krivitsky wrote a series of articles for the Saturday Evening Post exposing communist world intrigue. He is author of a book entitled "In Stalin's Secret Service."

Krivitsky told in his magazine series of negotiations between German and Russian agents and predicted the mutual assistance pact which later was signed by those countries.

Letters Found in Slain Russian Ex-Spy's Room

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—Coroner A. Magruder Macdonald made public the text of the three notes found in Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky's room. One was in Russian, another in German, and the other in English. All were written on sheets of stationery bearing the printed address of Charlottesville, Va. The one in English was written to Attorney Louis Waldman of New York, counsel for Krivitsky, who charged that his client was murdered by GPU [Russian secret police].

The note to Waldman follows:

"Dear Mr. Waldman:

"My wife and my boy will need your help. Please do for them what you can. WALTER KRIVITSKY.

"P. S. I went to Virginia because I know there I can get a gun. If my friends should have any trouble please help them, they did not know why I bought the gun."

Attorney Waldman said he was convinced that this note and the others made public were forgeries by GPU agents who wished to make Krivitsky's death seem a suicide.

Letter to His Wife.

The note in Russian was addressed to his wife and was translated as follows:

"Dear Tonio and Alek:

"It is very difficult but I want to live very badly. But it is impossible. I love you, my only one.

"It is difficult to write but think about me and you will understand that I have to go. Don't tell Alek yet where his father is going. I believe that in time you will tell him, because it will be best for him. Forgive, it is very hard to write. Take care of him and be a good mother to him and be always quiet and never get angry at him, he is very good and always very pale. Good people will help you, but not enemies. I think my sins are big. I see you Tonio and Alek. I embrace you. Yours,

"VELLA."

"P. S.: On the farm of Dobertov I wrote this yesterday, but I did not have any strength in New York. I did not have any business in Washington. I went to see Dobertov, because that is the only place I could get the firearms."

Pens Note to Friend.

The note in German was a follows:

"Dear Suzanne:

"I trust that you are well, and I am dying with the hope that you will help Tonio and my poor boy. You were a friend.

"Yours,

"WALTER."

"P. S. I also think about your brother and Dorothy."

Waldman said the note to Suzanne was to Miss Suzanne La Follette, whom he said was a relative of Senator La Follette and was a New York editor, living in the Chelsea hotel.

Devious Ways of OGPU.

Waldman declared few in America knew the "devious ways" in which the OGPU worked, and he pointed out that Gen. Krivitsky in his articles in 1939 in the Saturday Evening Post had described the mysterious ways in which many enemies of Russia had been murdered. Because of his knowledge of the OGPU, Mr. Waldman said Krivitsky was in mortal fear of his life and had told him so several times before he last saw him in New York, which he remembered as last Tuesday or Wednesday.

"The case is too important to close on circumstantial evidence," Waldman said. "The notes appear to be in his handwriting, but it must be remembered that the OGPU had specimens of Gen. Krivitsky's handwriting in several languages."

"The OGPU is expert in forgery, including the counterfeiting of money, which Gen. Krivitsky also revealed in his articles."

The OGPU agent, Waldman said, Gen. Krivitsky had insisted was on his trail was known only to them as "Hans." He did not know whether this was the first or last name.

REFUSES TO SEND PRISON FUGITIVE BACK TO ILLINOIS

Herman Spreitzer, 66 years old, who escaped in 1920 from the Joliet prison farm, where he was serving a sentence of 1 year to life for manslaughter, can continue to live in San Francisco, Cal., as a "fully rehabilitated member of society," Gov. Culbert L. Olson of California ruled yesterday.

Gov. Olson denied a request of Illinois authorities to extradite Spreitzer, a tailor. In a letter to Gov. Dwight H. Green he said that "where an individual has become a useful member of society, it does not appear that further imprisonment will benefit either the state or the individual."

Spreitzer, who was sentenced for a fatal stabbing in Cook county in 1915, was captured when his fingerprints were sent to Washington, D. C., after he had registered as an alien.

Private Employment Hits CCC; 601 Camp Jobs Open

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission announced yesterday that 601 vacancies exist in Civilian Conservation corps camps because of large scale employment by private industry. Applications for enrollment in the CCC may be made immediately by young men between the ages of 17 and 23½ years, it was stated. Formerly applicants were selected only in the months of January, April, July, and October.

WINANT CONFIRMED AS ENVOY TO LONDON; COHEN MAY GO AS AID

Washington, Feb. 10 [Special].—The senate confirmed unanimously today the nomination of John G. Winant to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Shortly after the confirmation it was reported that Benjamin V. Cohen of the New Deal team of Corcoran and Cohen will go to London as Winant's legal counselor.

The senate also approved the selection of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., of Pennsylvania, ambassador to Poland, to serve also as ambassador to the governments of Belgium, Norway, and the Netherlands at London.

MANY ITALIANS SLAIN AS GREEKS REPULSE ATTACK

Desperate Fascist Drives Beaten—Athens.

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Italians made desperate counterattacks on Greek lines in Albania in the last 24 hours but were repulsed every time, leaving the field strewn with dead and wounded, a government spokesman said tonight.

The thrusts were concentrated on the central Albanian front, where fierce fighting has been raging for the last 10 days.

"Italian infantry units received orders to penetrate our lines but on being greeted with intense fire withdrew, abandoning many dead and wounded," the spokesman said.

Heavy Losses Among Italians.

"The few survivors were dispersed and pursued by our men beyond their lines. At another point in the same region the Italians made another attack against positions held by our advance units. As soon as they met our fire they gave up after suffering heavy losses. A third attempt was frustrated at its start."

Among the dead, the spokesman said, were two Italian officers.

In still a fourth attack last night. in the Klisura area, the Italians were said to have been picked off by Greek gunners as fast as they left their trenches.

Fire At Close Range.

In one battle, dispatches said, the Greeks allowed Italian soldiers to approach within hand-grenade range and then cut loose with a terrific burst of machine gun and rifle fire. They said Greeks, with bayonets fixed, immediately counterattacked, forcing the Italians to withdraw.

The Greeks reported that 12 and possibly 15 Italian planes were shot down in Sunday raids on Salonika, Patras, Janina, Preveza and two places in the Peloponnesus peninsula, and in sky battles over the Klisura-Tepeleni sector in Albania.

Greek Troops Bombed.

ROME, Feb. 10 (AP).—The Italian high command today announced that Greeks on the Albanian front had suffered "considerable losses" in local actions. It said Italians bombed highway junctions, Greek defense works and Greek troops. The high command reported that Greek naval bases, the Corinth canal and military objectives were struck by bombs. Eleven "enemy" planes were reported shot down in air combat.

Finns Finish 1,000 Mile Line of Forts on Russian Border

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 10.—Finland's new permanent garrisons along her eastern frontier are near completion. Large details of troops which last summer lived in tents and dugouts now are comfortably housed.

The garrisons consist largely of small collapsible houses built in Finnish factories, whose exports have been curtailed by the war. Powerhouses, stables, and arsenals are underground. The garrisons are located in thick forests. All of the work, including road construction and the erection of sawmills, telephone, telegraph, and power lines was accomplished by the army.

Finish New Fortifications.

Work upon the new garrisons began after the Finns had finished their new line of fortifications which guard the country on the east. Beginning up at Petsamo, Arctic port, Finland's new Mannerheim line stretches for 1,000 miles southward to the Finnish gulf. Immeasurably better armed and prepared than she was at the outbreak of the 1939-'40 war with Russia, Finland again is ready to guard her independence.

Garrison buildings are separated and house only a small number of men as a protection against bombs. An unusual feature of Finnish army life is that noncommissioned officers live together with officers in their special buildings.

Large detachments of Finnish women and girls who are members of the Lotta Svard [auxiliary service] organization are garrisoned in special buildings. In many places they command the commissary department and perform lighter military duties.

New Crop of Athletes.

One garrison commander predicted that Finland would turn out better sportsmen and athletes than ever before because of the intensive training being given recruits. He said the soldiers experience the same training as colonists and they enjoy creating their new homes in the wilderness along the frontiers.

This winter has been another record breaker, but long, cold spells with the thermometer registering between 40 and 50 degrees below zero Fahrenheit have not impeded the construction of the camps. However, it has delayed the transport of food and supplies which must be brought long distances over roads on which snow plows operate most of the time.

CHARGES N. Y. GOT $1,800 RADIO MAN AT $10,000 COST

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—New York City ladled out $10,000 to conduct a special examination for an $1,800 a year position of radio announcer for station WNYC, the municipal radio station, it was charged today. Twenty examiners took nearly two years to prepare a list of eligibles for the test.

The charge was made by Emil K. Ellis, counsel of the city council committee that is investigating the municipal civil service committee, and Paul J. Kern, its president.

Ellis also alleged that, contrary to civil service law, a series of questions apparently calculated to learn a candidate's political philosophy was introduced into the test after one set of questions, arduously prepared, had been left unguarded and finally torn up.

NAZI DRIVE IN BULGARIA O. K.'D BY REDS, REPORT

Reject Sofia's Plea for Aid, Diplomats Say.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 10 (AP).—With German troops poised on her northern frontier, little Bulgaria has been informed by soviet Russia not to expect the Red army to march if Germany should swing into this country, reliable diplomatic quarters reported tonight.

Arkady A. Sobolev, a special Russian envoy to Sofia, was understood to have told Foreign Minister Ivan Popov and Premier Bogdan Philov that Russia was not prepared to give aid to Bulgaria if the Nazi army struck across Bulgaria's intervening 300 miles to get at Greece or Turkey.

[Russia's stand was a reversal of its attitude of last fall, when soviet pressure was reported in Bulgaria to have staved off German efforts to add that nation to Hungary and Rumania in the Balkan axis bloc.]

Recall Churchill's Warning.

Prime Minister Churchill of Britain yesterday recalled British efforts in the world war to persuade Bulgaria not to join "the losing side," and added, "I trust Bulgaria is not going to make the same mistake again."

This warning to Bulgaria was obvious, since British bombers are based in Greece to the south, and the press and radio of pro-British Turkey repeatedly have warned Bulgaria to stand firm against any German demands.

Churchill also suggested in his broadcast speech that German troops might have penetrated Bulgaria already but the government here denied this.

Britain's severance of diplomatic relations with Rumania also carried an implied threat that British bombers might roar across Bulgaria to bomb the German-occupied Rumanian oil fields.

Traditional Protector.

In this dilemma, Bulgaria reportedly asked Russia's attitude toward a possible move by the German army because Russia always has been regarded as the "Slavic" protector of King Boris' country and adverse to further Nazi penetration of the Balkans.

Russia has no land link with Bulgaria, but only a few miles of German held Rumanian territory separate the two countries. A waterway link is afforded by the Black sea, however.

A third recent reduction in Bulgarian train service, effective next Saturday, was announced by the government today. This recalled to observers here similar measures in Hungary and Rumania just before heavy German troops traffic taxed their rail facilities.

Two Front War Discounted.

BERLIN, Feb. 10 (AP).—Altho Britain severed relations with Rumania on the grounds that Germany is assembling an expeditionary force in Rumania, a German military spokesman insisted today that a two front war "is not in the realm of possibility."

The commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland, with foreign office connections, declared that "on the German side it is denied 100 per cent that German troops already are on Bulgarian airports," as Prime Minister Churchill said yesterday.

NEW JAPANESE ENVOY HERE ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, newly appointed Japanese ambassador to the United States, stopped in Chicago at the Drake hotel for luncheon yesterday on his way to Washington, D. C., where he will present his credentials to President Roosevelt.

Kichisaburo Nomura.

Admiral Nomura said he has come to the United States in the joint interests of this country and Japan. "Sooner or later our differences must be ironed out," said the ambassador. "America has placed embargoes on many things Japan needs; that trade must be resumed soon." He did not amplify the statement.

Admiral Nomura was a naval attaché in Washington during the world war and said that he had met President Roosevelt, then undersecretary of the navy, several times.

Purse Snatcher Jostles Woman; Flees with $3.90

BALKAN WARNING SEEN IN BRITAIN'S RUMANIAN BREAK

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP).—Britain's severance of diplomatic relations with Rumania today was described authoritatively as a pointed warning to other Balkan nations of what would happen if they bowed to German invaders.

The break does not necessarily mean Britain will attack military targets in Rumania, informed quarters said, but she now reserves "the right of action."

Build Expeditionary Force.

The government declared Germany "is building up in Rumania all the elements of an expeditionary force" and is using Rumanian territory "as a military base in furtherance of her plans for prosecuting the war." All this, it added, has happened without a word of dissent from the Bucharest government.

A Rumanian legation spokesman said no instructions had been received from Bucharest on leaving London, adding that the legation is carrying on as usual.

U. S. Minister Takes Over.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 10 (AP).—United States Minister Franklin Mott Gunther today arranged to take over Great Britain's remaining interests in this country, following the British breaking off of diplomatic relations. Sir Reginald Hoare, Britain's minister, informed Premier Ion Antonescu of the step, and then prepared to sail for Istanbul, Turkey.

There was no official Rumanian comment on the break, but everywhere one heard expressions of regret from the Rumanian man-in-the-street. Rumania, which once held British and French pledges of help in defense of her national life, and whose industry was financed largely by British money, has drifted far from her close association with Britain.

About 200 other British subjects live in Rumania, and many have indicated they will remain.

Bucharest was blacked out last night, and the blackout will be permanent hereafter, a decision taken, the newspaper Curentul said, because "there is danger of air attacks."

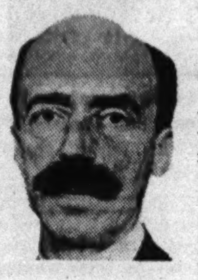
CALL FOR RETURN OF DEMOCRACIES EXCITES HUNGARY

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 10 (AP).—A statement by former Premier Count Stefan Bethlen, one of Hungary's elder statesmen, that "regardless of who wins the war, the world must return to democracy" has created a political sensation in this country, allied to the Rome-Berlin axis.



Count Bethlen.

Only carefully selected extracts of Bethlen's statement were permitted to appear in Hungarian newspapers, but these contained a declaration that "it is not logical to believe that the German form of dictatorship will be the final form of political life in other parts of Europe." Bethlen was lecturing before a literary society when he surprised his listeners by a political speech indicating his strong disbelief in German plans for the "new order."

"Humanity must come back to democracy, not the degenerate type which was the source of internal unrest, but a newer, cleaner democracy with better balance of power between different classes of society," Bethlen said.

2 BOYS KILLED ON 'L' TRACKS AT MORSE AVE.

Two Evanston Township High school pupils were killed last night when they were struck by a southbound elevated work train while they were on the tracks just north of the Morse avenue station, near Glenwood avenue, on the north side elevated branch. The victims were Frank Wozniak, 17 years old, of 1123 Pitner avenue, Evanston, and Peter Ferretti, 18, of 1815 Brown avenue, Evanston.

Peter Ferretti [top] and Frank Wozniak.

Members of their families said the two boys left home to go to the Golden Gloves fights. Sergt. Francis Donohue and Ollie Karwoski, coroner's investigators, were attempting to determine what the boys were doing on the tracks. Wozniak, according to Sergt. Ruddy Josephson, Rogers Park station, carried no money, while Ferretti had 15 cents. This was insufficient for two fares, and investigators were seeking to determine whether the boys had scaled the embankment north of the station.

Joseph Tracy, 36, of 1104 George street, motorman of the work train, did not know his train struck the boys. Evidence that his was the train was found later when equipment was examined in the yards.

Relatives, however, said they understood the boys started for the fights in an automobile.

RESIGN! BRITONS TELL LABORITE BRANDED A RED

LONDON, Feb. 10.—The Labor party of North Hammersmith district has asked D. N. Pritt, member of parliament, to resign his seat immediately. Pritt's supposed sympathies with communists and his prominence in connection with the so-called People's convention last month brought on the demand. Pritt tonight declared he had no intention of resigning.

BRITISH ICELAND FORCES RAIDED BY NAZI PLANES

Germans Claim Shipping Sunk Off Portugal.

BERLIN, Feb. 10 (AP).—German warplanes on the prowl over the Atlantic, hundreds of miles from their bases, were reported by the high command today to have attacked British occupied Iceland and also to have sunk "merchantmen totalling 24,500 tons" out of a British convoy 300 miles off Portugal.

In the longest of these two flights, informed Nazis said, armed reconnaissance planes dived yesterday with machine guns blazing on the British held airdrome at Reykjavik, Iceland's capital. Reykjavik, on the southwest coast, is about 1,000 miles from the nearest German air bases in Norway.

[London sources described the German attack yesterday as "one of their periodical reconnaissance trips" and said there were no British casualties.]

In the second long flight, the German high command said that the warship escorted convoy off Portugal was "completely dispersed" and that, in addition to the unspecified number of ships sunk, four others were "seriously damaged."

The high command said that other German air force units last night "effectively bombed" a patrol boat off the east coast of Scotland.

Capture 6 Nazi Flyers.

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 10 (AP).—Six members of the crew of a German bomber which was forced down in Portugal last night were arrested tonight near Santo Aleixo, a few miles from the Spanish border. The four engine bomber landed near Moura, about 43 miles southeast of Lisbon and about 70 miles from the Spanish border.

The plane was far south of the usual zone of Nazi air operations and observers expressed belief it may have been one of those reported to have raided a British convoy off Portugal on Sunday. Curious peasants were held back by the crewmen while they changed to civilian clothes, set their craft afire and fled.

Raid Germany in Daylight.

LONDON, Feb. 11, Tuesday (AP).—Taking advantage of the clearest, calmest day of the year, British bombers yesterday raided northwest Germany in broad daylight and also made three successive raids on Boulogne, Dunkirk, and Calais.

The air ministry early today said the raids on the three German occupied French ports "were not on a large scale, but full reports show the bombing of docks and shipping was most effective."

The daylight raid on Germany was the first the ministry had reported. All British aircraft returned safely from the "successful" raid, the communique said. Three fighter planes were missing after the flight over Boulogne, Dunkirk, and Calais.

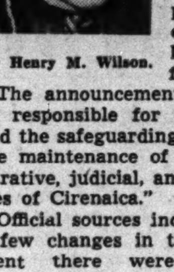
[Berlin sources said the British lost seven planes during the attack on Dunkirk and that one more was destroyed over Germany.]

The air ministry announced that damage had been inflicted on a German destroyer convoying supply ships off Norway on Sunday.

Only single and scattered German raiders were over Britain yesterday and last night and the single night alarm in London was a short one.

BRITISH APPOINT GENERAL AS HEAD OF EAST LIBYA

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 10 (AP).—The British today announced the appointment of Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of the army of the Nile, as "military governor and general officer commander in chief" of Cirenaica, embracing the two provinces of eastern Libya which have been won from the Italians.



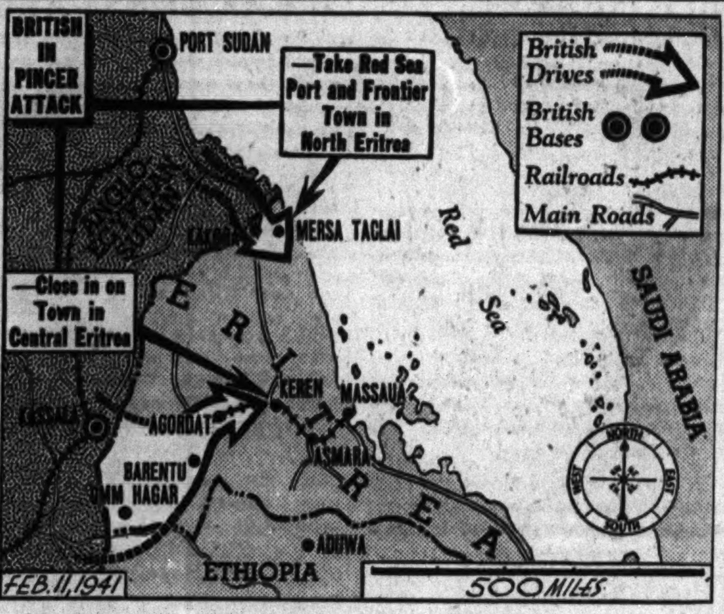
Sir Henry M. Wilson.

The announcement said he would be responsible for "law and order and the safeguarding of property and the maintenance of essential administrative, judicial, and technical services of Cirenaica."

Official sources indicated that only a few changes in the local government there were contemplated. Where possible, they said, Libyan mayors would remain in office and the people would continue to pay the same taxes.

Wilson gave up his command as general officer in Egypt to take over the Cirenaican post, but in the latter capacity still will be in command in the field of any operations from that territory.

British Occupy Red Sea Port



British troops yesterday occupied the Red sea port of Mersa Taclai in Eritrea, oldest colony of Italy's East African empire. The drive in the north is expected to join with the drive to Keren to complete a pincer movement.

BRITISH CAPTURE RED SEA PORT IN PINCER ATTACK

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 10 (AP).—British forces smashing southward thru Eritrea in a massive nutcracker offensive have occupied the Red sea port of Mersa Taclai, the middle east command announced today.

The new drive against Eritrea, oldest colony of Italy's East African empire, was launched from the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan on the north. It is designed to join forces with the one which already has penetrated 110 miles from the west to the rail town of Keren.

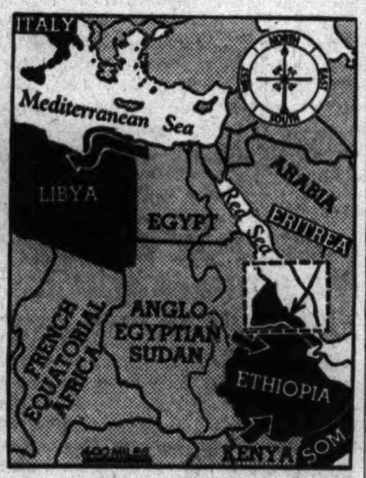
Besides Mersa Taclai, 40 miles down the coast from the Sudan frontier, the British announced the capture of Kakora, small frontier town 40 miles northwest of the seized port.

Bomb Eritrean Capital.

Supporting the land operations in East Africa, British bombers were reported to have bombed Keren and Asmara, Eritrean capital, 40 miles to the south. British troops were reported steadily closing in on Keren, despite stubborn Italian resistance, and preparing to storm the town.

On the Ethiopian front South African forces were reported to have penetrated 50 miles into the Italian conquered kingdom in the Hobak area east of Lake Rudolf, "capturing huge quantities of war material." In Italian Somaliland, to the east, the British said intensive patrol activity continued.

In launching their seaboard drive into Eritrea the British knocked the props from the Italian boast that it would be in this sector they would launch their campaign against Port Sudan, Red sea port 140 miles up the coast.



Area covered by large map is indicated by broken lined rectangle. Arrows outlined in white show other British drives in Africa.

Report Italian Retreat.

Reports from this front said the Italians, facing the prospect of being cut off completely from the south, made a precipitate retreat.

In North Africa, where the British are reported to have negotiated 200 miles of the 600 mile stretch between them and Tripoli, the war bulletin said British mopping up operations were "proceeding satisfactorily" up to El Agheila, little barracks outpost 180 miles southwest of Bengazi.

Bombers of the fleet air arm, ranging ahead of the ground troops in Libya, were reported to have pounded the seaplane base of Tripoli itself Saturday night. Participating pilots said a hangar was set afire.

REPORT ITALIANS TO EXPEL ALIENS LIVING IN SICILY

ROME, Feb. 10 (AP).—Reports that all foreigners living in Sicily other than Germans would have to leave that island, now site of a German air base, were received in foreign circles here tonight.

This is in keeping with the policy of keeping foreigners away from war zones of particular importance.

About 5,000 persons holding American citizenship are believed to be in Sicily, but most of them are of Italian birth.

Tells of Attack on Genoa.

British warships which slipped thru a dawn haze Sunday to bombard Italy's chief port of Genoa, on the northwest coast, were reported by the Italian high command to have caused "enormous damage" to dwellings, killed 72 persons and wounded 226.

Military objectives in the ancient city, which was destroyed by the Carthaginians in 209 B. C., were said to have escaped harm. The high command said Italian planes pursued the British warship after the attack and scored a bomb hit on a cruiser.

[In London the British admiralty reported that four big British men o' war "with light forces in company" rained more than 300 tons of shells into the naval base at Genoa, smashing power plants, factories, warehouses, oil tanks, docks, and shipping. Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a Sunday night broadcast to the empire, called Genoa a base "from which perhaps a Nazi German expedition might soon have sailed to attack Gen. Weygand [French commander] in Algeria or Tunis."] Say Italy Is Britain's Objective.

LONDON, Feb. 10 (AP).—Italy herself is Britain's Mediterranean objective, informed military quarters asserted today.

"Bombs, shells and more bombs and shells" on the Italian peninsula, from Brindisi to Turin, is the British program, they said.

These same quarters scoffed at reports of an imminent offensive against Tripoli by the British army in North Africa. It was emphasized in responsible quarters that with the air and naval base of Bengazi, Libya, under the Union Jack, the British air force and navy would concentrate on hammering Italy to her knees.

There is little chance of invasion of Italy until Britain has secured a port nearer than any she now holds, neutral military experts declared.

Valona, Albanian port on the Adriatic toward which the Greeks have been pushing for two months, is such a port.

DARLAN IS GIVEN RIGHT TO SUCCEED MARSHAL PETAIN

VICHY, France, Feb. 10 (AP).—Admiral Jean Darlan officially became successor-designate to Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain tonight with powers equal to those exercised by his predecessor, the pro-Nazi Pierre Laval. The latter was ousted by Petain on Dec. 13.

A decree designating Darlan, now foreign minister as well as minister of navy, as vice president of the council of ministers specified that should Petain for any reason be unable to exercise his functions as chief of state, "Darlan will assume this duty."

Should Darlan be unable to function, a person designated by a majority vote of the council of ministers would act until a chief of state could be selected.

Darlan's powers also will include the right to "direct and control actions of the ministers and secretaries of the state" on important policies, subject to the authority of Petain, as was Laval.

RED TAPE CLOGS WARTIME WORK, BRITONS CHARGE

Demand Parliament Act to Eliminate Abuses.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 10.—As a result of criticisms made by the people, the press and members of parliament, action is expected this week to determine whether:

1. "The government is wasting time and money" because of the "widespread muddle in many government departments";

2. Families of men in the services are receiving sufficient allowances to insure proper nutrition—at present it is asserted they are not;

3. Firms allowed quotas of raw materials under the limitation of supplies order have been trading them to others and creating a "racket."

4. Small shopkeepers are unjustly deprived of supplies, such as tobacco and other goods as against canteens of the Y. M. C. A. and other organizations which do not pay taxes;

5. It is advisable to add a long list of foodstuffs to the list of rationed goods, such as canned fruits, vegetables, fish, and condensed milk.

Urge Use of Business Men.

The parliamentary committee on national expenditures is urged to recommend immediate enrollment of business men to prevent disorganiation and duplication of efforts. It is charged, for instance, that the ministry of food has been transporting large supplies of bread from one town to another where every facility to make bread exists, thus causing a waste of transport. Coal also is said to be shipped 200 miles, tho it could be obtained 40 miles away. Railways are said to be blocking the use of water transport of coal.

Bungling also is said to exist in the department of transport where many trucks of the thousands commandeered by the government have not done a day's work yet.

The weekly periodical, People, said "stupid competition still prevails between big munitions departments in regard to transport and, while prices and supplies are controlled, one department, in its eagerness to obtain trucks, is outbidding the others."

Difficult for Young Officers.

Capt. H. D. R. Margesson, parliamentary undersecretary for the treasury, is inquiring into the questions of pay allowances, especially for junior officers. He is said to have been much impressed by a report that young officers are finding it difficult to marry, while promising men in the ranks who likely will make good officers are refusing to consider commissions because to do so would mean the loss of the marriage allowances.

A special writer in the Sunday Express declared that an "elaborate organization apparently dealing in bogus quotas [for raw materials which automatically become invalid if the factory is destroyed] has been reported to the board of trade, which has called in Scotland Yard" to put a stop to this racket.

Food Minister Lord Woolton is being asked to prevent the wealthier classes from snapping up supplies of rationed goods. It is suggested that with proper distribution of eggs, cheese and other scarce products it might be better to serve each family with a specified quota instead of the present system under which the amount purchasable is restricted only by the price. The working classes are urging use of the quota system.

WIFE OF BRITISH LORD JAILED ON DEFENSE CHARGE

LONDON, Feb. 10.—Lady Howard, a native of Hungary and wife of Lord Howard of Effingham, heir to the earl of Effingham, has been jailed under the defense regulations, it was announced today. Details were not disclosed.

Lady Howard acquired British nationality thru her marriage in October, 1938, to Lord Howard, member of one of the oldest families in England. Howard was 32 years old and his wife 26.

Lady Howard is the daughter of a Budapest business man who has acquired Polish nationality. Her maiden name was Maria Malvin Gertler. Recently she took an active part in making clothing for refugee French and British children. At the outbreak of war Lord Howard joined the Royal Air Force.

WAR VETS URGED TO LEAD ATTACK ON DICTATOR BILL

Edward F. McGinnis, chairman of the veterans division of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, yesterday appealed to war veterans to lead the drive for defeat of the war distatorship bill. He urged them to arouse the country to the necessity for writing members of congress and demanding that they vote against the legislation.

E. F. McGinnis.

"War veterans should lead this fight," said McGinnis, a past commander of the Cook county council, American Legion, "because they know the horrors of war. They should realize that war is certain if the bill is passed, and that the stand against this bill may well be the last stand of democracy."

He estimated that if another American expeditionary force goes to Europe its dead will be numbered in the hundreds of thousands. Mrs. Mabel Swift, chairman of the Gold Star Mothers section of the America First group, asked mothers of world war dead to join in the drive.

Howard G. Swann, physiology professor at the University of Chicago, told a meeting of the Sons of the Revolution yesterday that America is leaping into war. Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the Inland Steel company, told the Junior Association of Commerce that war can be avoided if the American people proceed sanely and coolly to find a method of staying clear of war.

Army Names 2 Chicagoans to Construction Posts

Army officials in Washington, D. C., announced yesterday that two Chicagoans have been appointed staff executives for construction projects in the Chicago quartermaster zone. Robert Isham Randolph, former president of the Association of Commerce, was chosen engineer, and Charles Herrick Hammond, a former vice president of the Association of Commerce, was chosen architect.

Start Crusade Today

Members of the Mothers' Crusade to Defeat Bill 1776 will board the Capitol Limited at 3:50 p. m. today for a mass descent on Washington.

The Chicago contingent will fill several cars, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling, one of the organizers, and will be joined on the train by women from South Bend, Milwaukee, and Dubuque, Ia. In Washington their forces will be augmented by women from New York, Detroit, and Cleveland, who will join them in urging senators to protest against passage of the bill.

Sixteen members of the Flossmoor League of Women Voters met yesterday to sign a resolution condemning the recent indorsement of H. R. 1776 by the national board of the League of Women Voters. The action, they said, was "hasty, ill considered and contrary to the customary procedure of this organization."

MIDWEST GROUP WARNS WILLKIE ON DICTATOR BILL

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 10 [Special].—Wendell Willkie was reminded today in a telegram signed by 500 leaders of the Committee of One Million that in his forthcoming testimony for the dictator bill he speaks only for himself and not for those who supported him in the election. Signers of the telegram included the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, one time Huey Long associate in Louisiana and former sponsor of the national "share-the-wealth" movement. Smith is chairman of the Committee of One Million.

"We are suspicious of those with whom you are associated in New York City," the telegram said, "especially the J. P. Morgan interests, and we are afraid that your dramatic trip to England has been planned for proppaganda purposes.

"Your free and easy fraternization with the same Washington burocrats against whom you warned us in the recent campaign has disillusioned us,"

Nearly all of the 500 signers, Smith said, are residents of Ohio, Michigan and Indiana.

Janet Fairbank Urges Blow at Measure.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 [Special].—Mrs. Janet A. Fairbank of Chicago, former Democratic national committee woman from Illinois and an official of the American First committee, arrived here today to support the O'Neill legislative resolution condemning the Roosevelt dictator bill pending before the United States senate.

Condemning the bill as an abolition by congress of its constitutional powers, the resolution, offered by Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove], is scheduled for debate in the house of representatives tomorrow.

Gov. Dwight H. Green has taken no stand on the resolution, answering "no comment" to all questions. This position he repeated to Mrs. Fairbank, he said, despite her impression that he had taken a definite position during their conversation.

Holds House Should Speak.

She said she believed it proper for the Illinois legislature to express to congress the demands of the people "at a time like this." The governor agrees with this position, he told reporters on Friday.

"I think the attitude of the Illinois legislature would have a tremendous effect in Washington," Mrs. Fairbank said.

Tomorrow's action is expected to come shortly after the house convenes and immediately after a report by Rep. Reed F. Cutler [R., Lewistown], that the executive committee, of which he is chairman, has sent the resolution to the house floor without recommendation.

Debate May be Long.

Mrs. O'Neill will then move for adoption of the resolution. Her speech will open the debate. How much discussion will follow there is no way of gauging, but the matter has aroused intense interest and the debate may be prolonged.

About 100 Chicago women are expected to attend.

AMERICA FIRST GROUP REVISES LIST OF SPONSORS

JAPS TAKE GRIP ON INDO-CHINA PORT OF SAIGON

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Feb. 10 (AP).—Japan appeared today to have established a military foothold in this chief sea and air port of southern French Indo-China by unheralded infiltration.

Arrow locates port where Japanese have taken foothold.

Japanese soldiers guarded four newly arrived Japanese bombers which were serviced at Saigon airport by Japanese mechanics while Japanese officers set up headquarters in offices of the Air France company at the airdrome. The Japanese force there exceeded 50 men.

For the first time, Japanese soldiers were seen on the streets of Saigon. Apparently these and the air force personnel had arrived by the bombers or the 5,170-ton cruiser Abukuma, which steamed up the Saigon river this morning to relieve the Natori, its sister ship. The Natori then departed.

BABY FLOWN 2,000 MILES TO REMOVE PEANUT IN LUNG

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 10 [Special].—Alma M. Lloyd, a farmer, reached here tonight with his year old son, Alma Scott Lloyd, after a 2,000 mile plane trip from Soda Springs, Idaho, so that an operation may be performed to remove a peanut lodged in the child's right lung. The kernel has produced an infection and given the boy a cold.

The operation will be performed in the Chevalier Jackson bronchoscopic clinic of Temple university hospital.

The child swallowed the kernel last month. Physicians in Salt Lake City failed in an attempt to remove it. Two abcesses of the lung developed and Sunday night the father, considering an operation imperative to save his son's life, drove 200 miles from his ranch home to Salt Lake City, where he and the child boarded the plane at 5:10 a. m. [Chicago time] today. United Air Lines rerouted the plane to Philadelphia, where Dr. C. Lawrence Jackson, head of the clinic, will perform the operation.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & Co

Kirsten Flagstad listens to her own records on a Scott . . . to judge with an artist's uncanny sense the exact gradations of her voice . . . as only a Scott reproduces them!

If you listen, as the great artists listen to recorded music, you wish to hear those fractional tones, those whispers of sound, which define and enrich the pattern of music. If you listen with a Scott, there truly seems to be nothing between you and the artist . . . you listen as to a "living performance," virtually unchanged by reproduction, undimmed, brilliantly alive.

Kirsten Flagstad whose magic voice is a glorious test, writes of her Scott: "I did not believe it possible for any reproducing instrument to possess the tone quality and faithfulness of reproduction that your instrument so marvelously provides. My own records, when played on a Scott, not only appear to approach the fidelity only experienced when listening to an actual concert, but they really open to me an entirely new field of enjoyment of recorded music."

And Madame Flagstad adds, "I am only sorry that I have neglected to obtain one of your remarkable instruments long before this time."

Surely if you will spend half an hour at our studios—listening to orchestras, gentle strings, voices such as Flagstad's, or any of the wealth of music that is yours to name—you will come away thrilled by the knowledge that at last a radio instrument has been created to bring you all that is rewarding in fine music.

REPORT U. S. WAR TOOLS CHURCHILL ASKED ARE READY

Passage of Aid Bill May Free 500 Million Worth.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 [Special].—Great Britain will obtain about 500 million dollars' worth of the United States war "tools" which Prime Minister Winston Churchill called for yesterday in a radio address immediately on passage of the dictatorship bill, it was revealed in official quarters today.

It was asserted that the treasury is compiling a list of airplanes, field artillery, machine guns, merchant ships, and other supplies which could be made available to the British from the United States stocks without stripping the American armed forces.

It was said that "some" flying fortresses were among the airplanes which would be assigned to Britain after passage of the bill. The field guns to be shipped, the same source said, consisted entirely of world war 75s, which might not be of great use in Britain, but could be used in other areas where Britain and her allies are fighting.

May Lease Merchant Ships.

As far as merchant ships flying the United States flag are concerned, as many as can be spared will be sold, leased, or lent to Britain. A list of merchant vessels which officials regarded as dispensable is being compiled.

With Danish ships in American ports being diverted to South American service, officials said that many United States merchant vessels might be freed for transfer.

Altho the dictatorship bill as it passed the house authorized transfer of 1 billion 300 million dollars' worth of war materials purchased under prior appropriations, care is being exercised not to ship arms needed here, officials said.

President Roosevelt is considering the question of utilizing some of the country's surplus farm commodities, including cotton, in providing aid to Great Britain under the measure, Senator Richard B. Russell [D., Ga.] said after a White House conference.

Applies to Farm Products.

"The suggestion has been made that the lease-lend bill applies to agricultural products, and there seems general agreement that it does," Senator Russell told reporters.

"I am, therefore, very hopeful that some of our surplus agricultural commodities, particularly cotton, can be handled thru the bill. The government is one of the largest owners of surplus cotton and undoubtedly it is one of the most necessary articles for carrying on the war. The President is considering the matter."

Secretary Cordell Hull said the state department is urging other agencies of the government to bring about the speediest possible production of war materials. The primary policy of safety for the United States thru aiding Britain is based upon quick turnout, he said in commenting on Churchill's speech.

CHURCHILL TALK WAS AIMED AT SENATE—CLARK

Senator Lodge Denounces Dictator Bill.

to establish internal dictatorship. For this I will not vote.

"Let us call things by their proper names.

"Not only does this bill increase the danger of foreign war and the danger of totalitarian control at home, but it enables the President at his discretion to enter into such alliances with such foreign nations as suit him. Most of us had thought that an alliance with a foreign nation was a matter to be embodied in a treaty and ratified by a two-thirds vote of the senate. This is what our constitution says. This is what we have always done in the past.

"Money and Blood."

"If the President alone is to have the power to put the United States into alliance with foreign countries, the people ought to know it. If the President has this power, there is no limit to the number of international organizations which we might be required in the future to join—and underwrite with our money and blood.

"Indeed, the powers which are given to the President in this bill can have such a far-reaching effect on our internal structure as to make it unrecognizable. It is not for the executive, the legislative, or the judicial branches to change this democratic government of ours by direct or indirect action. This government belongs to the people and lawful methods are provided in their constitution for making changes by the people.

"The provisions of this gift bill endanger some of our most precious values. Its provisions authorizing the seizure of belligerent ships in our waters and its language permitting the repair of belligerent vessels in our ports clearly increase the danger of our entry into war—and if we are at war, what happens to individual freedom?

Gifts of Weapons.

"The weapons which can be sent abroad under the terms of this bill unquestionably could seriously weaken our army and navy. If we intervene in a war not of our own making, we lose, as has so often happened before.

"We are berated by the nations we oppose and forgotten and criticized by the nations we presume to help. And how will our neighbors in Latin America square this further step toward war with the pacific sentiments of our good neighbor policy?"

Lodge noted that the bill, altho proposed as an "aid for Britain bill," mentions neither Britain, Greece, nor China anywhere in the text. Even if the people know the President's preferences among nations now, he asked, how can they be sure of his "continuity." The average individual thinks of aiding Britain in terms of supplying funds which will aid in the development of production, the senator said. He continued:

"But this bill empowers the President to give as much of our army and navy weapons as he chooses and as much of our money as he chooses to any nation that he chooses. Why the demand for these powers? They cannot be explained on the basis of aid to Brtiain."

Witnesses Before Committee.

Witnesses at today's senate committee hearing included Merwin K. Hart, chairman of the New York State Economic council; Judge John A. Matthews, of the chancery court, South Orange, N. J.; Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union [C. I. O.], and Mrs. Rosa M. Farber, chairman of the Mothers of the United States.

All told of their distrust of the President's program as indicated in his recent utterances and assailed the pending measure as one which would put this nation irrevocably on the road to war.

Hart several times declared his belief that the bill will provide the President with ample authority for ordering American warships to convoy British supply vessels across the Atlantic. Senator Clark suggested that this might be prevented if congress refuses to appropriate the funds to finance such an enterprise.

But—For How Long?

"But no one knows for how long when we pass this bill," interposed Clark, who then declared:

"Churchill, in his statement before this committee yesterday—and that's what his radio speech really was," said Clark, "said the empire's life lines across the ocean are being kept open but that more shipping will be needed. Yet there is no bill like this pending in Canada. Britain is still required to pay dollar exchanges for what it gets in Canada. And it is a fact that Canada has vastly expanded its industrial resources to compete with this country after the war."

Hart, under questioning by Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., La.], asserted that the bill, which would abrogate existing laws prohibiting arming of United States merchantmen, sending merchant ships into the war zones, and the seizure of vessels of belligerant nations in this country's ports, would in effect put the nation into a working partnership with Great Britain.

"All the progress of the last 150 years would be wiped out at the stroke of a pen," he exclaimed. "We would be scrapping our declaration of independence and the constitution."

He then suggested amending the measure to provide for setting up British dollar exchanges in this country thru the purchase of Great Britain's island possessions in the western hemisphere.

"But you don't understand," wrathfully burst out Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] a leading noninterventionist. "This bill cannot be changed. We can't touch it. We've got to take it as is, whether we like it or not."

Hart in his statement earlier had expressed himself as unalterably opposed to the bill, which he declared would probably lead this nation into war, and result in the impoverishment and destruction of the republic.

He noted that Great Britain is now spending 42 million dollars a day in the prosecution of hostilities against Nazi Germany. Since the population of the United States is three times that of Britain, he said, it is not unfair to suppose that if the United States entered the war it would be required to spend from 100 to 250 million dollars a day. In less than four years of warfare at this rate of spending, the witness concluded, the United States would incur a national debt approximating the entire wealth of the nation.

Discusses Casualty Tags.

He asked whether there can be any doubt that "several times the 2 million men sent to Europe in 1917-'18 would be required to conquer the continent in the face of an army of 6 million Germans." Does any one doubt, he inquired, that the war department will find ample needs for the 4½ million casualty tags recently ordered.

"In effect," Hart asserted gravely, "the American people, probably the only solvent nation left on earth, are being asked to endorse a promissory note without knowing the amount or the purpose thereof, nor even the names of all the makers. As security for the note will go first the savings of 130 million Americans as well as the lives of uncounted millions of our youth. And as further security we would give, in all human probability, our sacred liberty."

Asked by Senator Clark whether the powers conveyed by the bill might not be taken to mean giving war materials to soviet Russia, Hart replied:

"The day after the measure is passed, the President could drop England and take up with Russia if that suited his purpose."

Judge Matthews' Testimony.

Judge Matthews, who said he was appearing in his capacity as a private citizen, told the committee he is the father of seven sons, one of whom has registered for the draft and one who is old enough to fight in case of war.

"The mother of these sons and I, like the mothers and fathers of all American sons, have a deep concern about this bill," he said. "I know that I speak the views of the vast majority of such mothers and fathers in what I say about the dangerous implications of this bill."

Mrs. Farber, whose organization of mothers, with headquarters in Detroit, Mich., lobbied in vain against passage of the conscription bill last summer when Senator Claude Pepper [D., Fla.] was hanged in effigy on the capitol lawn, termed the dictator measure a "push-us-into-war bill." She declared it has aroused the apprehensions of American mothers, who regard it as a preliminary to setting up the wartime industrial mobilization plan in peacetime.

"An Alien Program."

"This bill," she said, "is part and parcel of an alien program to destroy the security of our homes and the respect for our women and to nullify the God-given right of parenthood over children."

Labor in America and the American people are determined to remain at peace and not be drawn into the European conflict, warned Curran.

British Freighter Capsizes in Bay

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

The 5,791 ton British freighter Ramon de Larrinaga turned over on her portside three miles offshore in the Delaware breakwater yesterday. Shifting cargo of pig iron in a heavy sea caused the accident.

Sailors Rescued

Lewes, Del., Feb. 10 (AP).—The 5,791 ton British freighter Ramon de Larrinaga, loaded with what a coast guard officer said was pig iron, capsized three miles off shore in the Delaware breakwater today.

Several of her crew of 48 fell into the icy water but all but one were rescued. A fireman, Archibald McLean, 21 years old, was feared lost. One man received a broken leg. Eight others were injured less seriously.

The vessel, bound from Philadelphia, Pa., to England, was towed to the breakwater last night after developing a dangerous list Friday night 75 miles off Atlantic City, N. J. Heavy seas had caused the cargo to shift.

The crew and Capt. F. P. Ryan of Birkenhead, England, were taken to the Lewes coast guard station. Capt. Ryan said wartime orders prevented him from discussing the accident.

WAR OR NO WAR THE ISSUE NOW, TAFT DECLARES

Discounts Fear Germans Can Invade America.

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—Members of the Economic club at a dinner tonight were told by Senator Robert A. Taft [R., O.], that the issue before the American people no longer is aid to Britain, but "shall our aid be short of war, or shall we declare war on Germany if that will aid Britain."

Senator Robert A. Taft.

Powerful influences, Senator Taft said, are urging the American people toward war. He said powers granted by President Roosevelt's war dictator bill would enable him to sit behind the scenes as the protagonist of the anti-Hitler forces and direct those forces for war or for peace.

Taft accused President Roosevelt of name calling for the purpose of concealing failure to send real and material aid to Britain. If the President had desired merely to aid Britain, he added, a bill to extend that aid in the most effective way could have been put thru congress in two weeks.

Play With 130 Million Pawns.

"I am tired," said Taft, "of the statesmen who look upon war as a game to be played with 130 million pawns. It is not unselfish of you and me to send other people's sons to war. I have little respect for those who protest that they are for peace, altho the logical conclusion of their every argument is that we should go to war.

"Whether the President will exercise the power he seeks I do not know, but nine-tenths of the movies, three fourths of the influential newspapers, most of the columnists and many members of the government are doing all they can to shake what has been the overwhelming desire of the American people to remain at peace.

"The argument most strongly urged today is that defeat of Britain would be fatal to this country and would mean an immediate military attack. Hitler, it is said, will invade the United States either directly across the ocean or by way of South America. This is asserted as a fact by reckless interventionists like Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and implied by the President. How it possibly can be done never is spelled out. To my mind it is utterly impossible.

Hitler Invasion Unlikely.

"In the first place it is extremely unlikely that Hitler would attempt such an expedition. The alarmists picture a unified Europe coöperating with Germany against the United States. As a matter of fact, Hitler will be badly tangled in trying to govern a dozen different races in Europe, none of them pleased with his rule. He has a turbulent people who will not easily obey their own rulers, much less the Germans whom they hate."

Senator Taft explained his belief in the impossibility of an invasion of the United States either by way of Greenland and Newfoundland or by way of Africa. He supported this belief with liberal quotations from testimony given earlier in the week before the senate foreign affairs committee when maps were displayed showing distances between Germany and the United States and the military problems involved.

"To my mind," said Taft, "the spectacle of the secretary of war [Henry L. Stimson] and the secretary of the navy preaching the doctrine that the United States, with 50 per cent more population than Germany and the greatest industrial capacity in the world, is unable to defend itself against a country 3,000 miles away is something every American ought deeply to resent. I hope they are not really as scared as they represent.

Policy of Scaring the People.

"The truth is that long before their appointments both secretaries believed in going to war or taking action which almost certainly would lead to war. They pursued a policy of scaring the American people into conscription long before they had the means of taking care of the men. The country was ruined unless we had 800,000 men in camp by Jan. 1. We haven't 50,000 draftees in camp today.

"The second bogey man dangled before us as a cause for war is the claim that our trade will be destroyed in the event of German victory. Undoubtedly Germany is going to be a competitor for world markets, but it will be a competitor no matter who wins.

"War is a vain policy. It defeats its own end. A war for democracy destroys democracy. A war for trade costs more than the trade is worth and finally peace must be made, perhaps no different than what could have been made in the beginning."

DEMANDS SENATE INVESTIGATION OF DEFENSE BUYING

Missourian Raps System Aiding Big Firms.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 [Special].—Drawing attention to rumors of irregularities, favoritism, and lack of ethics and common sense in the award of defense contracts, Senator Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] today demanded an investigation of every contract made between the government and private contractors.

Harry S. Truman.

Senator Truman offered a resolution that would authorize a senate committee to examine not only the contracts, but to inquire into the financial aspects of the entire defense program. He added that concentration of contracts in an area smaller than England had convinced him that the policy of the administration is to make the big manufacturer bigger and let the little men shift for themselves.

Midwest Assets Raided.

Senator Truman told about a survey made within a 100 mile radius of Kansas City, Mo., by the Mid-Central War Resources board. The board, he said, found 160 small machine shops and manufacturing plants which might combine facilities and take a defense contract. A similar survey made in St. Louis and surrounding territory revealed the same situation.

"When this information was put up to the defense commission," said Truman, "an attempt was made to find out where the machines were located so the big fellows could go and buy them, shipping them to Detroit and eastern industrial cities.

"They are hiring our young men and shipping them to the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards and to Detroit, leaving us denuded of manpower as well as machines and making double the housing problem. It leaves our cities with vacant property which is depreciating in value rapidly and creates conditions in the industrial centers where housing problems have to be met. It just doesn't make sense."

Explains Award System.

Senator Truman then explained how defense construction contracts have been awarded. Contractors, he said, are required to file their qualifications with the quartermaster general along with a financial statement and reasons why they believe they have the ability to perform work under the government's fixed fee contract system.

This information, he said, is turned over to the construction advisory board, which consists of three men whom he identified as F. Blossom, F. Harvey, and F. Dresser. He said Blossom is a member of the New York contracting firm, Sanderson and Porter; Dresser a former employé of the United States Housing authority and a former contractor in the middle west, and he did not further identify Harvey.

Truman charged that many contract awards have been traced to a connection between the contractor and Dresser. He denounced contract awards on the basis of friendship alone and was particularly irate over the award of an 8 million dollar arms plant in Lake City, Mo., to Wahlbridg & Aldinger of Detroit and Foley Brothers of St. Paul, Minn., neither geographically located nor better equipped than local contractors. He said the senior member of the firm was a particular friend of Dresser.

Chicago Firm Under Fire.

Senator Truman said John Griffiths & Son Construction company of Chicago got a 6 million dollar contract for Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., and that he had been told the firm was bankrupt five years ago. He added that the bankrupt charge needed further verification.

"It is my opinion," Senator Truman concluded, "from the things I have heard, that the violation of ethics and common sense are just as flagrant in the letting of contracts for the navy. I consider public funds sacred funds, and I think they ought to have every safeguard possible to prevent them from being misused and mishandled."

Reynolds put London right in your lap

ALREADY this war has developed its ace correspondent—Quentin Reynolds of Collier's.

He crawled out of a pillbox up front in France when Hitler exploded the magic of the Maginot line. He bobbed up across the channel in London in time for the all-out bombings. He's been up with the R.A.F. bombers and down with the Royal Navy's submarines. Between 'em he's ridden the convoys through the channel and up the Thames.

Millions have been drawn closer to suffering London by his straight-forward narration in the film "London Can Take It" and the subsequent cinema document "Christmas Under Fire." His new book "The Wounded Don't Cry" is in its twelfth printing. These activities and his lectures are merely incident to his job of keeping Collier's readers supplied with the facts that active, thinking persons want to know.

Reynolds works the Collier's way: get the news first, interpret it correctly, present it clearly. Before Hitler made Europe the news center of the world Reynolds' reporting of the Haiti massacre (a clean beat of even the daily newspapers' press associations) was read into the Congressional Record.

And, Mr. Advertiser, it isn't such a long cry as you think from London's bomb shelters to the store in Sioux Falls where you're hoping to sell more of your refrigerators or canned goods or straw hats.

Collier's whole magazine is built the Reynolds way—quick, authoritative, inviting—every page, every week of the year. That's what makes Collier's closer to its readers than any other multimillion magazine—closer to the modern, active, earning, spending millions who will buy your wares.

OF INTEREST TO ADVERTISERS!

In building a magazine so that millions of active, modern-thinking people really reach for it each week, Collier's has built a tremendous, responsive market for the advertiser.

No combination of other weekly magazines can reach more than 34.4% of this market.

Collier's shorter copy closing dates enable you to reach it faster. Collier's lavish use of color and smart make-up assure maximum visibility for your advertising.

Says Vice President Bennett Moore of Liberty Mutual Insurance Company:

"It was not by 'guess' that Liberty Mutual used more space in Collier's in 1940 than ever before to sell automobile insurance. We know that Collier's is an active market.

"The response from Collier's, both in number and cost per coupon lead received, has remained highly favorable for five years.

"The character of the leads has been uniformly high.

POSTOFFICE AND TREASURY BILLS SENT TO HOUSE

$1,146,394,496 Approved by Committee.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—A bill appropriating $1,146,394,496 for the treasury and post office departments for the 1942 fiscal year beginning July 1, was sent to the house today by its appropriations committee.

It provided $304,330,185, including expansion of coast guard defense and neutrality duties, for the treasury department and $842,064,311 for the post office department. Both totals were slightly lower than President Roosevelt's budget estimates.

The committee also recommended a 375 million dollar WPA fund to last until July 1.

Defense Causes Increase.

The treasury total represented a $5,600,000 increase over the current year's appropriation, primarily because of additional defense work. The committee asked congress to appropriate $62,193,150 for the coast guard an increase of $18,959,440 over the 1941 figure. It also approved a $6,370,000 contract authorization fund.

The coast guard program, in addition to regular activities, includes: Personnel increases, $5,121,342; installation of searchlights, depth finders, antiaircraft machine guns, radios, and purchase of gas masks, $1,500,000; three new 327-foot cutters, 5 millions; and fourteen smaller cutters, $2,165,000.

The total recommended for the post office department was $26,572,134 higher than the current year's appropriation and $3,948,276 below the budget estimates.

Asks Saving on Stamps.

The committee advocated that six-cent air mail stamps be printed in only one color to save money. Funds for domestic air mail transportation were fixed at $21,280,327, an increase of $840,128. A decrease of $769,318 in foreign air mail funds was provided, making the amount for that service $15,477,831.

The committee recommended an appropriation of $135,618,350, an increase of 20 per cent, for the internal revenue bureau to permit a more careful examination of income tax returns in the upper brackets.

The committee rejected a budget bureau recommendation that the post office department appropriation include an item of $1,229,736 for the American Export Airlines to operate one trip a week in trans-Atlantic air mail service.

More Asked for Army.

An appropriation of $680,118,000, mostly to construct buildings and utilities at military posts, was asked of congress today by President Roosevelt.

The appropriation would be a supplemental one, in addition to funds already granted the war department for the current fiscal year. The President said the $609,000,000 appropriated during the last session of congress for emergecy housing for an army of 1,190,000 men was based on estimates which were "much too low."

$90,000 DAMAGES SOUGHT IN COP'S 'JOYRIDE' CRASH

Two damage suits, seeking a total of $90,000, were filed in Superior court yesterday as outgrowths of the automobile accident last Feb. 21 in which a squad car driven by Frank Hansen, former Hazel Crest policeman, crashed into the automobile of William J. Knapp at 95th and Halsted streets. Knapp and Evan A. Flora, a passenger in Hansen's car, were killed. Hansen was sentenced to serve 1 to 14 years in prison for manslaughter, but is free on bond pending an appeal.

In one suit, Knapp's widow, Marge, sued Hansen for $10,000. The other suit seeks $40,000 for Mrs. Knapp and an equal amount for her daughter, Marleene, 17 months old, under the dram shop act. Defendants in this case are Charles Novak Jr., owner of a building at 12318 South Halsted street; Evelyn Gilbert, operator of a tavern in the building; Frances Veltman, owner of a building in Hazel Crest, and Clara Alexander, owner of a tavern in Veltman's building. The suit asserts that Hansen was served intoxicating liquors in the taverns prior to his "joyride" crash.

ILLINOIS DRAFT QUOTA IN MARCH FIXED AT 10,039

Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service, announced yesterday the March draft quota for Illinois will be 10,039 men, almost double the February quota of 5,123.

Harold Christensen [top], and Howard Christensen.

The Cook county office announced additional quotas totaling 508 men in be inducted into the army Feb. 21 thru 25 by 59 draft boards. Including these quotas, Cook county has been tapped for 1,760 men out of the 2,867 scheduled for call in February.

Meanwhile 292 men from 38 draft boards outside Cook county reported at the 122d regiment armory for induction. All except eight were volunteers. Among the group were Harold and Howard Christensen, 21 years old, of Clifton, Iroquois county, the first twins to report at the armory. They were volunteers. The induction station was reopened yesterday after a two-week layoff and inductions will continue five days a week thru Feb. 28, with about 300 men reporting daily. They will go to Fort Sheridan, and to Fort Custer, Mich.

DRYS URGE BILL TO BAR LIQUOR SALE TO SOLDIERS

Approximately 175 members of the Illinois Prohibition party of Cook county, meeting for their annual Lincoln day dinner yesterday in the Hamilton hotel, adopted a resolution urging Senators Wayland Brooks and Scott W. Lucas to introduce a joint bill which would have the effect of barring the sale of liquor to Illinois National Guardsmen and draftees in military service.

The resolution proposed a bill "to abolish the sale of intoxicating liquor in all communities within a radius of 20 miles of any army training camp where Illinois National Guardsmen or draftees are in training." The resolution, introduced by Paul E. Thurlow, a Chicago attorney, also asked all Illinois congressmen to support the measure.

2,000 CELEBRATE SCOUTS' 30 YEARS OF ACHIEVEMENT

Leaders Honored at Dinner of Chicago Council.

More than 2,000 scouts and their friends filled the grand ballroom of the Palmer House last night at the 30th annual meeting and dinner of the Chicago council of the Boy Scouts of America.

The enthusiasm that has carried the scout movement along since it was founded in 1910 was evident as every one present, from Cubs to gray-haired veterans of 30 years scouting, joined in the celebration.

Achievement Recognized.

One of the highlights of the evening was the recognition given 243 scouts who during 1940 achieved eagle or quartermaster rank. They marched in a body on to a platform where Harvey G. Ellerd, vice president of the Chicago council, praised their success. He emphasized that such achievement can be won by any boy in the United States, no matter what his creed or color.

In another ceremony, seven Cubs of Pack 3014 presented Silver Beaver awards—the highest scouting honor that can be given to volunteer leaders—to A. S. Barnes, one of the founders of Troop 342; the Rev. Walter H. Chelminski, director of the scouting division of the Catholic Youth Organization; Carl E. Hallen, committeeman of Troop 875; James J. Hurley, member of the southwest district executive committee; Carl R. Keeler, assistant field commissioner for Cubbing, Northwest district; Clarence M. Olson, member of the southwest district executive committee, and Joseph U. Sheridan, district commodore of the south shore district.

Compliments Chicago Group.

Robert E. Lee Hill, past president of Rotary International and administrative director of the University of Missouri, was the principal speaker.

He paid tribute to the Chicago council as one of the finest in the country and complimented the men who have worked with the Scouts.

"We of the older generation," he said, "have to depend on you Scouts to reshape the world and its destiny. Scouting is the best training in the world for that job."

Hill said there are three types of leadership, dependent either on physical strength, financial power or the ability to inspire trust.

"The first two are of short duration, but the third—the type you are learning thru scouting—that never fails," he said.

Hope to Raise $90,000.

Hyde Gillette, chairman of the finance campaign, told the audience that the goal for the 1940 drive has been set at $90,000. It must be reached, he said, if the scouting program is to be continued in full measure.

The meeting was dedicated to the memory of Lord Baden-Powell, chief scout of the world and founder of the movement, who died on Jan. 8, in Kenya Colony, British East Africa. Morton J. Bodfish served as toastmaster.

VALUE OF SCHOOL BOARD'S LOTS IN LOOP IS UPHELD

Judge John Prystalski in Circuit court yesterday denied the petition of tenants seeking to reduce the appraisal of seven lots owned by the school board which they occupy in the west side of State street between Madison and Monroe street. The ruling gave the school board $902,880 more during the 10 years which began in 1935.

The tenants occupy the lots under a 100 year lease signed in 1885. It provides that the property shall be appraised at 10 year intervals by a committee appointed by the school board and the courts, and that the rents shall equal 6 per cent of the appraised value annually. In 1935 the committee appraised the seven lots at $3,564,000.

The tenants filed suit, asking that the appraisal be reduced to $2,059,200. The Northern Trust company, as estate trustee for the store at 6 South State street, was one of the petitioners. Richard S. Folsom, attorney for the school board, said the board would have lost $902,880 in rents if the lower appraisal had been approved by the court.

100 State Road Workers Vote to Go on Strike Today

L.] chapter here, announced tonight that about 100 state highway workers would go on strike at noon tomorrow. The strike was voted at a meeting tonight in protest, Post said, against the dismissal of 10 workers and wage reductions. The men who will strike include employés in the state highway garage here and highway maintenance men, he said.

Senate O. K.s 175 Millions for Clothing for Army

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—The senate passed and sent to the White House today a 175 million dollar appropriation for army clothing and equipment. Army officials had asked for the funds at this time instead of as a part of the next regular appropriation measure to permit placing orders in off seasons instead of buying in the summer and fall when commercial buying is heavy.

COURTNEY LOOMS AS U. S. SENATE CANDIDATE IN '42

Democrats May Back Him for Brooks' Seat.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney of Cook county, may be a Democratic candidate for United States senator from Illinois next year.

The short term, which was caused by the death of James Hamilton Lewis and was won by Wayland Brooks, Republican, last November, expires in 1942, and Democratic leaders already have begun to look over available timber.

Some already have reached the conclusion that Courtney should be the man. This seat is known as Cook county's own, the other Illinois place in the senate being held by Scott W. Lucas of Havana. It is recalled that the late Gov. Henry Horner recognized Cook county's claim to the Lewis seat when he appointed James M. Slattery, later defeated by Brooks, to serve until the election. Under those circumstances, it is contended, a logical choice would be Courtney.

Arvey Passes the Word.

It also has been learned that consideration of the qualifications of the prosecutor has passed beyond the conversation stage. It is reported definitely that before he shook off all his political connections as a prelude to entering army service, Ald. J. M. Arvey told Courtney that the regular county organization would look on his candidacy with friendly eyes.

Until his withdrawal from all politics, Arvey was vice chairman of the Democratic county central committee and during the absences of Chairman P. A. Nash frequently had complete charge of the committee's operations with the consent of both Nash and Mayor Edward J. Kelly.

It has not been learned whether in this instance Arvey spoke with the advance consent of those two leaders, but it is admitted that he would not approach Courtney on the senatorship without at least knowing where they stood.

Mayoral Availability Issue.

Another leader, who asked that his name be omitted, was asked whether Courtney, if defeated for the senatorship in the off year election, could still be considered a good candidate for the mayoralty the following year, a race which many believe is nearer Courtney's heart.

"Why not?" was the quick reply. "Cermak did it. He was defeated for senator in 1928 and then was elected mayor in 1931."

This might be the attitude of the entire organization if Courtney looks favorably on the senatorship. He will not discuss his own thoughts on the subject yet, but it is known that he looked over the senatorship interestedly as far back as 1936.

Way Open for First Time.

Before the primaries of that year there was some doubt that Senator Lewis, because of his advanced age, would seek another term. Those who believed he would not run began talking for the selection of Courtney. Lewis' declaration of candidacy ended all that. When 1938 came along Gov. Horner backed Lucas for the downstate place and a year later Horner appointed Slattery to the Lewis vacancy.

Next year will be the first time since 1932—when Courtney began breaking records as a vote getter—that the way really is open for him to turn his eyes toward Washington.

It is conceded that he would not have to resign from the prosecutor's job to make the race.

DEATHS HELD MURDER AND SUICIDE.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the deaths Saturday of Mrs. Anna Thomas, 43 years old, and her former husband, Michael, 44. Thomas shot his divorced wife and then turned the gun on himself in Mrs. Thomas' tavern at 2900 40th street.

INDIANA OPENS QUIZ TODAY ON GOVERNOR VOTE

Only 28 Legislative Days Left in Term.

With only 28 legislative days to go the contest of the election of Gov. Henry F. Schricker, Democrat, will be opened this afternoon before an Indiana legislative committee by the testimony of former Judge Virgil E. Whitaker of Hammond. The session ends March 10 under the state constitution.

Whitaker yesterday packed a portion of his records dealing with voting by Lake county aliens in the Nov. 5 election for presentation to the committee, which has sole power to decide the contest. As he prepared to go to Indianapolis, the Hammond attorney who carried on the investigation of alien voting, asserted that no more time should be lost in assembling all of the facts.

Lack of Funds Halts Quiz.

"It is my hope that the contest committee will complete the compilation of evidence," Whitaker said. "My own investigation, which lack of funds compelled me to halt, indicated that thousands of aliens voted in Lake county."

Glen R. Hillis, Republican opponent of Schricker, should be seated as governor if Schricker's lead of 3,963 votes is wiped out by a recount, Whitaker said. It was the narrowest margin for victory for that office in state history and led to the filing of a contest petition by Whitaker on Jan. 14.

Counsel for Whitaker will include Albert Ward of Indianapolis, former Circuit court judge and former United States district attorney. It is expected that the Democrats will have an array of legal talent on hand.

Original Records Needed.

Senator Thurman A. Biddinger [R., Marion], chairman of the contest committee, said Whitaker will be asked to outline his evidence and the methods by which it was obtained. Since it is based upon records of the federal court relating to citizenship application, and upon Lake county clerk's files showing voter registration, it will be necessary to subpena the original records, Biddinger said.

"We want to decide where to begin so as to lose the least possible time in fairly and judicially deciding this grave matter," Senator Biddinger declared.

The committee is composed of 7 senators and 7 representatives, of whom 10 are Republicans and 4 are Democrats. In recognition of its broad powers in the unprecedented contest, the committee will sit in the chambers of the Indiana Supreme court.

Gov. Schricker was the only winner on the Democratic state ticket.

FIRE DAMAGES BOX CARS.

Fire caused damage estimated at $1,500 to three empty box cars on the Santa Fe railroad tracks at 38th street and Pulaski road last night.

Supreme Justices Act on Two Chicago Cases.

The United States Supreme court at Washington handed down two decisions yesterday affecting the right to picket by Chicago unions. In one decision it affirmed the principle that a union forfeits the right to picket if it condones violence, and in the other that a business establishment may be subjected to "stranger" picketing even tho there is no quarrel between the employer and his employés.

By the first decision the court affirmed a decree of the Illinois Supreme court restraining the Milk Wagon Drivers' union from picketing any stores handling products of the Meadowmoor Dairies. It was the first time since reconstruction of the court under the New Deal that it has restricted the right of a union to picket. The court voted 5 to 3.

Invalidates Injunction.

The second decision invalidated an injunction approved by the Illinois Supreme court prohibiting an American Federation of Labor local from picketing the beauty shop of Ross W. Swing at 5556 North avenue. None of Swing's employés belongs to the union, but the decision permits the union to resume picketing as a means of "peacefully persuading" them to join. The ruling held that denial of the right to picket in these circumstances would circumvent "free communication" implicit in the bill of rights.

The two decisions, both read by Justice Felix Frankfurter, altho apparently in conflict, tended to enforce the edict that picketing is permissible only if it is peaceful. Justice Frankfurter held that many acts of violence against Meadowmoor stores and employés demonstrated that, altho the picketing itself might have been peaceful, coextensive acts by union members "enmeshed" the picketing with violent acts having no sanction under law.

These included 50 window smashings, bombing of the Meadowmoor plant, stench bombs dropped in five stores, wrecking of three trucks, firing of a store, beatings administered employés, and use of guns to enforce orders to join the union. Justice Frankfurter said it was impossible to consider violence on such a scale the work of a few irresponsible outsiders.

Refuses Limit on Activity.

In the case of the Swing beauty shop, it was conceded that the proprietor had no labor disputes with his employés, who had indicated no wish to join the union picketing the shop, but the decision refused to limit the right to picket to cases where a controversy exists between employer and his employés.

The Illinois Supreme court had found that there were acts of violence against the beauty shop.

BAR UNION HEAD IS FINED $100 IN CONTEMPT CASE

Judge Robert Jerome Dunne yesterday held James Crowley, recently elected president of the local 278 of the bartenders' union, in contempt of court and fined Crowley $100. The contempt citation was sought by Roy D. Keehn, receiver for the union, as the result of charges which Crowley admittedly made against Keehn during the campaign prior to the election of union officials held Jan. 6.

James Crowley.

At that time Crowley asserted that expulsion of the local from both the Illinois and Chicago Federations of Labor was ordered "because the receiver failed to pay the per capita tax to those organizations when due."

Divorces Musician

MRS. VIRGINIA QUARTELL.

Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday scratched the marriage entry of Orchestra Leader Frank Quartell and his wife, Virginia Lee, 22 years old, of 1940 Lincoln avenue, a singer, after Mrs. Quartell testified that her husband was a "poor handicapper."

"All of our marital troubles were caused by his bets on the horses," she said under questioning by her attorney, Sidney Korshak. "And he usually lost. On two occasions when I reproached him for betting, he struck me."

Judge Desort granted her divorce petition after she had waived alimony. The couple was married in New York City in 1937, and they separated last Oct. 28. Quartell is 36 years old and lives at 2757 Pine Grove avenue. They had no children.

DENOUNCE PLAN FOR CIVILIANS TO HUNT SABOTEURS

FBI, Labor Challenge Barrett's Scheme.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 (AP).—Attorney General George F. Barrett's proposal to enlist the aid of Illinois citizens in a campaign against subversive activities encountered criticism today from state headquarters of the federal bureau of investigation and from the United Mine Workers of America.

J. E. Thornton, head of the Springfield office of the FBI, expressed disapproval of the plan, declaring that only trained and experienced investigators should be used to ferret out saboteurs and fifth columnists.

"The FBI," he said, "feels that grave injustices, such as occurred in the last war, might result from such a move. The one thing the FBI is attempting to avoid at the present time is hysteria."

Ray Edmundson, state president of the United Mine Workers of America, called the proposed agency a volunteer Gestapo and a citizens' OGPU.

In a letter to Barrett challenging his authority to set up such an agency, Edmundson said labor "cannot stand idly by and countenance without vigorous protest the creation of a governmental agency bearing the label 'patented by Adolf Hitler'."

In an appeal for volunteer agents "to help preserve America for Americans," Barrett invited citizens of Illinois to try their hands at being detectives and offered to make them semiofficial members of his department to counteract subversive activities.

Asking Barrett by what authority he proceeded to set up such an agency, Edmundson said, "No law cloaks the attorney general with the power to create any body, official or semiofficial, with spies in stores, and factories, schools, police departments, and rural towns."

FORD WILL OBEY COURT RULING IN FIGHT WITH CIO

Free Speech Not Curbed by High Tribunal.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—A spokesman for the Ford Motor company said tonight that the company would comply with a United States Circuit Court of Appeals decree directing the company to reinstate 23 employés with back pay, but reiterated the company's contention that it had not violated the law.

I. A. Capizzi, Detroit labor counsel for Ford, issued the following statement on the Supreme court's refusal to review a Court of Appeals decision on a labor board ruling:

"This case did not involve any question of union recognition or collective bargaining, as has been implied in a press statement by the U. A. W. It principally concerned Mr. Ford's right of free speech in relation to union matters, the company's alleged responsibility for a riot which took place during the sitdown strike period in 1937, and the alleged discriminatory discharge—over a period of six months—of 23 men out of the 86,000 men employed at the River Rouge plant.

Upholds Free Speech Right.

"The action of the Supreme court leaves in effect the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals upholding Mr. Ford's right of free speech, which the Circuit court said was the most important issue in the case.

"The company will, as a matter of course, take immediate steps to comply with the decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals, altho the company has always contended and still contends that it has not engaged in any violation of the law."

Denial by the Supreme court of the Ford company's plea for a review of a decision by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati which upheld a labor board ruling ordering the reinstatement of 23 discharged employés with back pay, ends a long standing controversy between Ford and the labor board.

The court of appeals also had upheld the labor board order directing the Ford company to cease alleged interference with the organizing activities of the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers' union. The court of appeals, however, refused to enforce a section of the labor board's order commanding Henry Ford to cease distributing pamphlets discussing the labor union issue.

As is customary, the Supreme court used only one word in announcing that the petition of the Ford company was "denied."

The litigation grew out of a labor board ruling that the Ford company was responsible for assaults on a group of persons attempting to distribute United Automobile Workers' [C. I. O.] leaflets at the River Rouge plant in 1937.

4 BOOKIES FINED AS 132 SEIZED IN RAIDS FACE COURT

One hundred thirty-two persons who had been arrested in handbook raids last week were arraigned in the South State street court yesterday before Judge Michael Tremko. Four handbook operators or employés were fined, 32 patrons were discharged, and 96 obtained continuances.

Three of those fined were convicted on the testimony of patrons and the fourth operator pleaded guilty. Those fined on testimony of patrons are Leonard Auslander, 41 years old, 3845 Washington boulevard, $5 and costs; Charles Siebert, 48, of 449 Deming place, $5 and no costs, and George Hruby, 57, of 538 Deming place, $5 and no costs. They were arrested at 2947 Broadway. Harold Colitz, 43, who was arrested at 7010 Glenwood avenue, admitted that he took a 50 cent bet from a policeman and was fined $5 and costs.

Father-Son Trial

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A father and son went on trial yesterday before Federal Judge William H. Holly on charges of violating the securities act and using the mails to defraud Presbyterian clergymen and clergymen's widows in a real estate scheme.

They are Charles P. Campbell, 72 years old, 9400 South Damen avenue, and his son, Marshall Campbell, 44, of 9325 South Bell avenue. Another son of the elder Campbell is a Presbyterian minister. The two have entered pleas of nolo contendere, indicating that they do not wish to defend themselves against the charge. They previously had pleaded not guilty.

The government charges that the elder Campbell used his church affiliations to further the real estate scheme, thru which they allegedly defrauded investors of $250,000. They have returned a part of that amount.

PROVE KICKBACK CHARGES, DAIRY REPLIES TO UNION

Representatives of the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., subsidiary of the Dean Milk company with a distributing station at 2511 Lake street, Melrose Park, yesterday challenged the Milk Wagon Drivers' union to prove charges that the company had forced drivers and inside workers to kick back on commissions and salaries.

Altho the union local 753 began a strike yesterday, and 24 truck drivers and 35 inside dairy workers, members of the Dairy Employés union, local 754, did not report for work, the dairy company said no complaint had been made to it to indicate the reason for the strike. A few hours later David A. Riskind, attorney for the drivers' local, filed suit in Superior court asking for an injunction and an accounting of money alleged to have been withheld from the drivers. He charged afterward that in the last two years drivers had been forced to return $130 monthly and inside workers $14 a week.

Fred A. Garlepy, attorney for the company, said he defied the union to name any employé who had not been paid the scale agreed to in a wage contract signed last May, and that the suit did not specify any names or dates in connection with the alleged kick backs. He also said that union officials had expelled Thomas Bumstead, a steward of the local, when he refused on Feb. 7 to sign a grievance statement against the dairy.

GREEN SETS UP COMMITTEE ON DEFENSE LAWS

BY JAMES DOHERTY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 10. — Labor, as represented by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, met here today at the Everglades hotel in keeping with its annual custom of threshing out its problems under pleasant auspices. Its major concern right now is its part in the defense program of its country.

The council is composed of the president, William Green; the secretary treasurer, George Meany, and the 15 vice presidents of the A. F. of L. Only two vice presidents were absent. They are G. M. Harrison, who represents the railroad clerks' union, and W. D. Mahon of the street car men's union, both of whom are expected at later sessions. The council plans about two weeks' discussion of labor's affairs.

Green Makes Statement.

"Today, as is general at first day programs, was devoted to greeting each other and getting started," President Green told reporters.

"The council took up the question of legislation pending or about to be introduced in congress designed to regulate the actions of employers and employés, particularly in relation to defense projects. There are at present bills under consideration introduced by Representatives Vinson, Hoffman, and Smith of Virginia and I believe one in the process of preparation by Senator Tydings.

"It is the announced purpose of the house judiciary committee to institute an investigation of complaints regarding dues and initiation fees collected by unions from men hired in defense industries.

"The council decided a committee representing it would prepare a statement setting forth its position on all proposed legislation.

Members of Committee.

"I have appointed Vice Presidents Matthew Woll [photo-engravers] and G. M. Bugniazet [electricians] and Secretary Meany on this committee. I will act with them. A statement will be submitted to the council tomorrow and it will be given to the press."

Green went on to say the metal trades and building trades groups of the A. F. of L. have adopted a no-strike policy in reference to defense projects. He said the record shows it has been followed by A. F. of L. unions but not those affiliated with the rival Congress of Industrial Organizations.

C. I. O. Strike Halts Making of Generators for the Navy

Cleveland, O., Feb. 10 (AP).—Production on government-ordered generators for submarines and destroyers was halted at the Hertner Electric company today by a strike of C. I. O. electrical workers. The company employs 80 persons. A C. I. O. organizer said the strike resulted from dismissal of the union's shop chairman while a contract was being negotiated. Company counsel responded that the employé was dismissed for "valid reasons."

NEW FACES IN THE TRACTION PICTURE.

Federal Judge Igoe has introduced an almost complete set of new faces into the long drawn out receivership of the Chicago street car companies, now pending in his court. Whether the shuffle will produce a solution of the stagnant traction problem remains, of course, to be seen.

The immediate effect has been to produce the resignation of Guy A. Richardson as president of the Chicago Surface Lines. Judge Igoe exhibited rather curious innocence of the details of Chicago street car operation when he said that Mr. Richardson's post would not be filled, inasmuch as the only function of the surface lines was to divide operating profits, on a 60-40 basis, between the two underlying traction companies.

Actually, from the operating standpoint, it is the companies in receivership that are the nonentities, and the surface lines, of which Mr. Richardson has been the operating head for 18 years, that actually keeps the street cars running. In that position he has won the reputation as one of the best, if not indeed the best, of the nation's street car executives.

Mr. Richardson has given Chicago what probably has been the maximum service to be had from obsolescent equipment and physical plant. Under his direction millions of dollars for new equipment have been spent economically and without the slightest taint of political or corporate jobbery.

There is also ground for suspicion that certain puritanical traits of Mr. Richardson have been responsible for the failure of members of the city council to greet the arrival of surface lines representatives at franchise conferences with that gleam of delighted anticipation that has caused some of the more tactless aldermen to cry at intervals, "Where is the bus company?" Thus it is hard to see how his departure will enhance either the public's prospect of better service or the street car companies' prospect of profits.

A peculiarity of Judge Igoe's new gallery of faces is that it appears to have eliminated from franchise negotiations any spokesman of the owners of first mortgage bonds, who have the first claim to the street car properties. The bondholders' spokesmen were A. W. Harris of the Harris Trust and Savings bank and Edward E. Brown of the First National bank. Mr. Harris' representative was dropped from the negotiating committee and Mr. Brown intimates that he will withdraw after Mr. Richardson's resignation takes effect on March 1.

The city authorities have charged that the underlying security holders have taken an obstructive attitude in franchise negotiations, a charge naturally repudiated by Mr. Harris and Mr. Brown. Their stand is that they have done only what in good conscience they had to do to protect the people who had entrusted their investments to them. In this connection it is worth noting that the city's proposed franchise, rejected by the former negotiating committee, was also flatly rejected by Jesse H. Jones of the RFC, from whom a traction loan is being sought.

It is hard to see how a negotiating committee with no power to bind the principal security owners can be more successful in drawing a franchise satisfactory to them than was a committee on which they were represented. Regardless of opinion as to the propriety of any particular stand by the security owners, the fact remains that there can be no franchise without their approval.

Thus Judge Igoe faces the double problem of reaching a franchise agreement with the city thru negotiators lacking the power to bind the people whom, technically, they represent, and of providing in the meantime an operating supervision to replace that relinquished by Mr. Richardson. The latter is the more immediate and pressing necessity, and regarding it the community should be watchful that the integrity that he personified is not relaxed.

HAILE SELASSIE CALLS HIS FIGHTERS.

The military misfortunes of the Italian Fascists are extending slowly to Ethiopia. It is known that Haile Selassie, who might well have thought to spend the rest of his life in rural England, is back in his own country and that his former subjects are responding to his call. In London the house of commons has been told by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that the government will welcome the reappearance of a free Ethiopian state and will recognize the emperor's claim to the throne. Mr. Eden said Britain had no territorial ambitions in the country. Such aid as the British could give in helping the Ethiopians to regain their independence would be given.

When the war returns to Ethiopia, the march of recent events is getting back almost to the jumping off spot, altho the Manchurian episode predates Mussolini's descent upon the African member of the league of nations, whose membership in the league was due to Italian influence. The invasion marked the beginning of the outward movements of Fascism.

Mussolini tested the protective devices upon which Europe was relying for the preservation of peace and they were found to be fau[...]n October, 1935, the Fascists, having mobilized 70,000 troops, invaded Ethiopia with an equipment against which the native fighters were unable to contend. By the following spring Haile Selassie was in flight and Mussolini had made Victor Emmanuel emperor of Ethiopia. Later it became known that the invader had been none too sure of himself in this enterprise. If the league of nations sanctions had been vigorously enforced against him, even if no other repressive measures had been adopted, he might have failed.

Europe was dependent upon the mobilization of moral and economic forces to preserve peace and bring disputed issues to arbitration or to the world court. That scheme, to be effective, had to be put into operation with resolve and determination, and when the first test of it was made it fell apart. It was undermined by the conflicting opinions and actions of statesmen which not only separated one nation from another but even divided governments into opposing factions.

When Mussolini started on his African enterprise Hitler was as yet not a menacing figure. He was an astonishing one and the portents were evil, but he had been waiting for the vote in the Saar, provided for by the peace treaty. When the territory voted to return to the German fatherland, as had been anticipated, Hitler had made his first acquisition of territory, but he had done so in compliance with agreements and in accordance with the provision for peaceable settlement of disputed questions.

It is probably idle to speculate as to what might have happened if Mussolini had been put in his place, if Ethiopia had been protected, if the Italian attempt to break down the arrangements had been checked, and the Roman dictator forced to submit to restraints and prohibitions. Certainly when he succeeded and when the protective scheme failed, the shadow of coming events was broad over Europe.

Ethiopia is back on the war map and Mussolini can be rescued only by the Nazi power. Unaided, he would be the first dictator to fall and the Italians the first of the repressed peoples to gain their own liberty. Such good fortune, in all likelihood, will be deferred because the Nazis, if it becomes necessary, will take Italy under protective custody and that, in no man's language, could be regarded as a blessing or a betterment.

MR. CHURCHILL AND HIS CAUSE.

Mr. Churchill when he pleads a national cause in a public address is always good and he is seldom better than he was Sunday afternoon when, thruout this land as well as wherever there are English speaking people, millions of radios were sounding out his militant words. Mr. Churchill can hold his vast audience at home and overseas by the magic of courage, conviction, faith, and good will, high lighted by a devastating scorn when he wishes to apply it like a lash, and by exalted sentiment when the subject justifies it.

To his own country Mr. Churchill is invaluable. That value is so great as to be inestimable. He is in his own person a fleet, an army, and an air force. He had victories to report, grave problems to discuss, news to give, and warnings to repeat and emphasize. As he talked the British empire seemed strong, indomitable, and unconquerable—and it may well be.

That Mr. Churchill should have chosen to speak at the precise moment he did was his privilege and may have been his duty. The object of the British government is to obtain the last measure of aid which can be given by the United States. Mr. Churchill is not the man to be neglectful or to hold back if by any word spoken at the right moment he can promote his country's welfare. The moment was one when the climax approaches in the consideration of Mr. Roosevelt's war bill.

Mr. Churchill said that Great Britain wanted all the tools and tackle, shipping, planes, munitions, and other implements of war as quickly as possible and in the greatest amount possible. And he remarked that in the other war this nation put two million soldiers on the continent, but methods of warfare having changed he saw no possibility that such a need would recur. Armies now could be victorious even if not numerous, provided only that they had equipment superior to the enemy. That equipment Mr. Churchill asks America to help Britain find.

In all admiration for the British prime minister's qualities and for the use he makes of them, it must be pointed out that some of the things he said could be employed to refute the argument that America must strip itself of equipment needed in its own defense and place that equipment in the defense of the empire. The prime minister mentioned that the success in Libya, surpassing expectations, was due in no small part to the fact that British engineering ingenuity had developed a new type of tank, infinitely better in desert operations than the opposing Italian tanks. Thus, conditions in Africa reversed the conditions in Flanders.

The British have a large, splendidly equipped, magnificently led, and victorious army chasing the "black hearted" Mussolini out of his African empire. Their fleet is apparently master of the Mediterranean and its warships can put the port of Genoa under its guns and be unchallenged. Its planes are aiding the Greeks as well as bombing the Italian legions in Africa, and now, with the break with Rumania, there is a British air threat against the Rumanian oil fields. Bulgaria is warned that its submission to the Nazis may subject it to air attack.

British equipment and British forces are dispersed on a half dozen fronts. The air force is not concentrated to repel the awaited German onslaught, the fleet is not concentrated to defend the home waters, and new and superiorly equipped forces are operating far from the threatened island.

Mr. Churchill said that whatever successes that wicked man Hitler might have, even if they carried him to the gates of India, would avail him nothing if Great Britain stood up against him and defied his threat to overwhelm it. That is true and it also follows that no successes the British gain anywhere else could compensate for the destruction of the homeland. And yet material and men needed, if there is to be a last ditch defense at home and it is now insufficient, are operating far away.

The picture Americans have been given by their own war birds is entirely different. The argument they make is that unless our defenses are depleted, unless everything goes to Great Britain, there will be insufficient material in England to beat off the aggressor where the issue is vital. If that were the case, Mr. Churchill would be guilty of something worse than folly to use British resources in a dispersion of its man power, its naval power, its air power, and equipment in far parts of the earth when they were all desperately needed at home.

We may take it as transparent that our war birds are lying to us and that they are doing so in order that they may get Mr. Roosevelt's dictatorship bill enacted and give him a free hand to do what he pleases here and abroad.

COMING UP FOR AIR.

Three days in the ivory tower, trying to run this column by remote control and also reduce a "flu" temperature to normal is about enough. The Linemaster begins to feel that he has lost touch with everything in life except the war in Europe and the lease-lend bill.

* * *

Once upon a time all that editors of the Line had to do was to read the newspapers and the mail. But newspapers are no help now for a department that wants to be pure escapist. Where are the little cock-eyed slants on human behavior that used to make news?

* * *

Well, here's a Chicago citizen who seeks to change his name, on naturalization, from Hitler to Gitler. Does he think that a change of name? Gitler is the Russian pronunciation of Hitler. He should have made a clean sweep of the obnoxious cognomen and called himself Schicklgruber—if he couldn't invent something better.

* * *

So President Roosevelt sent Winston Churchill, by the hand of Wendell Willkie, five lines from Longfellow's poem, "The Building of the Ship." That's nothing; a would-be contributor recently sent us the first three stanzas of Fitz-Greene Halleck's "Marco Bozzaris"—and signed them as his own.

* * *

One of the requirements of a Linemaster, it seems, is that he must know every line of verse in English and American literature since Chaucer. If not, some one is likely to slip something over on him, for there are many jokers abroad who are not past trying.

"Protective custody" was apparently invented by Louis-Napoleon, president of France, in 1851. In springing the coup d'état that made him dictator, he placed the leaders of his parliament under arrest at the crack of dawn, when those statesmen were still in their nightgowns. . . . It is quite likely that they were not Democrats.

HISTORICAL NOVEL.

Dolliver Dismal weighs a ton—
I'll finish it since I've begun;
But, freens, I'll tell tae ye, indeed
'Tis a prolix, lang winded screed.
Auld Samuel Adams, I yince thought,
For liberty had bravely fought,
An' stanch John Hancock firmly stood
An' battled for his country's good.
Alas! I find John was a bum,
An' Samuel Adams simply scum.
Benedict Arnold's was a name
Which tae his country yince brought shame;
But him I find we shouldna pan;
Ben was a hero—what a man!
An' sae I turn these weary pages,
Uprootin' what I've thought for ages,
Fearin' I'll find before I'm done
Some slander on George Washington;
But if there's such—a word or more—

Figures in the Winter Sky.

Nearly overhead strides Perseus, "the Champion," with the "demon star," Algol, representing Medusa's head which he holds in his hand. To the east rides Auriga, "the Charioteer," containing Capella, a beautiful ornament of the firmament. Just south charges Taurus, "the Bull," whose eye is ruddy Aldebaran, venerated by the Druids. This group also includes the glimmering six star cluster of the Pleiades, the daughters of Atlas, with its mystery of the lost sister.

Farther south scintillates Orion, "the Hunter," most splendid constellation, with two great flaming stars in each end, orange Betelguese in the shoulder and blue-white Rigel in his left leg. Orion was worshiped by the early Chinese, who knew him as the "White Tiger." Still farther down blazes Sirius, the brightest of all stars, in the Great Dog, who was connected by the Egyptians with the rising of the Nile. To the west the eye is caught by the Great Square of Pegasus which encompasses the "Winged Horse." Low in the northwest the Northern Cross stands straight up, like a gigantic sword hilt. J. J. L.

It's nothing personal, you did your best,
And I appreciate the way you've tried;
Don't look so sad—you might at least have guessed
What my late inattentiveness implied.
O, we were pals, I know—I'll not forget,
But life goes on, the whole world won't stand still
And wait while you catch up, you know . . . but yet . . .
I must admit there'll never be a thrill
To take your place . . . No . . . this must be goodby.
That business with the water-pump was bad;
Those squeaking brakes and chatt'ring gears imply
You haven't got the stamina you had . . .

Say, Can You See a Blue-Blooming Tree?

Speaking of the paulownia tree [Jan. 24]:

At the Art institute a few years ago I saw a painting of a tree with blue flowers and no foliage. I laffed and laffed [like Little Audrey] and sneered to myself, "What these modern artists won't think of next!" Filled with such colossal ignorance, I was amazed when I drove into Guadalajara, Mexico, in March of the following year to find the entire town gayly blooming with blue trees. I believe the natives called them "Tabachini" trees. In May I saw similar trees in California and was told they were "Jacaranda" trees. D. P. B.

CHLOROSIS: "LOVE-SICKNESS" OF LONG AGO.

THERE was a time, a generation or two ago, when a peculiar type of anemia seemed to be relatively common, particularly among young women. Nowadays, more outdoor activity, looser clothing, and better food have reduced the incidence of the disease. Nevertheless, it occurs every now and then, probably more often than we realize.

Originally called "lovesickness," the victim [from 16 to 20 years of age] exhibits a pale, listless countenance. "They are much given to sighing," reads an old account, and sufferers were portrayed as gazing dreamily at the portrait of some idolized male. But there is more to the malady than mere emotional longing. The characteristic symptoms—including excessive fatigue, lack of appetite, headache, dizziness, and palpitation—arise from a definite cause. With a few, fainting is not unusual, while shortness of breath or swelling of the ankles is observed occasionally.

Because of the lily white complexion the condition of the blood may be suspected. Strange to relate, in almost every case, the hemoglobin [red coloring matter] will be found depleted by 50 per cent or more. How then can we expect the circulation—lacking in oxygen carrying power—to transport this vital gas to the tissues? Because of this failure the muscles are unable to respond; they are weak and tired. Furthermore, nutrition is well below par because the digestive glands cannot handle food even when it is eaten. In consequence, appetite departs because absorption does not take place.

The red cells may not be much reduced in number altho, in the presence of an infection, such as rheumatic fever, these elements will be low. Then it is that the patient faces a double handicap: too few cells and hence wholly inadequate transportation facilities for oxygen.

Just what factors are responsible are not known as, during childhood, the patient may have been robust and endowed with rosy cheeks. There was a time when the onset of the trouble was ascribed to tightly fitting stays, and the discontinuance of the 500 bone corset may have had something to do with the disappearance of the ailment. The costumes of our modern girls are certainly far more sensible than they were in the "gay '90s."

A food deficiency offers a more tangible explanation. Young women who are too closely confined to the house, who receive too little sunshine, and who engage in no exercise may develop dainty eating habits quite insufficient to maintain well-being. In addition they may, as a matter of taste, employ a diet that is quite out of balance, using too many sweets and starchy foods.

Iron appears to be the best remedy, but this is far from the whole story. As the hemoglobin percentage rises under the administration of this metal, nutrition should increase. This is exactly what occurs. In fact, under suitable doses—plus food—the red cells may reach normal and the hemoglobin mount from 50 to 95 per cent within two weeks.

There is every reason to believe that the same general picture may be presented by women who are older than the average chlorosis group. A woman bookkeeper of 32 consulted her physician because of extreme weakness. Altho her blood pressure was average, she was thin—even emaciated. An examination disclosed a decided loss in hemoglobin. Small, frequent feedings were prescribed, and within a few weeks, without any medicine whatsoever, she had gained eight pounds. In the meantime the blood had improved markedly. Later iron, combined with proper menus, effected a cure. Three months thereafter she possessed more energy than had been experienced since her girlhood days.

PROSPECTS OF VICTORY.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—The British victories in Africa against Italy give us a breathing spell in which to study the alternatives which the war situation offers us. In the last analysis, there are only two. First, we can go to war on England's side demanding complete victory, or second, and I believe this deserves more serious consideration than it is getting, we can throw our efforts toward peace. No, not a peace that depends on "Hitler's word," but a peace that depends, as have most periods of peace, on strength—the strength of an England still standing and a United States that is powerfully armed.

Before we review the negotiated peace with all its probable faults, let us consider what a victorious peace would really involve. First, it would find England the "victor" but in unimaginable ruins and chaos, its government also undoubtedly socialistic; Germany, Italy, and central Europe, of course, in complete chaos with all the coastal cities terribly bombed, and the United States impoverished and with a semidictatorial government; the white nations would have been irreparably weakened, leaving Russia and Japan alone watching the victory with satisfaction.

Let us work for a cessation of the hostilities immediately. America is in a position to call for peace and to act for peace while continuing to build its own military strength. Not to do so is to condemn both England and Germany to further ruin and buy ourselves a partnership in a war that can be won only by Russia and Japan.

REMINDERS.

Rapid City, S. D., Jan. 31.—I was wondering if it would be possible during these troublesome times to rebroadcast extracts from the many speeches made before the election by the two major party candidates wherein they made solemn promises and pledges that they would not send our youth over to fight Europe's war. Reminders like this might be a big factor in averting our entry into the war. F. J. K.

DRIVEN.

Lima, O., Jan. 24.—Hitler told his people plainly that he was going to war and why he was going. President Roosevelt tells us that we are not going to war, yet any plain thinking man will tell you that unneutral aid to Great Britain will lead to war. Many editors and columnists say we are already in war.

A year ago I pitied the German people. Today I pity the American people.

RATHER C THAN B1.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—The first line of defense is not the army and navy but the health of the people. There is nothing like raw carrots to build resistance to the diseases which threaten our modern way of living. These ailments become doubly virulent in camp life, and can be prevented by drinking a glass of carrot juice each day.

A million acres of carrots for defense!

HEREDITY AND THE MENTALLY ILL.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Within the last few months numerous articles have appeared in Chicago papers calling attention to the crowded conditions in our state hospitals for the mentally ill. There also have appeared articles referring to the fact that there is an inadequacy of doctors and nurses in these institutions to give proper care and treatment to the patients. Recently Sophonisba P. Breckenridge pointed out in the Voice of the People that some of the above mentioned undesirable conditions could be alleviated by taking full advantage of the help that social workers can give in reducing the intramural population of these institutions.

While I agree that the mentally ill patients of our state institutions must be given proper care and treatment and that social workers can be of inestimable service in solving some of the intramural population problems of our state institutions, I am wondering if the basic problem has not been completely ignored in all the articles which have appeared. I have in mind the rôle of heredity and the work that can be done to reduce the number of individuals who are eligible for admission to such state institutions.

Illinois is woefully indifferent in its concern over the hereditary quality of its population. How much better it would be to reduce the eligible population of our state institutions for the mentally inadequate and ill than to build larger and more institutions. The job of improving the hereditary qualities of our state and national population is not an easy one and it is not one that can be finished in a year; but it is one that can be done and it is one that deserves the attention and coöperation of every citizen of the state and nation. Let us devote some of our energies in that direction.

GASOLINE IN TRUCKS.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—The breakdown of a large gasoline truck on the Aurora Elgin tracks today, and the thoughts of what might have happened had the truck caught fire and the recollection of the terrible havoc wrought when a similar truck was wrecked and burned some time ago, indicates the city council should take some action.

We know it is impossible to ship all gasoline by rail, but some oil companies now having rail facilities are abandoning these methods and putting on fleets of trucks which bring millions of gallons of gasoline thru the city streets daily.

SPLITTING ESTATE.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In November an uncle died leaving no will. Nearly all of his estate is in store buildings and dwellings. The estate is to be divided six ways—the parents are dead in two of these cases—leaving three minor heirs in Kansas and one minor heir in Iowa.

1. What is the law regarding this?
2. Would the property have to be thrown into chancery and sold at a public auction or could it be disposed of privately under the new law?
3. Would these minor heirs have a different right for demanding settlement of the estate, other than those under Illinois law?
4. I would like to know what is done in a case of this kind.
5. Can we go ahead and sell privately?
6. Would guardians have to be appointed by the administrators of these children? R. R. H.

1. Presumably it is the law of the jurisdiction in which the deceased resided at the time of his death.
2. Ordinarily court proceedings are necessary in order to effect a sale where some of the shares are owned by minors.
3. If the real estate is in Illinois and there is no will then its inheritance would depend on Illinois law.
4. See attached summary on inheritance laws in Illinois.
5. Ordinarily it is difficult to satisfy a real estate purchaser without probate.
6. The guardians would be appointed by the Probate court.

DRUNKEN DRIVER JAILED FOR 12TH TIME IN 11 YEARS

Gets Maximum Term and Loses License.

Albert Busillo, 32 years old, was sent to jail yesterday for the 12th time since 1930. He was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell by Judge Thomas A. Green in Safety court, the maximum sentence for driving while intoxicated. His driving privileges were suspended indefinitely. It was his second jail term for drunken driving.

Albert Busillo.

Busillo, who lives at 2719 South Park Way, pleaded guilty and said he had taken four drinks of whisky before park district police halted his car Sunday at 13th street and Wabash avenue. William McCarthy, assistant state's attorney, then read Busillo's record.

Here's His Record.

It follows:

May 21, 1930, 30 days in Bridewell, burglary.

ARMY WATCHES ALLIS PLANT SHIP DEFENSE ORDERS

Ordnance Officer Is at Scene of Strike.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 10 [Special].—Capt. B. A. Weidemann of the Chicago army ordnance office has been assigned to the strike bound Allis Chalmers plant to insure that all defense orders are shipped as soon as completed or finished enough so they can be assembled elsewhere.

Capt. Donald Armstrong, chief ordnance officer at Chicago, has said the Allis Chalmers plant, with $26,000,000 in defense orders, is a key in the armament program and that failure to deliver powder making machinery has held up the army's powder program. Captain Armstrong announced Capt. Weidemann's assignment today.

Take Dispute to Washington.

Equipment now is moving out on the 21st day of the strike, under an agreement of the company, the army, and the C. I. O. United Automobile Workers' union. Lieut. Henry Marshall, navy department resident inspector of materials, said the navy has had an inspector at the plant for some time.

The company said today the union had stricken off the names of 25 of the 131 men selected by the company as a shipping gang to rush completed defense material. The men approved by the union will be called as needed.

Company and union officials will meet in Washington tomorrow with William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman of the defense commission. Harold Christoffel, president of the union local, today addressed a mass meeting of strikers at State Fair park.

Families Need Money.

"Regardless of the pressure that may be put on us in Washington, regardless of the talk of defense, we are not going to accept anything but what you have told us to accept," he said.

He also warned "against what the company may try to do while we are in Washington. They might try to start a 'back to work movement,'" he said.

"Families need the money and some of them might be weak, but any one who goes in will not get back into the plant when the strike is over," Christoffel declared.

MOVE FOR U.S. CONSENT DECREE IS APPROVED BY ASCAP DIRECTORS

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—The board of directors of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers [ASCAP] have approved in principle a proposed consent decree ending the federal government's antitrust suit against the society, and only a few points remain to be worked out with the department of justice, it was learned tonight.

Such a decree would be a prelude to resumption of negotiations between ASCAP and the broadcasters for a truce in the radio music war, it was said.

The government filed a criminal information in Milwaukee last Wednesday, accusing ASCAP of violating the Sherman antitrust act. A consent decree would end this action.

The ASCAP board today decided to discontinue its Saturday night radio program known as "ASCAP on Parade," heard over independent stations.

Works Director Delays $100,000 Allotment.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 [Special].—Walter A. Rosenfield, director of public works and buildings, announced today he had delayed approval of the expenditure of $100,000 for plans for a bridge across the south branch of the Chicago river at Congress street, as a part of the Congress street superhighway.

Ernst Lieberman.

Because state permission was given for this expenditure to the Chicago city council during the interim régime of Gov. John Stelle, and was dumped upon him without warning today, Rosenfield canceled the written authority to spend the money given several days ago by Ernst Lieberman, chief highway engineer in the Horner and Stelle administration.

Wants Time to Study It.

"The state's connection with this project was inherited from the previous administration," Director Rosenfield said, "and I do not propose to approve anything relating to it until I have had an opportunity to study the matter and confer with Gov. Green."

The director said he had no knowledge of the matter until asked by newspapermen about a press release from his office, issued earlier today, which stated he had given his conditional approval of the $100,000 expenditure. He promptly cancelled it and later explained his action in the formal statement.

Lieberman Writes Schrieber.

Lieberman, it developed, had recently written City Clerk L. D. Schreiber of Chicago stating that the expenditure could be made following a Chicago conference in the matter prior to Gov. Green's assumption of office. The press release was issued as routine matter on the basis of Lieberman's letter to Schreiber, but it was recalled the moment it came to Rosenfield's attention.

MOTOR FUEL TAX REFUNDS TO DROP IN COOK COUNTY

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 [Special].—Cook county is destined to take an annual cut of about $200,000 in the amount it receives annually from motor fuel tax refunds because of the increase of automobile licenses downstate, particularly in the booming oil fields of "Egypt."

This fact became known today when Director of Finance George B. McKibbin released the 1940 county motor vehicle license collections, the basis for motor fuel allotments, as presented to him by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes.

These figures showed that in 1940 Cook county collected 45.217 per cent of the state-wide license fees, whereas the 1939 figure was 46.714 per cent. Applied to the $13,000,000 which goes to the counties of the state from the 3 cent gas tax, the reduction can be translated into dollars and cents and reaches the figure of $195,000.

Hughes' figures also reflect a decline in license collections in Cook county from $11,132,009 in 1939 to $10,882,441 in 1940.

BAN ALL STRIKES ON U. S. DEFENSE JOBS, HEIL URGES

President Must Act Now, Says Wisconsin Governor

Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin asserted last night that the national defense program would fail "unless President Roosevelt brings labor to its senses and bans all strikes in plants producing defense equipment."

"You can't forever have strikes and expect a nation to be prepared," the governor told the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Society of Chicago in the Union League club.

"President Roosevelt must put his foot down and say to labor:

Seeks Businesslike Rule.

"The reason the people of Wisconsin like me," Gov. Heil said, "is that I forget all about the laws when it is necessary and run the state like I do my business.

"Government is a big business and laws are full of poor business judgment written down."

The governor said he was going to "raise Cain" with some of our professors at the University of Wisconsin who are always gadding about and playing golf instead of staying in school and earning an honest day's pay."

"Some of them only work about 5 or 6 hours a day," he declared. "Parents spend a lot of money to send their children to school and the professors should be there to teach them something.

Seeks Full Value.

"I work hard and I expect them to earn their money. I am going over every dollar that is going to be spent at the university and I want a full dollar of service.

"Professors ought to work as hard as anybody else."

Gov. Heil told his audience that he had a "fine time" at President Roosevelt's inauguration. "Even the President called me 'Julius the Just'" he said. "When I met Mrs. Roosevelt I told her:

SCHOOLS MAY EXPEL ALL WHO REFUSE TO SALUTE THE U. S. FLAG

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 (AP).—Any school board in Illinois, Attorney General George F. Barrett said in an opinion today, was within its rights in expelling a pupil who refuses, because of religious scruples, to salute the American flag.

The attorney general's ruling was given in response to a request from State's Attorney George W. Howard Jr. of Mount Vernon, who said Raymond Levin of Jefferson county, superintendent of schools, reported that a controversy had arisen in a country school when one of the pupils refused to participate in a ceremony of saluting the national emblem.

Heads of Seminary Tell Preachers to Be Human Beings

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 10 (AP).—Ministers who "tend to become too pompous" were verbally switched around the ankles today by one of their own group, Dr. J. Harry Cotton, president of the Presbyterian Theological seminary at Chicago.

Speaking here in connection with the National Christian Mission campaign, he continued:

"Ministers tend to become too pompous, dignified and self-important, as tho they were not human beings as is every sinner who sits before them on Sunday mornings."

The speaker urged the ministers to "keep alive our common humanity" in everyday life.

"We need to make clear to ourselves the burdens that our people carry," he said, "along with the anxieties that disturb them, their unfilled hungers and their restless sense of need."

"Dr. Cotton is one of 30 Protestant leaders touring the country in behalf of the mission, sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

According to CULBERTSON

By Ely Culbertson.

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

Apart from the reduction to two-plus honor tricks with a six-card major suit, the basic requirements for opening bids in the Culbertson system are exactly the same as they have been for years. Changes in other fundamentals of bidding valuation have, however, considerably simplified the task of the player in judging when a hand is biddable.

For example, the minimum five-card rebiddable suit is now Q-J-9-x-x or K-J-x-x-x, lower than ever before. This permits an opening one-diamond bid on the following hand, which always was a sound bid:

♠K J 8 ♥9 3 ♦K J 8 6 2 ♣A 5 4

Under strict requirements of previous years the above hand was not biddable because the diamond suit did not quite meet the requirements for a rebiddable suit.

There also is the fact that a singleton may be included in the honor trick table, and that hands of unbalanced distribution may be bid with slightly less strength in high cards than hands of balanced distribution, which is as it should be.

In some respects, however, the honor trick table has been slightly tightened up, and the few freak cases in which a smattering of kings and queens used to add up to two and a half honor tricks no longer exist.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 clubs	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
6 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West was determined not to jeopardize his honors in the red suits, or his partner's possible club stopper, hence made the sound opening of a low trump. Considering that either a diamond or a club opening would have made the contract a laydown and that West could scarcely know declarer had the singleton heart ace, this was a shrewd opening, but, unfortunately for the defenders, it could not fail to convey information to the astute declarer. The latter planned his campaign on the very suspicion that West had been trying to protect side-suit honors. He won the opening lead and returned the spade 10. West jumped in with the ace and exited with his last trump.

Declarer then tested the club situation by leading two rounds, but when the nonbreak was disclosed he abruptly abandoned the club suit for the time being. He led to his heart ace and ran off every trump. Now he was reduced to the A K J of diamonds and a low club; dummy to the heart queen, one diamond, and the K 10 of clubs. At this point West held the king of hearts and the Q 8 6 of diamonds. East, of course, still had his club stopper. The lead of declarer's last club to the king forced West to let go a diamond in order to keep the heart king. Declarer, diagnosing the situation perfectly, led the diamond from dummy and, disdaining the finesse, took the fulfilling tricks with his ace, king, and jack.

Good Morning!

It's a pretty good show. Nothing to get excited about, but still a pretty good show, with some able acting, some hummable songs, a couple of clever dances and enough of a story upon which to hang comfortably a variegated wash.

The to-do revolves around the troubles that assault station WPX which has acquired as sponsor for a big program a batty woman department store owner with a spoiled daughter whom she insists must be singing star of the show. . . .

WPX needs the money but what, O, what to do with the siren with the siren — ship's siren! — voice? . . . Young Farraday, part owner, solves the problem. . . . Sound control shall be shifted. Sweet Pat Abbott, the silver throated "Spinning Wheel Girl" shall, via television watch the lips of Miss Annabelle Potter and do the singing with Annabelle and audience none the wiser. . . . Pat agrees to this arrangement because she loves young Mr. Farraday. BUT——

Annabelle loves him, too, and never in all Miss Potter's life has she cried for a moon that hasn't toppled right down out of a sky into her lap. . . . Complications are many and not always credible [or amusing]. The beautiful creature who can't sing CAN dance—which proves to be a blessing of the first water.

You will be very, very fond of Frances Langford and Kenny Baker ere the picture ends and will greatly enjoy their singing. Ann Miller's dancing is something pretty special. So, of course, is Hugh Herbert's comedy. He plays the nut partner who surprises at the most unexpected moments by proving he's not nearly as nutty as he seems. Patsy Kelly—why DOES she have to be so sloppy!—and Phil Silvers seek to amuse and occasionally do.

The finale is really SOMETHING! Best part of the film. So stifle that possible yawn and wait for it.

See you tomorrow.

Broccoli and cauliflower are closely related members of the cabbage family. Some say that broccoli is the original form of cauliflower, a greener, stalky vegetable with the same characteristics.

The two vegetables are cooked in the same way, and may be served with the same sauces, for the most part, altho hollandaise sauce, delicious with broccoli, asparagus and other green vegetables, isn't as suitable for cauliflower.

It isn't necessary to waste the coarse leaves and thick stalks of broccoli as so many women do. It's better to cut them off and prepare them as a dish separate from the more tender stalks and the budding tips.

Serve the nicer looking, slender stalks and tips at one meal, and dice the peeled coarse stalks to be cooked with coarse trimmed leaves for another meal. They are good to eat and full of vitamins and shouldn't be wasted. They make delicious cream soup, too, cooked, puréed and added to a thin, well seasoned white sauce.

Both cauliflower and broccoli need to be carefully cleaned and looked over before cooking, for sometimes they harbor insects. Usually the head of cauliflower is cut or broken into pieces before cooking, altho it sometimes is cooked whole and served with a sauce.

Either vegetable is cooked uncovered in boiling, salted water until it is just tender no longer. Broccoli loses its clear, green color if overcooked, and cauliflower takes on a grayish tinge. Both vegetables develop an unpleasant flavor if cooked too long. Salt, pepper and butter are the only necessary seasonings.

If a sauce is preferred, white sauce or one of its variations is the usual choice. Cheese or a lemon accent is good. Usually the vegetable looks better if arranged in the serving dish before the sauce is added. This is especially true of broccoli, which is much more attractive if not completely covered by sauce.

Cheese Sauce for Cauliflower or Broccoli

[1 cup]

2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup milk
½ cup coarsely cut cheese

Melt butter and blend in flour, salt, pepper and mustard. Add milk gradually. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add cheese and stir until cheese has melted. Pour over hot vegetable in serving dish.

Hollandaise Sauce for Broccoli.

½ cup butter
3 egg yolks
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/16 teaspoon cayenne pepper
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup boiling water

Cream butter and beat in egg yolks one at a time. Add lemon juice and seasonings. Just before serving, add boiling water in small amounts and stir vigorously [in the top of a double boiler over simmering water] until thickened and smooth. Avoid overcooking or the sauce will curdle.

Makeup Tints Should Suit Dress Colors

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

We were talking the other day about how to make the 1941 spring outfit the best you've ever owned, principally thru the recognition of the fact that beauty today is largely a matter of good grooming and well chosen clothes. We stressed the tieup between fashion and beauty in the 1941 picture.

At the outstanding fashion show of the year, so completely was this tieup recognized that color coördination between dress and makeup was the dominant note in the entire proceedings. The new colors forecast to dominate the spring fashion picture were presented as Brazilian beige, the color of cafe-au-lait; Trinidad tan, the bright brown of cinnamon; Argentine navy, a dark, dark blue; Chile sauce, a bright and flaming red; Peruvian pink, a soft new pink shade, and Bogota blue and Lima lemon, the latter a pale chartreuse.

The foregoing colors are of Latin-American inspiration, calling, naturally, for a warm-toned radiance in complexion tinting, with all the new dress shades pleading for a makeup tone in lipstick, nail polish, and powder that will add chic and newness to the appearance, giving meaning and excitement to the new dress color.

Vacation Plans Are Spoiled by Accidents and Illnesses

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE best laid travel plans sometimes go amiss, and Chicagoans who have faraway places on their winter itineraries are not all spared from misfortune. The plans Miss Cornelia Conger and Mrs. Richard I. Stearns had made for a trip to Guatemala were canceled abruptly when Miss Conger underwent an operation at St. Luke's hospital. She is convalescent, but won't be going anywhere this winter.

The William M. Scudders finally sailed for Central America a week ago, having postponed their two months' holiday from early January. Mr. Scudder was taken ill in New Orleans just before their first sailing date.

Miss Ethel Johnston and Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, who were to have departed for Sun Valley yesterday, have put their trip off until next week. Mrs. Pirie entertained at cocktails yesterday afternoon for the Misses Mary and Fernanda Munn of Philadelphia and New York, who are on their way from Palm Beach to the Idaho resort. Miss Johnston and Mrs. Pirie also will stop at the Sugar Bowl in Nevada, one of the newest ski resorts.

Vacations in Sun Valley Have Unhappy Endings.

Miss Shirley Garnett and Mrs. Robert Ainsworth Morris [Isabelle Tennant], who went out to Sun Valley so gayly a few weeks ago, had an unhappy ending to their holiday. Miss Garnett was brought back to her home in Evanston with a brain concussion and a sprained neck. Mrs. Morris is nursing a broken ankle, also the result of an accident on skis.

The William Whipple Millers are going to North Conway, N. H., instead of to Sun Valley, to ski. Having had to postpone their holiday from last month, they found all reservations at Sun Valley taken for February, and so will try eastern slopes instead. They will join Mr. Miller's sister, Mrs. Albert F. Sise, and Mr. Sise of Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Mr. Miller's father, William S. Miller of Winnetka, received word on Sunday of the birth of his eighth grandchild, Margaret Proctor, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Proctor of Yosemite National park. The baby is the second daughter of the former Mary Miller and Mr. Proctor, who is a well known skier. Mr. Miller departs on Saturday to join his wife at Cocoa Beach, Fla. They hope to go to the Yosemite in May to see tiny Margaret.

Daughter Is Born to Junior Victor Hardings.

Another new arrival with Winnetka grandparents is Julia Harding, the infant daughter of the junior Victor M. Hardings [Julia Burley] of Evanston. Mr. and Mrs. Harding Sr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Burley are the delighted grandparents. Julia, who

Long Neglected Symphony Gets Its Belated Due

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Twenty years ago the Chicago Symphony orchestra gave Paul Dukas' only symphony its first Chicago performance, then dropped it like a hot potato. At the Great Northern last night the Illinois Symphony orchestra, Izler Solomon conducting, revived the work and filled us with wonder that so excellent a piece of music has been so long neglected.

For it has a richness of surface, an ardent lyricism, and a Gallic incisiveness and clarity which commend it strongly to ear, heart, and mind even on first hearing. When compared with other major French orchestral works of roughly the same period it seems definitely superior to the Franck Symphony and to d'Indy's in B-flat, and inferior only to the Chausson. It has something of the luminous quality of the last named work.

It was performed with an élan which vigorously denied the fact that the conductor [and maybe some of the players too, for all I know] should have been in bed. I learned by eavesdropping [Mrs. Solomon's seats are right behind mine] that Mr. Solomon boasted a temperature of 101 in the afternoon.

Stanley Fletcher was heard in the solo part of Mozart's E-flat Major Piano Concerto [K. 482]. His exquisitely developed rhythmic sense gave the bubbling theme of the last movement a rare lilt. Thruout the work his scrupulous regard for the Mozart idiom led him to use the utmost restraint—too much restraint, I believe—in such matters as tone quality and accent.

Even granting that Mozart's own playing, on the primitive instruments of his time, probably had a certain monotony of tone, there still seems to be no reason for making the magnificent modern piano try to imitate its precursors. Certainly a little more brightness and crispness would never bring the traditionalists down around Mr. Fletcher's ears—or, if they did, then so much the worse for the traditionalists.

The program contained also first Chicago performances of the Eric DeLamarter transcription of three Bach Chorale Preludes, as well as one of the least familiar of Handel's concertos—the 12th, in B minor. Mr. DeLamarter's transcription has tastefully preserved the gray serenity of the chorale preludes.

The contest was an All-American industrial design competition. Mrs. Ehrman formerly was with the Bauhaus in Germany.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 10.—Stirring news this morning, folks. Ginger Rogers is going back to being a blonde. Having had various shades of dark hair in three screen dramas—"Primrose Path," "Lucky Partners" and "Kitty Foyle"—she will now be a Ginger with the light brown hair for "Tom, Dick, and Harry". . . . It's not impossible that Samuel Goldwyn, who finally won his divorce from United Artists on the grounds of incompatibility, will release future pictures thru Warner Brothers. The Goldwyn-Warner tieup has been pretty close, with the brothers of Burbank borrowing Gary Cooper for a couple of films and with Goldwyn borrowing Bette Davis for "The Little Foxes." . . . Add reports: That the bankroll for Ilona Massey's "New Wine" came from Fritz Mandl, Hedy Lamarr's first husband. . . . Add names: There has been a local court fight over the rights to musical shorts between Slavko Vorkapuch, Karl Hajos, and Ladislaus Szucs. . . . The Warners are trying to borrow William Holden for a picture with Brenda Marshall.

I like the story about the guy who opened a peanut stand here and wanted to give it a Hollywood première. So he set up a portable phonograph and waved a flashlight.

The Warners' Mr. Taplinger pulled this one after a preview of "Meet John Doe": "That Frank Capra is in a rut—he makes only terrific pictures." . . . Alvin York, the man who glorified the job of sergeant, apparently thinks Jesse Lasky may own him because Lasky is making a costly picture of his life. Anyhow, he wrote the producer the other day and asked if it would be all right for him to give a few lectures at his Bible school. . . . An authoritative informant tells me that Henry Ford's recently publicized system for machine riveting airplane parts, thus cutting down production time, may already be out of date. Scientists at one of the big southern California aircraft plants have devised a method for spot welding that will enable the joints to take stresses and strains. The system has been perfected but it will take about a year to develop the machinery for it.

Ida Lupino, Louis Hayward, and friends, including Richard Haydn, have been making private phonograph records to send to Robert Coote, young screen actor now in the army in Canada. The records involve the adventures of "The Harcourt Family." They are, being between friends, intimate and raffish—but an agent has heard them and the Harcourt family idea is so good that cleaned-up versions may be put on the phonograph market.

In older days Twentieth Century-Fox had a number of box office buckaroos galloping across screens—the late Tom Mix, Buck Jones, George O'Brien. But of late it has had none and, like many studios, has made westerns only when they are epics. The emergence this year of Gene Autry as the No. 4 box office star of the nation was a surprise to everybody except fans and theater managers, and the Fox lot is hurrying to climb aboard the huckwagon. It has George Montgomery all set for a series of westerns, first of which will be Zane Grey's "Last of the Duanes."

Montgomery is now working in an aepic—call it an apic—titled "The Cowboy and the Blonde." No relation to Clyde Fitch's or Samuel Goldwyn's "Cowboy and the Lady," which weren't related either. The Montgomery picture is about a cowpoke who comes to Hollywood—and that's just what George is. He came off a Montana ranch two years ago to invade the films. He's had several minor rôles, but this is his first important one. He's 6 feet 2, weighs in at 195, and is a first class rodeo contestant.

Ever since Olivia De Havilland had her appendix out and went to the home of Geraldine Fitzgerald to recuperate there's been yapping about "trouble" between Olivia and her sister, Joan Fontaine. Olivia says no trouble at all; she went to Miss Fitzgerald's because there are more bedrooms and more servants and it was easier of care for an invalid there. . . . Julie Epstein's ex-wife, Frances Sage, is now looking about for some more picture work. . . . Studio publicity heads who junked theater previews in favor of projection room press showings are now wishing they hadn't and the practice won't last much longer. In order to liven this week's studio showing of "Strawberry Blonde," the Warners are going to show it on a sound stage and fix up the stage as a turn of the century beer garden.

'41 Valentines Link Sentiment and Usefulness

BY REA SEEGER.

It's fun to be sentimental these days. Every shop and store window throbs with pink or red hearts, bowknots, and gift ideas to send to some one for a valentine. Beginning with such an important trifle as a handkerchief, the town is crammed with loot to celebrate this Feb. 14.

Monogrammed specials offer a wide assortment of delicate paste shades with large script letters surrounded by dainty embroidered patterns of cupids, flowers, bowknots, and scrolls. The dainty pink tints are especially effective with the letter embroidered in a darker shade of rose. You will like also the mint green and the baby blue or the sugar white finds worked in the same manner.

Tuck one of these into the envelope with the valentine for an extra gesture.

No one ever sniffs at hosiery. This year you can send chiffons to service hose to the cherished nylons in decorative gift containers. Three or four pairs come at special prices, and they will be packed in the containers you specify for no additional cost. There is a bright red satin box in the shape of a heart. The satin is padded and quilted and the cover is hinged in two parts. It can be used for other treasures long after the hosiery has gone.

Another container is a foldover heart with a zipper cellophane cover. This is of silk material and has four compartments, one for each pair of stockings. An old fashioned draw string bag is the third choice.

One pair, four, or six, all can be boxed in heart shaped or trimmed holders for this sort of a welcome valentine. The hosiery available features all the newest spring shades. There's a stunning neutral beige tint that goes with everything. It's called sand dune; another is called flaxen tan.

The one thread nylon dancing stockings are the most beautiful textured finds in town; black heel, black toe silk chiffons with the narrow black seam up the backline are still the most flattering gifts imaginable. That old charmer, Peter Pan, with the ink black heels and toes, still clicks as the best shin flattery obtainable.

Who Is This Girl?

By Helen Topping Miller

[Copyright 1941: By Helen Topping Miller.]

SYNOPSIS.

Dan McCullough, manager of the ranch, San Mateo, falls in love with Storm, whom he meets at the New York apartment of Harp Greenlee, owner of the ranch. Dan has come east to tell Harp and his lawyer, Steele Dunlap, that he needs money to fight Humphrey Dane, who is trying to shut off the ranch's water supply. When Beatrice Abney, whose artist ex-husband is drinking himself to death near San Mateo, tells Mac that Storm is living at Harp's apartment and that Harp says she is his niece, Mac is upset as he knows Harp has no nieces and has been entangled with many women of shady character. He decides to have it out with Harp as to just who Storm is, but when he goes to talk to him, he finds him dead. Storm tells Mac that she knows she is not Harp's niece, but she doesn't know who she is. Harp placed her in a convent when she was 5, after her mother died, and just recently got her out, promising to tell her her real name on her 21st birthday. She is now 20. Harp wills Storm San Mateo and a locked tin box without a key, but when Dunlap hints to Storm that it was Harp's way of paying off his latest girl friend, she becomes infuriated, refuses the inheritance and goes back to the convent. Mac trails her there, but Mother Regina tells him a man claiming to be Storm's father had come to the convent two days before and Storm left with him. She refused to tell Mac the man's name. Mac learns that Dunlap has flown to San Mateo and follows him. The people at the ranch tell Mac that Humphrey Dane has taken over there.

RESCUE.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

Mac could hear the sound of water beginning to run in the shallow ravines, fed by the wash of the rain to the thirsting river. In an hour, if the downpour persisted, the river would be churning high and the ford at Dane's boundary impassable.

He urged the horse faster but the going was precarious now, the loosened soil slid under the dun's shod feet, mud splashed, and the driving rain made it impossible to see more than a few feet ahead.

A coyote slunk by, head down, hind quarters close to the ground, and the dun shied and threshed at the bridle. Then from the shelter of a dark tangle of cedar a bunch of Harp's Angora goats sprang up bleating and went charging off into the darkness. The dun, hating the goat smell, snorted and pounded his fore feet, then suddenly he threw his head back, blowed, nickered loudly.

From out of the blackness and the thick scud of rain another horse answered. There was the crack of shod feet on rock as a tall black horse trotted up, stood snorting warily and nickering a few feet away.

McCullough fumbled in his coat pocket, sent his flashlight beam ahead. The glare turned the strange animal's eyes into phosphorescent lights, showed the dangling reins, the wet, empty saddle.

McCullough put out the light, waited for a minute, while the two horses complained to each other, stepping gingerly in nervous circles.

This might mean an ambush—but that, he decided quickly, was absurd. Dane would not send any one gunning for intruders from San Mateo in the storm, not when he felt the assurance of having the law on his side. And this black was no rustler's mount. Something was familiar about the horse. McCullough pulled his own mount over, reached for the hanging bridle, but the black shied, snorted, then trotted away in the darkness to the border of a deep, ragged gulch.

Then above the roaring of the rain Mac heard a cry. The dun pricked his ears, looked around questioningly. Mac urged him on a little way, cautiously. The call came again, hollow and eerie, the call of a man in trouble. But that was an old trick too. It came from the gulch ahead, and Mac made out the shape of the black horse standing there on the crumbling brink.

Then, abruptly, he remembered where he had seen that horse. He kicked the dun in the flank, loped up to the canyon's edge, and the flashlight showed him a ragged place where something had gone over. He slid down, and yelled. From the darkness, above the increasing sound of running water, came an answer, frantic and incoherent. A drunken voice, shouting in bewilderment and fury and pain. Mac quieted the horses, hung the reins loose so that the well broken dun would stand, then sending the light ahead of him picked his way down the rough wall of the deep ravine.

Mud showered over him and stones clattered ahead of him. He slid and grabbed, snatching wildly at cedar roots and jutting boulders, rain soaking him.

"Where are you?" he shouted.

The answering cry guided him around a jutting rock, where water was foaming down in a muddy torrent. At the bottom of a washed out ditch a shadow stirred. Mac splashed through water, stopped and dragged the huddled body of a man out of the way of the torrent. He did not need the light to show him who it was. "Hello, Abney," he said. "What happened to you?"

Frances Abney tried to sit up. His hat was gone, his hair was soaked and streamed down over his face. In the ray of the light his eyes glared wildly.

"Threw me," he mumbled. "Damn cayuse stumbled—I'm all wet—look at me—I'm all wet!"

"Any bones broken? Wait a minute—let's see about that leg. Now, move this arm—easy.

"All m' bones broken," Abney growled, thickly. "Damn a horse—can't stand on his feet." He looked blinking, eyes bloodshot and vague. "Who the hell 'r you?" he demanded loudly.

"McCullough from San Mateo. See if you can stand up now. Steady—I'll hold you."

"Can't stand up." With the frantic, stubborn idiocy of intoxication, Abney made wild threshing motions with his arms. Then he sank down again, buried his head in an elbow. "Go on 'way!" he ordered, "Lemme 'lone. I'm all wet. Lemme 'lone so I can go to sleep."

Swearing wearily, McCullough clamped the light to his belt so that the beam would shine ahead, bent and dragged Abney's limp body upright.

"Can't stand up. Whyn't you go away and lemme 'lone? Damn a horse gets scared of a goat! Jus' a little old goat. I can't walk, I tell you!"

"You've got to walk. Straighten out your legs. Hold on to me. I've got to get you out of here before the water rises any higher. We'll have to go around—can't get you back up the way you came down."

Painfully, fighting the inertness of the drunken body, he dragged Francis Abney along the stony bottom of the ravine. Mud sucked at their feet, rain beat in their faces. The light made a wavering path, shining on the rushing, yellow water, the sliding rocks, the roots and debris that the flood was carrying down. Abney dabbled, struggled, tried to pull himself away, let himself go limp so that Mac had to drag him upright again by main strength.

"No wonder that horse threw you," Mac growled. "Any self-respecting horse would throw a drunken tramp like you. Come along now before I leave you here in this gully to drown."

Abney began to weep then. "You wouldn't do that! You wouldn't hurt me. Look—I'm all wet. Lost my boot, too. I gotta go back and fin' my boot."

"We'll find your boot later, if the river doesn't take it. Hang on now—we've got to make it, up this bank."

Halfway up the slippery, difficult slope Abney collapsed and sank down, helplessly. Blows and goading words failed to rouse him. There was nothing to do but drag and carry him. Mac's breath strained in his chest, his arms and back ached, the ground gave way under him time and again, but ultimately, after a half hour of struggle, he pulled the sodden, helpless bulk over the last jutting ledge of wet, crumbling earth and let him fall in a relaxed heap on the ground.

Fortunately the horses had stood. The black nickered and shied when he came up, but he was able finally to grab his bridle, and riding his own horse, lead the black back to where the drunken painter lay, soaked and abject and unconscious, in the mud.

With an effort Mac got him across the saddle, fastened his dangling legs, then leading and riding, turned back on the trail to the path over the ridge that led to a little road and to Abney's jacal.

It was six miles across the ridge to the little road and all the way the rain beat without mercy, and the darkness grew thicker and colder.

Leading the black horse, McCullough had to go at a slow walk, so that Abney would not slide out of the saddle. When he came at last to the wire gate that opened into the road he clicked the light over the face of his watch and saw that it was already 9 o'clock.

Useless, now, to try to go on to Humphrey Dane's ranch. He led the horses thru, fastened the gate, and went the slow mile up the hill toward Abney's hidden retreat.

The low house was dark, the eaves dripping, water standing in rills and puddles in the trampled bit of yard. The door was unlocked and standing open, and rain had beaten in, wetting the floor of a long, dim room that smelled of paint and turpentine, of whisky and Mexican peppers. There was a little dry wood stacked under the porch and Mac lit a fire, carried Abney in and laid him on a goatskin in front of the blaze, dragging off his soaked and mudstained clothing.

GASOLINE ALLEY—LIVE AND LEARN

Child Seldom Discusses His Deep Worries

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Naturally, there are some natures so calm, imperturbable, or even phlegmatic that they are only slightly impressionable, but I believe more children are sensitive and imaginative. For their sakes we should refrain from talking or acting before them so that they are burdened, too young, with adult troubles. And also, we must always keep in mind that children seldom talk about the thoughts that concern them most, so the fact that they don't mention these things doesn't mean that they do not strike deep.

Take the matter of money worries, for example. During the depths of the depression a great many children gave evidence that they "got the idea."

"I hope mommie's not going to be sick," said one child, and she fretted and fretted.

"Why do you worry so, darling?" said her aunt.

"O, auntie, if she does, what'll we do? We can't call the doctor because we can't pay all the money we owe him now, and medicine's so expensive, and we haven't paid the bill at the drug store."

Children can't be kept from realities, but it's not right to burden them, directly or inadvertently, with adult woes before their time.

"You and Your Young Child" is a new comprehensive booklet. Send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, the Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

No sooner did Mrs. Mario Braggiotti arrive in Lake Forest to visit her stepmother, Mrs. William E. Clow Jr., than she fell prey to Chicago's own special flu bug. Mrs. Braggiotti hopes to recover sufficiently to visit with her many Chicago friends before she departs on Saturday to rejoin her husband on a concert tour thru the south. Mr. Braggiotti and Jacques Fray, the other half of the piano team, have engagements which will keep the group in the south for at least five weeks.

Mrs. Taylor Strawn is deserting Lake Forest today for the sunnier skies of Arizona. Until the middle of March she will be staying at the Remuda ranch near Wickenburg, just west of Phoenix.

Drama League Is Giving Large Breakfast Today.

The largest breakfast the Chicago Drama league ever has held is a birthday party it is giving today to celebrate a year's run in Chicago of "Life with Father." The breakfast is being held in the grand ballroom of the Drake at noon, with Mrs. Clarence Day, widow of the author of the book; Russel Crouse, co-author of the play; Oscar Serlin, the producer; Lillian Gish, Percy Waram, and other members of the cast as special guests.

More than 500 reservations for breakfast have been made. The speakers' table is being decorated in the style of the '90s, and there will will be a birthday cake. Mr. Serlin, Mrs. Day, Mr. Crouse, Howard Lindsay, and the entire cast are giving a first anniversary celebration on Saturday night at the Blackstone theater following the performance.

The ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club will have its quota of feminine guests this morning when Carleton Smith lectures on "Fantasia" at 11:30 o'clock under the sponsorship of the benefit committee of the Woman's auxiliary of Grant hospital. Mrs. Henry Bartholomay is entertaining at luncheon after the lecture. The hospital will receive the proceeds from the Chicago première of Walt Disney's animated musical film on Feb. 19 at the Apollo theater.

Universal day—A good day to decide issues, break ground and follow your own advice.

Personal days—The personal days are different from the universal days because they are based on the addition of the month and day of your birth together with the personal year that you happen to be having. Thus every one who is having a one-year will naturally have the same personal days and those having a two-year will have the same personal days, etc. Since there are nine cycles, naturally there is the possibility that many people with whom you associate might be having the same personal year and thus the same personal days as you are having. You can check up with them and see if some of their general experiences are not the same. Remember that their numbers may not necessarily work out in exactly the same way, but that the general pattern should be the same.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1941 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

Platinum Mink Coat May Be Available in a Year for $50,000

By the end of 1941, if the mink mutations are as good as the mink men think they will be, some fine lady may be able to purchase a fine platinum mink coat for $50,000.

This became known yesterday at the fourth annual meeting of the Mink Breeders' association of the United States, which opened at the Hotel La Salle. Two Wisconsin mink breeders, William Whittingham of Arpen, and Guy Ingham of Spencer, now have about 90 live purebred platinum minks.

The first so-called platinum mink popped up, a freak, on Mr. Whittingham's mink ranch about 11 years ago. At first dismayed, he later decided to cross-breed it with a dark furred mink. After 10 years' struggle, he at last produced a strain he thinks is perfect, and yesterday displayed two silvery pelts from it.

"If we can get enough to make a coat within the next year, it'll be worth $50,000," he assured the 300 breeders.

Music Notes

The Ravinia Festival association announced yesterday that Frederick Stock would conduct the Chicago Symphony orchestra in two preseason concerts at the North Shore park on June 28 and 29; that Sir Thomas Beecham would serve as conductor during the first two weeks of the festival [July 1 to 12], and that after the regular six week symphonic season there would be four chamber music concerts by the Budapest String quartet.

City and County Offices Will Be Closed Tomorrow

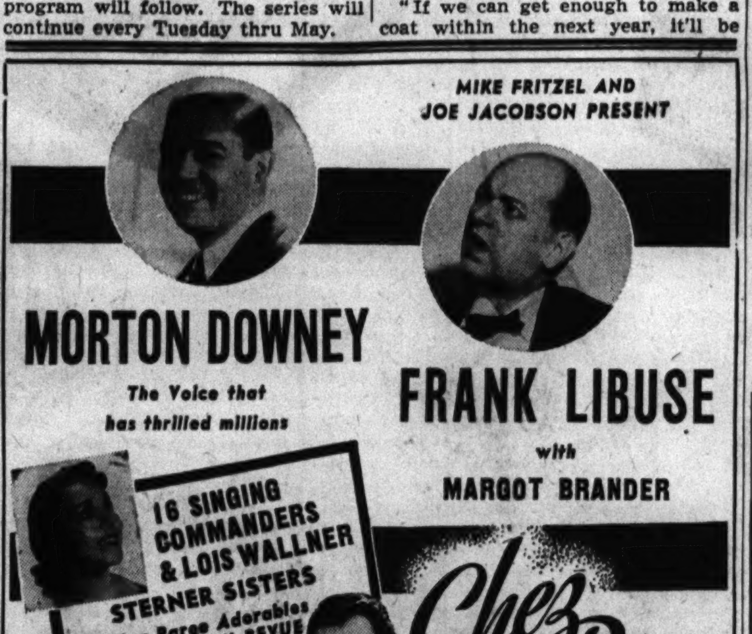
City and county offices and the County, Criminal, and Municipal courts will be closed tomorrow in observance of Lincoln's birthday. Exceptions will include the coroner's offices in the county building and the police, fire, and water departments in the city hall. The federal courts will remain open.

School children will enjoy a holiday, and the administrative offices of the school board, park district, WPA, and Illinois Emergency Relief commission will be closed.

The Adler planetarium, the Lincoln and Garfield park conservatories, and the Field museum will be open. The museum will present a special motion picture program depicting Lincoln's life. At the Garfield Park conservatory the statue, "Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight," will be flanked with beds of red and pink azaleas with an American flag in the background.

Army Calls Graham Aldis Into Service as a Captain

Graham Aldis, 135 East Deerpath road, Lake Forest, a real estate dealer, was called yesterday into active army service as a captain in the Chicago ordnance procurement office under Col. Donald Armstrong. Capt. Aldis was on the reserve list. He served as a first lieutenant of infantry in the world war.



Don't Forgive Beau Too Soon After Scolding

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

Young women, when you have succeeded in chastising a young man who plainly deserved punishment, don't immediately succumb to that temptation to refute the good work, as you are planning, Margaret.

You relate that the boy's behavior in your home was crude and unforgivable, and that you ordered him to leave, which he did. In the next breath you want to sit down and write to him, or telephone him, that you were hasty in what you said. That would be inviting a return engagement of the same behavior, or behavior even more gauged to objectionableness.

What if you do lose a friendship such as that? Is it worth trying to recapture? It is not. Maybe, after the lesson has sunk in and the young man proffers humble apologies, a new trial may be extended. But DON'T, please, put yourself in the position in the man's eyes of deliberately inviting a repetition of the disagreeable behavior.

Be a little hard about the standard you have set for yourself. A little callousness in this regard earns men's respect. If the fellow is worth while, he will be the one to do the apologizing. If he fails, check him off as no good for you, and let that end that experience.

We do get a bit weary hearing of how you young women told a man off for conduct unbecoming to a gentleman, and then get all in a dither for fear of losing him forever. If you girls don't hold to your standards, how are young men going to be made aware of them, we ask you. Stick it out, girls! Don't be wishy-washy!

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Northwestern's Wildcats fought the good fight last night, but not even their best was enough to prevent Wisconsin from winning, 48 to 46, in 45 minutes of earnest, if not elegant, basketball in Evanston's high school gym.

For the better part of the game it appeared that Northwestern would score its second victory in six Western Conference starts, while breaking the Badgers' winning streak at five straight. But the conclusion of the overtime found the visitors still heading the standing with six triumphs and only one loss.

McCarnes Is Hot.

Northwestern, paced by the sharpshooting of Don McCarnes, who led all scorers with nine baskets and a free throw, was ahead at the intermission, 23 to 17.

Forward John Kotz headed the Wisconsin scorers with eight field goals, but Gene Englund, the Badgers' giant center, projected himself into the individual lead in Big Ten point making by connecting for three baskets and nine free throws. His 15 points gives him a total of 92 for seven games, three more than the 89 by Dick Fisher of Ohio State.

Butherus Ties Score.

The most valuable shots of the evening were made by Englund and Al Butherus, indefatigable Wildcat captain. It was Englund who came thru with the deciding basket with two minutes of the overtime remaining. Probably more important to the howling Wildcat audience, however, was Butherus' free throw in the final 15 seconds of regulation play on Charley Epperson's foul. That effort tied the score at 44 to 44, after Englund had followed up Kotz's attempt from the side to put the Badgers in front, 44 to 43, with 70 seconds remaining.

Kotz and Don Kruger of Northwestern, in addition to Englund, made field goals in the overtime. Summary:

INDIANA, 50; IOWA, 40

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 10 [Special].—Withstanding an Iowa rally in the last half, Indiana's basketball team defeated the Hawkeyes, 50 to 40, before 4,000 tonight. The Hawkeyes outscored the Hoosiers in the second period after Coach Branch McCracken had made frequent Indiana substitutions.

Bob Menke, shifted from substitute center to starting forward, paced the Hoosiers with 10 points, but Capt. Vic Siegel, Iowa forward, carried off scoring honors with 12 points before he was ejected late in the game on personal fouls.

Led by Forwards Bob Menke and Jay McCreary, Indiana held a 23 to 9 lead at half time. Menke hit three one handed baskets after McCreary scored the first two. The Hawkeyes

MOON MULLINS—TOP O' TH' HEAP

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

MAJ. JOHN L. GRIFFITH, commissioner of athletics in the Western conference, has sent athletic directors a memorandum which this department believes will interest fathers and mothers everywhere. It reads:

"It has been frequently suggested that boys between the ages of 16 and 21 should be compelled to enter youth camps to train for national defense. A recent Gallup poll shows that 79 per cent of those quizzed answered the following question in the affirmative: 'Do you think that boys between the ages of 16 and 21 who are out of high school should spend one year in a training camp learning things useful to our defense program?' If youth camps are established for reasons that already have been advanced by those who favor them, this would mean, would it not, that the educational institutions are not believed to be doing the work desired? No attempt has been made by the proponents of the youth camp idea to show that the boys now of school and college age are not being given such training as would fit them for national defense in the schools and colleges of the country.

"If youth camps to accommodate all the boys between the ages of 16 and 21 were established and a course of work laid out, is it not true that in the first place the instructors who would be sent to these camps to teach vocational training would for the most part be men who are now teaching vocational subjects in the educational institutions? Further, undoubtedly courses in health education and physical education would be conducted for the young men in the youth camps. Again the instructors undoubtedly would be men who have been doing the same kind of work in the schools and colleges.

"The idea of youth camps was broached last June. It has repeatedly been advanced since that time. Apparently the people have thought of only one side of the subject. If 79 per cent are in favor of having these camps established, we should come to the defense of the educational institutions that thru the years have been doing better work along various lines than perhaps is recognized by those who now are favoring the youth camp idea."

GUESSERS BUSY, BUT LAYDEN JOB IS STILL OPEN

Board Holds 2d Meeting to Consider Successor.

Shaw Withdraws?

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Feb. 10 [Special].—L. T. [Buck] Shaw today in a statement to San Francisco newspaper men asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration for the position at Notre Dame vacated by the resignation of Elmer Layden. He said he intends to remain at Santa Clara.

Notre Dame, Ind., Feb. 10 [Special].—While both amateur and professional guessers were having one of their dizziest days, Notre Dame officials tonight stuck by their guns and proceeded carefully toward the eventual selection of an athletic director and head football coach.

Shaw Report Denied.

Adding ammunition to the speculation which has followed resignation of Elmer Layden a week ago to become National Football league commissioner was a report last night that Lawrence [Buck] Shaw of Santa Clara has already been signed for the dual post. This was immediately denied by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C. S. C., vice president of the university.

The faculty board met in its second session tonight and Father Cavanaugh said there will be at least one more meeting, probably Wednesday night, and possibly others in which the board will discuss candidates.

Officials Act Slowly.

Father Cavanaugh branded as premature and false all reports that a successor has been decided upon. While cognizant of the tremendous public interest aroused by Layden's resignation, Father Cavanaugh said that the university will not make a hasty decision, but will go into the matter of a successor thoroly. No announcement will be made until after the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of the university, has considered the recommendations of the board following the final meeting, and has completed negotiations with the new man. This may be within the next week or ten days.

LIONS HUNT FOR COACH REDUCED TO '4 OR 5 MEN'

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 10 (AP).—Graham P. Smith, general manager of the Detroit Lions, said tonight selection of a coach for the pro eleven had narrowed down to "four or five men."

Among those prominently mentioned for the post held last season by George [Potsy] Clark, now football coach and public relations director of Grand Rapids [Mich.] university, were Pete Cawthon, former Texas Tech coach, Bill Edwards of Western Reserve, and Bill Kern of West Virginia.

Smith said he and Owner Fred L. Mandel Jr. had conferred with Edwards last Friday and with Cawthon yesterday in Chicago.

Riggs Beats Kramer in South Florida Net Final

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 10 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, former national champion, won the South Florida tennis tournament today by defeating Jack Kramer, young Los Angeles player, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

All-Breed Dog Show Opens in New York Today

The show has been reduced from a three day to a two day event, with speeded judging going on from morning until late at night. Entries this year have been restricted to dogs that have won ribbons at previous shows, and other steps have been taken to facilitate the work of the judges. A number of Chicagoland dogs have been entered.

The American cocker spaniel, with 125 candidates to be judged tomorrow, has the largest number of entries for one breed. Breed judging is to be finished Wednesday morning, judging of the six variety groups is to be done that afternoon, and the show's climax is to be the award for best dog of show and best American bred dog late Wednesday night.

Golden Gate Track License Is Suspended

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10 (AP).—The state racing commission today suspended the Golden Gate Turf club, located across the bay from San Francisco, Chairman Jerry Giesler saying he had been advised by State Steward Chet Jones that the track was unsafe for racing because of heavy rains.

The suspension order will halt racing tomorrow. The commission will meet again Wednesday at Albany to decide if the suspension is to be continued. Indications were that purses and stakes would be cut, whenever racing is renewed.

The Golden Gate Park at Albany last week filed a petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities of approximately $600,000 and asking that it be allowed to continue racing. In five days of operation the track handled slightly more than $500,000. Attendance has been poor because of bad weather.

GROOMS WIN DEMANDS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10 (AP).—A temporary armistice between the Los Angeles Turf club and its grooms was made permanent today. The grooms went on strike last Thursday, a few minutes before the start of the first race at Santa Anita park, but returned to work Friday, with the understanding they would arbitrate their differences before Jerry Giesler, chairman of the California Racing commission.

The grooms won restoration of licenses for five of their members who were disqualified by the track because of a series of altercations. They also won a ruling that no licenses may be suspended or revoked without cause.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament moved into its second stage last night with the opening of the north side novice tournament in Loyola gymnasium. The fans who jammed the arena were regaled with a show that moved even faster than the south side event did last week. In two rings the slugging went on without a letup.

The size of the field made it necessary to double the pace of eliminations so that the contestants will be cut down to two in each weight division during the three consecutive nights of fighting. Some of the boys who won last night will box again this evening. Others will make their first appearance in the tournament. Thus the fans who attend tonight are assured of another program replete with action and variety.

Eligible for Open Bouts.

Tomorrow evening's bouts will determine the makeup of the north side novice contingent which will be eligible for the open division tournament in the Coliseum Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week. Nearly all of Chicago's most skilful and experienced amateurs are preparing to go into action in this event.

Just about everything happened in the course of last night's bouts. With two sets of novices performing all the time, there was never a chance for the program to settle into a routine.

Stanley Flack and Jerry Lanier, for instance, brought the crowd up roaring with their slapstick tactics. At the opening bell they sprang up simultaneously from their corners and literally ran at one another. They met precisely in the center of the ring, both swinging roundhouse punches that they'd started when they were several feet apart.

Lanier Regains Feet.

Both missed and the impetus carried them far apart again. Turning they rushed at one another and Flack belted his rival with a thumping right. Lanier dropped with a thud and Flack almost fell over him.

By the time Referee Dave Miller had chased Flack to a corner Lanier had rolled over and regained his feet. They charged one another again, Flack knocked Lanier down and was so keyed up with excitement that he was about to fall on him and continue the pummeling when the referee interfered.

Both boys squared off and charged again. Another of Flack's blows caught his rival on the head and put him down for good.

Frank Brabenetz and Stanley Skotnicki showed themselves to be two of the gamest fighters in the tournament. Brabenetz won after three rounds of strong, sustained slugging, but Skotnicki showed an amazing capacity to keep on coming back after being on the verge of a knockout.

It's a Real Battle.

In the early stages of the bout, Skotnicki took the offensive and rushed his opponent to the ropes. He connected with a hard right that sent Brabenetz momentarily to the canvas. Then Brabenetz got up, met

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Willie Hoppe, 50; Art Rubin, 38.
Joe Chamaco, 50; John Fitzpatrick, 29.
Jay Bozeman, 50; Otto Reiselt, 25.
Jake Schaefer, 50; Art Thurnblad, 33.

TODAY'S MATCHES.

1:30 p. m.—Arthur Rubin vs. Earle Lookabaugh.
3—Jake Schaefer vs. Otto Reiselt.
8:15—Willie Hoppe vs. Welker Cochran.
9:45—Jay Bozeman vs. Allen Hall.

The "stop Willie Hoppe" cry at Bensinger's arena on South Wabash, where the world three cushion tournament is drawing to a close, became fainter last night, as has been the tendency for several evenings. The defending champion, continuing his spectacular sway over the nation's best billiardists, made Art Rubin of Brooklyn his 13th consecutive victim. The score was 50 to 38 in 58 innings.

Hoppe has four more matches to play before the tournament ends Friday night and even if he loses [small type, Mr. Printer] two he will finish his 17 game schedule in at least a tie for first place. Hoppe won 20 games in last year's tournament in the same arena. There is a report, which has not yet been verified, that the New Yorker lost a match back in the early '30s. Today Hoppe will meet Welker Cochran, once one of his most gifted rivals. The Californian, tho, has not shown his old time form in this meet.

Chamaco Beats Fitzpatrick.

Joe Chamaco, the unpredictable Mexican cueist who was expected to do great things in the tournament, finally got around to making his annual contribution in yesterday afternoon's second match. In the course of a 50 to 29 triumph over lanky John Fitzpatrick of Los Angeles, Joe dashed off the high run of the tournament, a sparkling 12 in the fifth inning.

Chamaco's performance topped the best previous efforts, a pair of elevens, one made by Jake Schaefer of Chicago on Jan. 25 and the other fired by Art Rubin of New York City on Feb. 6. Oddly enough, none of these fancy strings resulted in short games, for Chamaco took 53 innings yesterday. Schaefer went 48 and Rubin 57 before they ran out in their high run contests.

Welker Cochran went into a tie for fourth place with Allen Hall in the final night game when he defeated Hall, 50 to 39, in 50 innings. Cochran's high run was 6, Hall's 7.

Bozeman and Schaefer Win.

The first game of the afternoon saw Jay Bozeman, the bespectacled California red-head, come thru with another typically fast game. He whipped Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia veteran, 50 to 25, in 34 innings. The result marked Bozeman's 11th win in 13 games.

Jake Schaefer of Chicago advanced to a second place tie when he scored his eleventh victory defeating Art Thurnblad, of Kenosha, 50 to 33 in 46 innings to wind up the afternoon session.

Firestones Strengthen for Bruins' Game

When the Chicago Bruins and Akron Firestones meet in a National Basketball league contest, and East Chicago opens the second half of the Windy City league schedule against the Doc Masons tomorrow night in the 132d Regiment armory, Notre Dame, Loyola, De Paul, and six of the Big Ten universities will be represented in the lineups of the four teams.

Five of the Bruins—Wibs Kautz, Mike Novak, George Hogan, Bill O'Brien, and Vince McGowan—competed at Loyola; Stan Szukala, Coach Frank Linskey, and Ray Adams of the Bruins, and Lou Possner of the Doc Masons are former De Paul stars; Bill Hapac led the Big Ten in scoring while playing at Illinois; Johnny Moir, Tommy Wukovits, Paul Nowak, and Paul Du Charme of the Firestones were Notre Dame regulars; Elmer Johnson of the Bruins and Cleo Diehl of East Chicago played with Northwestern, Fred Beretta of the Firestones and Tommy Dickinson of East Chicago played at Purdue, Art Oliver and Hod Powell of East Chicago starred at Indiana and Wisconsin, respectively, and Angie Anapol of the Doc Masons was one of Iowa's best a year ago.

The Firestones, hopeful of winning their way into the league playoffs, have induced Paul Nowak and Howard Cable of last year's championship team to join the squad for its final long trip of the season.

WES FERRELL, 33, WINS A TRYOUT WITH THE BEES

Boston, Mass., Feb. 10 (AP).—Impressed by Wes Ferrell's claim that his pitching arm has regained much of its former skill, President Bob Quinn of the Boston Bees agreed today to give the 33 year old right hander another chance to get started in the National league.

Ferrell, now in Sarasota, Fla., asked Quinn for an opportunity to prove his worth and the latter acquiesced by long distance telephone.

Walker Holds Ken Overlin to Draw in Ten Rounds

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 10 (AP).—Paulie Walker, veteran Trenton ring campaigner, gained a surprise draw with Ken Overlin, middleweight champion [in New Jersey] in a 10 round, nontitle bout tonight. A crowd of 2,500 received with approval Referee Paul Cavalier's draw decision, but observers at ringside gave Overlin anywhere from six to eight rounds. Walker opened a cut over Overlin's left eye in the fourth, but it was only a slit that did not reopen during the balance of the battle.

Creighton to Play De Paul on Double Bill

Creighton University of Omaha and City College of New York, will invade the Chicago Coliseum Friday night to battle De Paul and Loyola, respectively, in a basketball double header. It will be the first appearance on the double header card for Creighton.

Creighton won the invitation to appear on this week's bill by winning 13 of its first 16 games. The Bluejays, one of the fastest quintets in the country, have already defeated such standout teams as Minnesota, Kentucky, the Southeastern conference champion, and Michigan State.

City College of New York, coached by Nat Holman, will bring a team that has come back after a mediocre start. The Beavers defeated Fordham Saturday night, 41 to 40.

Bill Holzman, red-headed forward of the Beavers, will play opposite Mickey Rottner, Loyola ace, and fans are likely to see one of the best scoring duels of the season. Both are high scorers, Holzman having counted 18 points against Santa Clara, and Rottner being coholder of the Coliseum scoring record with 22 points against Kansas.

ARNE ANDERSON DROPS GREEN IN 1ST AT MARIGOLD

St. Paul Heavy Scores in 2 Minutes 9 Seconds.

Arne Anderson, St. Paul heavyweight, knocked out Frank Green in 2 minutes 9 seconds of the first round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Marigold gardens last night. Anderson, a slugger, dropped the colored boxer for a six count before finishing him. The bout topped a card which attracted 1,411 fans. The gross gate was $1,626.08.

Frank McBride of Chicago beat Settimo Terracina in the eight round semiwindup. The decision was booed. Other results:

Richard Rigali beat Billy Blake, Moline [4].
Tito Taylor beat Bobby Berger [4].

Tony Zale sparred three rounds with Mike Edwards yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium for the first defense of his middleweight championship in a 15 round bout with Steve Mamakos in Chicago Stadium Feb. 21. It was the champion's first boxing drill since he won a split decision in a nontitle fight with Mamakos in the same arena Jan. 10

Tony Is Unimpressive.

Tony didn't look impressive because he refused to cut loose with the dynamite which floored the challenger twice in an earlier encounter. He was down to 163 pounds after yesterday's workout, only three more than the class limit.

Mamakos was scheduled to reach town from Washington, D. C., today, but his arrival likely will be postponed until tomorrow.

Beckwith Says He's Ill.

Duke Callaway, Beckwith's trainer, said Beckwith would be unable to fight because of illness, but the promoter said the claim is erroneous; that Beckwith is enjoying excellent health.

Hezzie Williams, Illinois Athletic club amateur light heavyweight champion in 1940 and 1941, will be opposed by Vincent Calzaretta in a five round headliner tonight in Savoy arena, 47th street and South Parkway. . . . Probability that he will be inducted into the army has forced Vincent Pimpinella, Brooklyn middleweight, to turn down a contest with Nate Bolden in Marigold Gardens next Monday.

Hawks Go Thru Hard Drill for a Tough Week

Manager Paul Thompson held the first of three intensive practices in the Stadium yesterday in preparation for the toughest week-end schedule the Blackhawks have faced this year. Today and tomorrow the Hawks will be sent thru 90 minute workouts. Thursday they will meet the Montreal Canadiens, who ran up a 7 to 5 victory over the Hawks in Montreal Dec. 26. Friday the Hawks clash with the Red Wings in Detroit and Sunday they'll be back in Chicago to meet the New York Americans.

All the Hawks were present during yesterday's workout altho two, Dave MacKay and Bill Carse, watched the proceedings from the sidelines, MacKay with an arm in a sling and Carse carrying crutches. The rest of the squad is in good physical shape.

Altho the loss of Sunday's game to the champion Rangers was somewhat perturbing to the Blackhawks who lamented their inability to score enough goals to win in the more than 60 chances they had against Goalie Dave Kerr, Manager Thompson found solace in the fact that it was the first defeat for the Hawks before the home town fans in seven appearances.

Bill Thoms' assist on Bob Carse's goal in the second period against the Rangers sent him another notch ahead as the Hawks' leading point maker. With 25 points, which include 11 goals and 14 assists, Thoms is three points ahead of George Allen.

GAME WARDENS MAKE POLICING PART TIME JOB

Osborne Gives Reasons for Dismissals.

BY BOB BECKER.

An explanation for the recent firing of 147 state game wardens was given by Livingston Osborne, new state director of conservation, yesterday noon during a meeting of 250 sportsmen at the Hotel Sherman. The luncheon was sponsored by Ducks Unlimited.

Repercussions of the wholesale firing, which occurred after the new Republican state administration took office, will soon be heard as a result of court action taken on behalf of the expelled wardens. Most of the men fired were Democratic appointees who had passed a civil service examination after the last election.

Checking All Dismissals.

Osborne said yesterday a checkup now is being made of all the game wardens who were dismissed to determine if they held outside jobs at the time they were being paid by the state to police hunting and fishing.

"Under Gov. Green," he said, "a crusade has been started to eliminate graft and waste from the conservation department. We have found that some game wardens were holding full-time jobs and doing their state work as a sideline. We also have found that game wardens were making false reports to Springfield that they were using state-owned automobiles for checking game and fish conditions when as a matter of fact they were using these cars for other purposes."

He Talks Turkey.

Osborne also told the sportsmen that state records of the last few years show unusually high prices were paid for building equipment houses on state game farms. He reported that the former state conservation department was spending $20,000 per year to feed and care for a flock of 400 wild and 200 tame turkeys in an effort to stock the state with these birds despite the fact that there is no suitable cover for them in Illinois.

Tom Main, general manager of Ducks Unlimited in Canada, cited some startling facts on the annual losses in the duck crop and told how Ducks Unlimited was working in the Canadian marshes to grow more birds.

He said that of an estimated crop of 109 million ducklings hatched last spring about 80 million died before the fall hunting season opened. He listed the losses due to drouth at 20 million ducks. Crows and magpies destroyed 16 million ducklings, fire killed another 13 million, and predators accounted for about 16 million birds.

"When it comes to increasing our waterfowl crop, it's not a question of closing down on all hunting to do it," said Main. "It's a problem of reducing losses on the nesting grounds. Hunters killed just 9 million birds last fall."

TEACHERS SEEK 12TH STRAIGHT HOME VICTORY

The Chicago Teachers College basketball team will seek its 12th consecutive home victory Saturday night against the Iowa Teachers of Cedar Falls in the Chicagoans' homecoming game.

The Colonels already have won nine straight games this season on their home court, and triumphed over George Williams College and Wheaton College in their last two home games last season. Among their beaten guests so far this year have been Nebraska State, Arkansas State, George Williams College, Concordia of River Forest, Illinois Tech, and De Kalb.

In Saturday's game the Colonels will attempt to avenge a 20 to 19 defeat at the hands of the Iowa Teachers a week ago.

GOLDEN GLOVERS FIGHT ON TONIGHT IN LOYOLA GYM

a new charge, and knocked Skotnicki down with a straight left. Brabenetz then pressed his advantage. He put Skotnicki down repeatedly in the second round, but the latter rallied again and again. Somehow or other, Skotnicki weathered the second round and came back in the third to stand up and slug almost on even terms with his rival.

Things looked bad for Leonard Stalker when he was floored by Conrad Bergeson in the first round of their welterweight bout. Bergeson had shown considerable power in his early attack. Stalker, however, pulled himself together and came back to put his opponent down for a count of eight with a hard right cross in the second round. That one punch was the turning point of the fight. Stalker forged ahead thereafter and had a narrow margin at the finish despite Bergeson's late rally.

The Tribune Public Service office yesterday received the first impact of the early demand for tickets to the Golden Glove events in the Coliseum and the Stadium. It was the opening day of the over-the-counter sale of tickets. There was a heavy demand for reservations to the Chicago finals in the Coliseum a week from tomorrow, for the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 24, 25, and 26, and for the finals in the Stadium on March 7.

Fans Follow Favorites.

Many Chicago boxing fans like to follow their favorites thru all of these successive stages of the campaign. Those who attended the open division bouts in the Coliseum last year saw three local boys—Savior Canadeo, Harold Dade, and Cornelius Young—who went all the way to championships. Incidentally, some of their hardest fights in the entire battle for Golden Gloves occurred in those early engagements in the Coliseum.

Past records have shown that Chicago amateur boxers in general make a superior showing to those from the other 43 centers where teams are being chosen for the Tournament of Champions. One reason may be the unusually rigorous local tournament, which sharpens them up to perfect condition for the subsequent events in the Stadium. The fans who attend next week's matches in the Coliseum therefore may expect to spot several fighters with good chances to go on to titles.

College Golden Glover Is Big and Versatile

One of the most versatile contestants last night in the North Side Golden Gloves in Loyola gymnasium was Ino Buddeke, 6 foot 3 inch light heavyweight from Illinois Tech. In addition to playing basketball on the freshman team, Ino is outstanding in hockey, ping pong, and football.

Stanley Banach, novice lightweight, an unemployed electrician, last night was competing in his second tournament since the Golden Gloves of 1936. He qualified for this evening's second round by eliminating Carl Saari. His opponent tonight will be Sammy Washington of the C. Y. O.

Sonny Weissman, assistant athletic director at Illinois Tech, will be one of the referees of the Springfield State Register sectional tournament in Springfield tomorrow and Thursday.

Tom Sheehan, manager of the Minneapolis Millers of the American Association, and Tony Kaufmann, former Cub pitcher, were among the spectators last night. Kaufmann will manage Rochester next season.

Livingston Osborne, director of conservation for Illinois and a Golden Gloves judge, was back on the job as an official last night.

Lew Bloom, of Cleveland, chairman of the National A. A. U. boxing committee, was in the city yesterday making preparations for the arrival of the Cleveland Golden Gloves team which will compete in the tournament of champions in the Stadium, Feb. 24, 25, and 26.

Parker and Fenger split a double-header in the south section of the Chicago public high school league basketball race on the latter's court yesterday. The Parker juniors won their seventh straight victory by 30 to 18. The Fenger seniors won, 46 to 31, for their fourth victory in seven starts.

A break in the schedule will send four leagues into action this afternoon and evening. The three way tie for first place in the north section senior race in the City league will be broken when Lake View invades Senn. The two quintets are tied with Roosevelt, each having won five and lost one.

Leo, undefeated in seven starts in both the junior and senior divisions in the south section of the Catholic High school league, will play at St. Rita. Lineups:

ILLINI ROUT MAROONS

Capt. Joe Stampf, Chicago's star, accounted for 16 points, but he got little help from his teammates, with the result that Illinois' basketball team dealt the Maroons their sixth straight Big Ten defeat, 55 to 29, in the Midway field house last night. Illinois' triumph was its fourth in seven games.

Stampf went to work early and also concluded the evening's scoring, his six field goals and four free throws bringing his grand total for the season to 85 points, enough to put him in third place in the Big Ten individual race. The point making efforts of nine Illini were just too much for him, however.

A free throw put Chicago out front in the first minute, but Bob Richmond sank a basket to give Illinois a lead it never relinquished. The Illini led, 22 to 12, at the half. Art Mathisen, Harold Shapiro, and Wayne Staley, the last named a little guard who came into the game with the second team, each dropped in four baskets for the Illini. Lineups:

MEISTER BRÄU Brewmaster

We won't add sugars or syrups to the brew!

And we still bottle with only Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created in the beer itself

We found out 50 years ago that short cuts don't pay—if you want good beer! We're not against change. We put in the latest improved equipment right along—like for bottling, and better aging vats. But for brewing. No! We still use the old, slow methods.

Adding sugars or syrups to the brew—that's a short cut we could use, an easy one. But we'll keep on brewing all-grain beer just as always.

And we'll keep on bottling with only Natural Draft Beer Carbonation created right in the beer itself. You'll get natural life and sparkle, true all-grain flavor unchanged in bottling whenever you ask for MEISTER BRÄU.

If you want to find out how much old ways of brewing add to beer enjoyment, do the "50-Degrees" Test—the test beer experts use when they want the real truth. Too much cold disguises the real flavor of a beer. But at 50 degrees temperature, true flavor shows up: all the delicate tastes, good or bad, which cold hides.

So get some MEISTER BRÄU from your retailer and taste and compare with any other brand—regardless of price. Phone now for free delivery.

Southern Pacific Adopts 6 Day Work Week.

Effects of the defense program on industry were reflected yesterday in the award of contracts totaling $288,267 by the army and navy departments to Chicago area companies, an increase in the nation's steel production rate, and extension of the work week by the Southern Pacific railway.

Two utility companies announced improvement plans involving expenditures of $6,000,000. Louisville Gas and Electric company said that it would build a $5,000,000 power plant to increase its output in Louisville, Ky., 27 per cent. Operation of the new unit is expected by June, 1942. Birmingham Electric company said that it will spend $1,000,000 in 1941 on modernization and construction.

Steel Rate Put at 97.1%.

Steel will be produced in the mills of the United States this week at 97.1 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated.

This rate is an increase of .2 of a point from last week and compared with 95.9 per cent a month ago and 68.3 per cent a year ago.

January shipments of finished steel products by United States Steel corporation subsidiaries totaled 1,682,454 tons, the largest for any January on record and within 1 per cent of the May, 1929, all time peak, the corporation reported. The shipments represented an increase of 137,831 tons from December and 536,852 tons from January, 1940. In May, 1929, shipments were 1,701,874 tons.

A six day work week to keep ahead of transportation needs due to the national defense program has been established in all Southern Pacific railway locomotive, freight, and passenger car repair shops, J. H. Dyer, vice president in charge of operations, said.

Affects 13,000 Employés.

This change from the five day week became effective Feb. 1. It affects nearly 13,000 employés, including 500 shopmen who were returned to the pay roll. The wage scale remained the same, Dyer said. The expansion means another day's pay, on the basis of the wage scale previously paid for the five day week.

American Hair and Felt company, Chicago, artillery ammunition components, $2,397; Carborundum company, Chicago, honing stones, $1,857; George P. Nichols & Brothers, Inc., Chicago, machinery, $14,710; Sterling Products company, Chicago, hardware, $1,319; Edmund A. Allen Lumber company, Chicago, lumber, $2,010; Simmonds Saw and Steel company, Chicago, steel, $1,280.

BUILDER SHOWS ITS NEW LIGHT RAILROAD CAR

A new streamlined railway passenger car, made by the Pressed Steel Car company, was placed on exhibit yesterday at the La Salle Street station. The car will remain on display today and tomorrow. Its construction marks the company's entry into the light car field. New York Central railroad has placed an order for 25 of the cars.

Constructed mainly of aluminum alloys and "cor-ten" steel, the car weighs 111,200 pounds, 28,800 less than those of standard steel construction. It has revolving and reclining seats for 80 passengers.

The car was manufactured at the company's McKees Rocks, Pa., plant. The company, with general offices in Pittsburgh, also operates a freight car plant in Chicago.

Forest Park, River Forest Phone Rate Boosts Delayed

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10 (AP).—The Illinois Commerce commission today suspended until June 27 the effective date of proposed increases in rates for Forest Park and River Forest by the Illinois Bell Telephone company. The company had asked that the rates become effective Feb. 27. The commission said the delay was to permit time to investigate the higher rate schedule.

WHEAT FUTURES LEAD DOWN TURN IN GRAIN PRICES

Market Ends at Loss of 1 to 1⅛ Cents.

Liquidation of holdings of wheat futures attributed to speculators who bought recently caused a break of around 1¼ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. The market showed no disposition to rally and the close was at losses of 1 to 1⅛ cents. Other grains followed wheat. Corn declined ⅝ to ¾ cent and oats were ¾ cent lower. Soy beans lost 1 to 1¼ cents.

Continued favorable weather and crop reports from the southwest had considerable influence on sentiment. A weather bureau report said precipitation in Kansas during December and January was the second heaviest on record.

May Wheat 6 Cents Over July.

May wheat was about 6 cents a bushel above July price, and the big discount for the latter delivery was said to have caused holders of the actual grain to try to unload, in order to avoid being forced to carry the wheat over into the 1941-42 season.

Reports from the southwest said there was no increase in country offerings, but the muddy condition of interior roads prevented farmers from hauling grain to elevators. Flour business was reported in fair volume.

U. S. Sells Corn in West.

The Commodity Credit corporation was reported to have sold about 265,000 bushels of corn on the North Pacific coast recently, asking 78½ cents a bushel for the grain. This price is about 5 cents less than it could be shipped from Omaha, brokers said. Land grant freight rates were said to permit the government to ship grain west at a lower cost than to other interests.

Mild weather and the poor condition of country roads prevents farmers from selling corn freely, it is said, and the mild winter has resulted in the grain failing to dry out as it normally does in December and January.

CHECK VOLUME RAISED BY FIRST OF MONTH BILLS

Check transactions thru banks in 274 United States cities in the week ended Feb. 5 totaled $9,589,000,000 with first of the month payments lifting the volume above the preceding week, the Federal Reserve board reported yesterday. Business done by check a week earlier had totaled $8,703,000,000 while in the corresponding week last year transactions amounted to $8,208,000,000.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported an increase of 8 per cent in the seventh reserve district last week over the preceding seven day period and a 26.9 per cent rise over the corresponding week last year. Debits to individual checking accounts thru 158 banks in 41 clearing house cities of the district totaled $1,455,951,000 compared with $1,347,826,000 in the preceding week and $1,146,877,000 in the corresponding 1940 week.

Debits reported for the city of Chicago totaled $836,967,000 compared with $635,222,000 in the corresponding week last year.

MASTER FAVORS 'ACCEPTANCE OF BUILDING'S PLAN

Victor E. LaRue, special master, yesterday filed with Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward a report recommending approval of the Transportation Building corporation's petition for reorganization of its bonded debt. The corporation operates the 22 story building at 608 South Dearborn street.

The plan would extend the $2,306,300 in bonds outstanding from May 15, 1958, to May 15, 1978, and provide for maximum interest of 5 per cent payable from income, if earned.

The purpose of the proceedings, according to J. G. Fisher, secretary of the corporation, is to gain the benefits of an agreement whereby the lessor of one of the properties would reduce the ground rent from $55,000 to $25,000 a year, with increasing rents as the net income of the building rises.

American Airlines Makes Traffic Gain in January

American Airlines, Inc., operated 22,034,853 revenue passenger miles during January, compared with 17,771,167 in the same 1940 month, Lewis W. King, district sales manager, reported yesterday. Revenue passengers numbered 57,788 last month, against 45,939 in January, 1940.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

The hog market was under pressure of heavier receipts yesterday and lost 15 to 25 cents of the recent gains. Most weakness was in stock under 240 pounds. Top loads reached $8.15 a hundred pounds at the start, but similar kinds sold later at $8. The day's average dropped 20 cents to $7.75.

Chicago during the day received 27,000 hogs, compared with 15,995 Monday of last week and 8,500 last Friday.

Only 10,000 cattle arrived, the second smallest Monday total in more than a year. The $15.75 a hundred pounds top was paid for 1,307 pound steers. Slight gains in heifers were lost late.

Advances of 10 to 15 cents were registered in lambs, with top loads at $10.75, higest in 10 days.

ROCK ISLAND LINE TO SPEND MORE ON IMPROVEMENT

Court Approves Budget of $7,797,058.

The 1941 improvement budget of the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, providing for total expenditures of $7,797,058, was approved yesterday by Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe.

Of the total improvements scheduled for this year, $6,583,232 was designated for improvements on roadway. Other provisions of the budget called for $844,576 improvements to equipment and $369,250 for the purchase of new equipment.

The road's improvement budget in 1940 came to $7,486,099, of which $6,622,718 went for roadway and $863,381 for improvements to equipment.

Bought by Special Order.

Last year's budget contained no provisions for the purchase of new equipment, but large orders were placed during the year under special order of the court.

The new equipment item of the 1941 budget includes the purchase of 10 small Diesel-electric locomotives for yard service and two passenger train cars. Five of the Diesel-electric locomotives will weigh 30 tons each and the other five will be of the 44 ton type.

The new equipment will be in addition to the 1,100 new freight cars and four Diesel road locomotives recently authorized by the court. All of this equipment has been received, except two of the Diesel locomotives.

Will Have 80 Diesels.

E. M. Durham Jr., chief executive officer of the railway, said that with delivery of the two Diesel road locomotives and the 10 switch locomotives, the road will have a total of 80 Diesel engines in service. Of these, 18 will be in road operation and 62 in yard service.

Included in the proposed expenditure for roadway is $2,742,337 for rails, switches, and track fastenings. The budget provides for the laying of 35,000 tons of new rail over nearly 196 track miles and 23,900 tons of relay rail over 147 track miles. Among other expenditures, the budget also lists $1,440,238 for improvements to bridges in continuing the road's bridge improvement program under way for the last five years.

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK 'ADVANCE SOUGHT BY CUBA

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 10 (AP).—President Fulgencio Batista asked congress today for authorization to negotiate with the United States Export-Import bank for a loan of $14,000,000 to finance a sugar reserve of 400,000 tons.

The loan would be repaid from proceeds of the existing 6 cents a bag tax on sugar, and the sugar itself would be stored in bonded warehouses as guaranty of the loan.

Informed circles said negotiations for the loan already have taken place in Washington and that only favorable action by congress is necessary to complete the transaction.

AMERICAN MAGNESIUM.

Is the American Magnesium corporation an independent organization or is it owned by some other concern. Is it German controled?—K. F.

Answer: The American Magnesium corporation until recently was controled jointly by the Aluminum Company of America and the General Aniline & Film corporation, each having one-half interest.

General Aniline reported that its investment in American Magnesium at the end of 1939 consisted of 43,750 shares of common stock with a book value of $772,012. Last week it sold its half interest to Aluminum company.

General Aniline formerly was affiliated with the I. G. Farbenindustrie A. G., large German chemical enterprise which was instrumental in its organization in 1929. The name of General Aniline before 1939 was American I. G. Chemical corporation. Its $22,408,000 of outstanding debentures are still guaranteed by the German company. Control of General Aniline is now held by the International Corporation for Chemical Enterprises of Basle, Switzerland.

American Magnesium recently denied that it was subject to German influence or that patents it uses were controled by German companies. It has been indicted with several other companies on federal charges of unlawfully curtailing the supply of magnesium in this country.

The company had been inactive for eight years when operations were resumed at its Buffalo, N. Y., plant last July to meet increased demands for fabricated magnesium metal products. Expansion to triple its output was undertaken last fall. Its products include metal castings for aircraft engines, wheels for bombing planes, powder and sheets.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER.

Do you know whether the Shell Union Oil corporation has gone into the manufacture of synthetic rubber as some other oil companies have done recently?—E. B.

Answer: Shell Oil Company, Inc., a subsidiary of the Shell Union Oil corporation, has been reported drawing plans for a $3,000,000 plant at its refinery in Deer Park, Tex., for the manufacture of synthetic rubber from petroleum gases. No other unit of the company is now engaged in commercial production of synthetic rubber.

ILLINOIS' HOME VACANCY PLACED AT 3 PER CENT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Director William L. Austin of the census bureau issued a report today on revised figures which showed that Illinois had 2,281,302 dwelling units on April 1, 1940, when the housing and population census was taken.

There were 67,494 units, or 3 per cent, vacant and for sale or rent, and 2,193,114 units occupied by enumerated households. The remaining 20,694 units included vacant units held for absent households and some temporarily occupied by nonresident households.

74 Per Cent in Urban Areas.

Of all reported dwelling units, 74 per cent were in urban areas [incorporated places of 2,500 or more population], and 26 per cent were in rural areas. Three per cent of the urban and 2.9 per cent of the rural dwelling units were vacant and for rent or sale.

Austin said the number of private households in Illinois increased approximately 13.7 per cent from 1930 to 1940. This compared with a population increase of 3.5 per cent in the same decade.

The census figures showed that the average number of persons per occupied dwelling unit in 1940 was 3.6, compared with 3.95 in 1930.

EARNINGS FALL AS WOOLWORTH TAX BILL SOARS

1940 Sales Largest in Chain's History.

Altho sales were the highest in the company's history, 1940 earnings of the F. W. Woolworth company dropped to the lowest point since 1932, C. W. Deyo, president, announced yesterday.

Largely the result of increased taxes and smaller cash dividends from the British subsidiary, consolidated net income of the company and its Canadian subsidiary declined to $24,104,815, from $29,310,353 in 1939. The year's income was equivalent to $2.48 a share, compared with $3.02 a share in 1939.

Net sales of stores operated in this country, Canada, and Cuba totaled $335,474,819, an increase of $16,635,156 over the 1939 volume.

British Funds Reduced.

Deyo said the 1940 statement excluded undistributed income of the British subsidiary because of a change in accounting policy. The 1939 net income included $1,506,638 of undistributed earnings from this source.

Because of lower exchange rates and higher foreign taxes deducted at the source, he said cash dividends from the British company had declined $1,811,270 last year. At the same time the company increased its United States tax reserve by $2,400,000 because of the higher rates in effect.

"In view of the anticipated expansion of consumer buying power the management is optimistic over prospects for increased business thru 1941," Deyo said.

Inventories Are Increased.

Woolworth's inventories at the end of the year amounted to $51,899,926, compared with $47,459,023 at the close of 1939. Current assets and liabilities as of Dec. 31 totaled $80,880,573 and $18,842,149, respectively, against $70,642,500 and $16,379,178 at the end of 1939.

The Monarch Machine Tool company, Sidney, O., reported 1940 net income of $1,183,102, or $5.63 a share, compared with $529,577, or $3.53 a share, in 1939. The company manufactures lathes and other tools.

Net income of the Continental Steel corporation, Kokomo, Ind., totaled $778,738, equal to $3.23 a share, compared with $1,208,199, or $5.28 a share, in 1939.

The United States Tobacco company, New York City, realized net income of $3,977,376, or $2.08 a share, in 1940, compared with $3,396,153, or $1.76 a share, the year before. The 1940 figure included $702,193 in net refunds of federal taxes for prior years.

Testifies Arms Work Is Given to Few Areas

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Congress learned today that 20 industrial areas, with a little more than one-fifth of the country's population and a smaller percentage of the total number of Work Projects administration workers, had received about 75 per cent of the defense contracts.

Howard O. Hunter.

Howard O. Hunter, acting WPA commissioner, submitted a statement to a house appropriations subcommittee which considered an urgent deficiency appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1941, in which he asserted that defense stimulation is unevenly distributed.

Two States Get 22 Per Cent.

"More than four-fifths of WPA employment is in areas which have received only a little more than one-fourth of the defense awards," he said. "Eight industrial areas have received over one-half of the defense awards, altho they contain only 14 per cent of the population and 13 per cent of the WPA workers."

New Jersey and California, Hunter said, had received nearly one-fourth of the defense contracts, but had only 8.4 per cent of the population. New Jersey led with 12 per cent of all defense contracts; California was next with 11.7 per cent.

The percentages of defense contracts for the other 10 states leading in defense work were: New York, 11.3; Pennsylvania, 9.5; Virginia, 8.5; Massachusetts, 7.7; Connecticut, 5.3; Michigan, 5.2; Washington, 4.75; Illinois, 3.1; Missouri, 3.1; Maryland, 3.0.

These 12 states, Hunter stated, with 48.3 of the country's total population, had 85.1 per cent of the defense orders and 45.0 per cent of the WPA workers.

Figures by Areas.

The 20 industrial areas and the percentage of defense contracts they received were cited by Hunter as:

New York City, Newark, and Jersey City, N. J., 11.6 per cent; Philadelphia, and Camden, N. J., 9.5; Boston, 7.2; Norfolk, Newport News, Portsmouth, Va., 5.7; Los Angeles, 5.0; Seattle, Tacoma, Wash., 4.8; San Francisco, 4.0; Detroit, 4.0; Baltimore, Annapolis, Md., 2.5; Bridgeport, New Haven, Waterbury, Conn., 2.2; San Diego, 2.2; Hartford, Conn., 2.1; Washington, D. Disclose Sale of Big German Firm's Bonds

New York, Feb. 10 [Special].—The entire holdings of International General Electric company of $10,000,000 face value of participating debentures of Siemens & Halske, A. C., of Berlin and Vienna, largest electrical manufacturing concern in the world outside the United States, were sold in December for cash, in United States dollars, at a price in excess of face value, it was disclosed today.

It was indicated that the unidentified purchaser was acting for the German government and the corporation with the intention of repatriating the securities. They comprised between 40 and 50 per cent of the entire Siemens & Halske debt.

Sold at Premium in 1930.

Offered publicly in the United States by Dillon, Read & Co., in the amount of 35,000 debentures at $933 per debenture of $400 face value in February, 1930, International General Electric is believed to have paid approximately $22,500,000 for 25,000 debentures. The issue commanded a premium owing to indenture provisions intended to eliminate from the interest rate the effect of depreciation of the reichsmark in terms of gold dollars. It was also exempt from any existing or future German taxes.

The interest rate was to be not less than 6 per cent per annum, or $24 per debenture payable in United States gold coins, but payments in gold were suspended in 1933 and for several years interest was paid partially in scrip. At the end of 1938 holders of a substantial part of the debentures accepted an offer to pay interest in dollars at a fixed rate of 4½ per cent annuall, duly paid in 1939 and 1940.

Believed Still Held Here.

An official of Siemens, Inc., United States representatives of the German electrical corporation, said today that he had no knowledge of the sale or transfer of the participating debentures by International General Electric. The consensus in financial circles is that the debentures are still in the United States, awaiting transfer to Germany for cancellation or retirement.

International General Electric company is the wholly-owned subsidiary of the General Electric company. It handles foreign engineering, manufacturing, and selling activities and foreign investments of the General Electric company. It also represents other American manufacturers in foreign countries and has investments in Germany, Holland, Belgium, France, and other European countries.

AUTO MAKERS PILING UP HUGE NEW CAR STOCK

Look to Day Defense Will Cut Output.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 10 (AP).—The nation's automobile assembly plants are turning out new cars at the rate of more than 1,500 each working hour altho the stock of unsold new vehicles already is nearing the highest point in the industry's history.

Company owned parking fields crowded with vehicles just off the final assembly lines and a steady procession of such cars to warehouses are immediate results of this high level production program that has been in effect for several months.

The stock of unsold cars already exceeds a half million, but the industry expects to sell every vehicle before the end of the current model year.

Will Avoid Re-Tooling.

The present model year began on Oct. 1. Whether production will continue thru July and August as is customary is anybody's guess, according to authoritative trade sources. Already close to 2,300,000 of the 1941 model vehicles have been produced.

Almost at the outset of the 1941 model year the car manufacturers were told they could expect no new machine tool equipment during the ensuing year. This has been followed by a request that the industry contribute further to the national defense by making available for munitions production certain special metals heretofore used in car manufacture.

Aside from zinc, of which the automotive industry uses about 12 per cent of the nation's annual consumption, the special metals desired for the defense program were not named.

Metal Need Anticipated.

The industry's announcement of its coöperation in the plan, however, said that "very large quantities of special metals" would be made available in a "major contribution to the national defense," without delay.

Because the need was anticipated by the motor car manufacturers, plans for the utilization of alternate metals and production methods already are well under way. They are to be put into effect as soon as model changes are made.

There has been no indication of exactly how far the study of alternate materials has progressed, but the changes to be made cannot entail extensive new tooling of plants. What tools become available are to go into defense work.

Thus, say the trade observers, the switch from the models making up the present big "reserve" supply of 1941 models conceivably could be made on short notice if the Office of Production Management considered such action necessary.

64 FERTILIZER FIRMS NAMED IN TRUST CHARGES

Winston Salem, N. C., Feb. 10 [Special].—Federal indictments under the Sherman antitrust act were returned today against two trade associations, 64 corporations, and 36 individuals in the fertilizer industry. Included were Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. of Chicago, and most of the fertilizer producers of the country.

A special federal grand jury which had been in session since February, 1940, turned in the true bills in a 97-page report made in United States District court before Judge Johnson J. Hayes.

The indictments charged conspiracy to fix prices and to suppress competition over a period of ten years. Charles J. Brank, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer association, one of the agencies named, denied the charges.

'Freezing' Axis Funds Hinted by Morgenthau

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau said today he was "optimistic" about action on proposals to "freeze" axis and other foreign funds in the United States. He declined to elaborate, saying only when asked about the prospects for action that:

"Being a farmer, I am naturally optimistic."

Morgenthau, President Roosevelt and other officials have said frequently that the administration was considering the freezing of other foreign funds as the assets of the invaded European countries have been already frozen.

Questioned About Mexico.

Morgenthau also was asked whether treasury officials were discussing with Mexico any methods of stopping the withdrawal of axis funds from the United States to Mexico, but he referred the questioner to the state department.

Edward H. Foley Jr., general counsel, and Harry D. White, director of monetary research at the treasury, have been in Mexico during the last week. The secretary said they were there for "a general study."

A report that $4,369,000,000 in foreign assets in the United States have been frozen was given to congress today. Undersecretary Daniel W. Bell of the treasury gave this breakdown:

Denmark — $92,000,000, including $55,000,000 in bullion, currency, and deposits and $27,000,000 in securities.

Norway—$175,000,000, [$100,000,000 in bullion, currency, and deposits and $54,000,000 in securities].

Dutch Total 1,619 Millions.

Netherlands—$1,619,000,000, [$796,000,000 in securities and $700,000,000 in bullion, currency, and deposits].

Belgium—$760,000,000, [$442,000,000 in bullion, currency, and deposits, and $251,000,000 in securities].

Luxemburg — $48,000,000, [$30,000,000 in bullion, currency, and deposits, and $16,000,000 in securities].

France—$1,593,000,000, [$988,000,000 in bullion, currency, and deposits, and $448,000,000 in securities].

COURT UPHOLDS BAN ON 2 LEVEL AUTO CARRIERS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—The Supreme court affirmed today a three judge federal court decision upholding a 1939 West Virginia law which barred the operation of motor vehicles having two levels for the carriage of other vehicles.

Constitutionality of the legislation was challenged by the Philadelphia-Detroit Lines, Inc., which transports new automobiles from Detroit to Georgia and Florida. The company contended the law was an unconstitutional burden on interstate commerce.

West Virginia officials said the legislature had found the operation of such vehicles was "dangerous to the public and harmful to the highways."

Chicago Area Freight Car Loadings Set 12 Year High

Freight car loadings in the Chicago terminal district totaled 205,891 in January, most for the month in 12 years, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. A year ago loadings were 183,289 cars. The terminal district includes the area bounded by Gary, Joliet, Aurora, Elgin, and Waukegan.

JANUARY PLANE OUTPUT EXCEEDS KNUDSEN HOPES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—Military plane production in the United States totaled between 900 and 1,000 during January, an official in the office of production management disclosed today.

This was better than William S. Knudsen, director of the OPM, had anticipated last December. In an address Dec. 13 to the National Association of Manufacturers, urging that every effort be made to speed the output of munitions, Knudsen said that the hope for production of 1,000 planes during January would have to be scaled down by 30 per cent to be correct. This indicated that he believed the numbed of planes would not exceed 700.

Declared Best in World.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 10 (AP).—Contending that American democracy, as an "amateur" in warfare, is rapidly overhauling Germany's "professionals" in armament building, Archie T. Colwell, president of the Society of Automotive Engineers, asserted tonight that "our newest [air] fighting designs are the finest in the world."

TREASURY PLANS 'SAFE KEEPING' SHIFT OF GOLD

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10 (AP).—The treasury plans to move $500,000,000 in refined gold from its San Francisco mint to Denver, Colo., for safekeeping in the fiscal year starting July 1.

To pay postal costs of the shipment the house appropriations committee recommended today that congress appropriate $125,000. In addition it proposed appropriation of $47,500 to finance the shipment of 200,000,000 ounces of refined silver from the New York assay office to the West Point silver repository.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the mint, told the committee that, while storage facilities at San Francisco were "good," it was "regarded good policy to keep the major part of the gold away from the coast." She said that on June 30 the bureau would have $639,238,287 in gold at San Francisco.

Bond Stores, Inc., Sales Up 20 Per Cent in January

Bond Stores, Inc., reported yesterday January sales were 20.8 per cent larger than a year ago. Sales totaled $2,333,707 compared with $1,931,862 in January, 1940. The company reported its December dollar volume 46 per cent ahead of the preceding year.

SCHALLER SOON TO QUIT CHICAGO RESERVE BANK

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

George J. Schaller, head of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago for the last eight years, will retire March 1 and return, at the age of 67, to his business interests in Storm Lake, Ia., where he was born and where he learned "practical" banking.

The next meeting of the bank's directors is scheduled for Feb. 27, the fourth Thursday in the month, which is the customary time for the annual election of officers.

Stepping down as chief of the nation's second largest federal reserve bank two years after the retirement age, "Governor" Schaller is going back home to his large farm holdings and the Schaller family's bank—the Citizens First National at Storm Lake, of which his son, Harry W. Schaller, is president.

"I'm behind on my fishing, and I want to get back to the home town to catch up while my health is still good," Schaller said last night.

Named in December, 1933.

Schaller was elected acting head of the reserve bank in December, 1933, when the chief officer was officially called governor. Under the banking act of 1935 the title was changed to president, and in 1936 a new election was held, at which Schaller was named to a five year term which will expire March 1.

The bank's directors reached into Iowa for Schaller at a time when, as president of the Storm Lake bank, he was steering it safely thru the black years of the early 1930s. He and his father had founded the Citizens bank, and the younger Schaller became its head when his father died in 1922, during lean years for farmers.

Schaller stepped into one of the biggest banking jobs in the nation as successor to J. B. McDougall, who took a leave of absence in 1933 and resigned in 1934. McDougall had been governor of the Chicago bank since its founding in 1914.

The Chicago bank serves the 7th federal reserve district, which includes all of Iowa, northern Illinois, northern Indiana, southern Wisconsin, and part of Michigan. Howard P. Preston is first vice president, and other vice presidents are C. S. Young, J. H. Dillard, and W. H. Snyder.

Ranked as Conservative.

Schaller, in his capacity as president of the bank and, after March, 1938, as a member of the open market committee of the federal reserve board, has been one of the conservative forces in the councils of federal banking authorities during years when sweeping changes have been made in banking practice. He has repeatedly urged bankers in the 7th district to give business a helping hand thru loans where possible.

The open market committee of which Schaller was elected a member in 1938 makes decisions concerning purchases and sales of government bonds and other paper by the 12 federal reserve banks.

Schaller is listed in Who's Who as a Presbyterian, a Republican, and a member of the Union League club and the Rotary club. He was chairman of the Liberty loan drives in Buena Vista county, Iowa, during the world war, and was president of the Iowa Bankers' association in 1927-'28.

STOCKS ADVANCE, THEN FALTER ON SMALL TURNOVER

Big Majority of 'Leaders' Finish at Losses.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Efforts to keep stocks on their recovery course failed in today's market.

Industrials did fairly well in the morning, but light selling developed and the close was irregularly lower. Declines ranged from fractions to a point or so for relatively active leaders. Some few retained modest gains.

Transfers amounted to only 294,610 shares against 341,000 Friday. Both turnovers were the lowest since Sept. 16. The Associated Press average of 60 issues was off .1 of a point at 42.2.

As in past weeks, brokers said, war and taxes remained as the principal impediments. Business developments were on the favorable side, but apparently uninspiring marketwise.

Some nervousness was aroused, it was suggested, by the British severance of diplomatic relations with Rumania.

Woolworth Dips ⅛ Point.

Woolworth dipped ⅛ in the wake of the company's earnings statement revealing a substantial drop due to taxes and slackening dividends from its British subsidiary.

General Motors was up ⅜, but Chrysler slipped ¾. Among other losers were Santa Fe, United States Rubber, American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, American Can, Allied Chemical, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Bath Iron Works, Anaconda, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, and General Electric.

Clinging to advances were Eastman Kodak, du Pont, Cerro de Pasco, Texas Corporation, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pennsylvania, Western Union, Consolidated Edison, Paramount Pictures, New York Shipbuilding, and International Harvester.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading was mixed in turnover of 20,000 shares on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of the 88 active issues, 26 advanced, 34 declined, and 28 closed unchanged. Central and South West Utilities, the volume leader, sold unchanged at ⅛ in transfer of 1,800 shares.

Only three dually listed stocks traded from 2 to 3 o'clock changed from the New York close. United States Steel and Indianapolis Power and Light each gained ⅛ point to 62⅞ and 20¼, respectively, and Sears, Roebuck increased ¼ point to 73.

New York Bonds.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP).—Moderate demand for low priced rails partly offset an indifferent performance in other sections of today's bond market. Gains in the carriers ranged from small fractions to a point with best marks posted by roads undergoing reorganization.

United States governments were only slightly changed either way.

Bank Stocks.

LEAD MARKED UP; MAY WOOL SETS NEW PRICE PEAK

Most Other Commodity Futures Advance.

A new 1941 high in wool tops futures and a 0.15 cent a pound advance in cash lead were the high spots of yesterday's commodity trading. Futures were mostly higher, with lead, zinc, rubber, hides, Santos coffee, cocoa, and domestic sugar showing advances. Silk and cottonseed oil lost moderately and copper prices were uneven.

The new lead price, a boost of $3 a ton, is 5.65 to 5.70 cents a pound New York basis and 5.50 cents, East St. Louis. Officials of the major producer initiating the raise said that the higher price was necessary because the company was compelled to use foreign lead to supply demand. The new price compares with the three year high of 5.80 cents, New York, and 5.65 cents, East St. Louis, that was reached last November following a rush by consumers to obtain supplies. When demand dwindled, the quotation was cut twice in quick succession.

Wool Peak Price Pared.

Wool tops for May delivery advanced to a peak $1.22 3-10 a pound and closed at $1.22 bid on active buying that left the price range unchanged to 0.4 cent higher. Cash wool tops were unchanged at $1.26½ a pound bid.

Santos coffee rose to 7.75 cents a pound in the May contract. Firmness in the Brazilian market lifted futures 0.11 to 0.16 cent.

Rubber futures were unchanged to 0.12 cent a pound higher at 19.93 cents in the May position and the cash price edged forward 0.10 cent to 20 cents. Hides added 0.01 to 0.06 cent a pound at 12.26 cents in June futures.

In the metal futures markets, lead followed the cash market advance and gained 0.07 to 0.10 cent a pound. Zinc finished unchanged to 0.35 cent higher and copper was 0.01 cent higher to 0.05 cent lower at 11.48 cents a pound for May deliveries. Tin was unchanged. Prices follow:

Would you be interested in starting a business for yourself without 1 cent of investment on your part?

Well, that is exactly what we have done for many men in this territory.

These men are previous storekeepers, doctors, lawyers, shopworkers, mechanics, etc. and are now earning and receiving in percentage as much as $50 for a single day.

At this time we will only interview men living on the South Side and southern Cook county.
